HOW TO SPEAK HILLBILLY BY WOGER WISEMAN:

"Basios"...word Woger uses when he gets neeeerrrrvous.
"Behing"...a cross between being and behind?
"Feamle"...I think he meant female.
"Losser"...only loser Roger can do it better.
"Ignroant"...typical, considering the source.
"Sluprs"...only Rogie knows what this means.
"Travelled"...a Rogerism, replete with ignorance.
"Postss"...pssst...Roger..that should be Posts.
"Defgenerate"...well, it's Roger's word...
"Faity"...he meant to say Fairy, but you know Roger.
"Distribiution"...Roger likes using phonics.
"Biotch"...he meant Bitch, but his phonics took over again.
"Methjadone"...a West Virginia substitute for Heroin.
"Anoinymous"...a cross between anonymous and annoying?
"Sumbliminal"...one of Roger's favorites.
"Recepticle"...either of Roger's moist cavaties.
"Cociane"...a West Virginia drug of choice?
"Tiome"...Roger meant to say Time...but his fingers were numb.
"Beraking"...no definition. Could mean 'beraking' the leaves,
"Amny"...he meant 'any',
"Nlay"...a town in Maylaysia? Vermont?
"Al;ong"...only Wussman knows what this means.
"Becasu"...well, becasu Roger is not the brightest bulb on the tree.
"Seperation". Why? Because Roger cannot "seperate" from his mommie!

July 11, 2000

CERTIFIED MAIL--RETURN RECEIPT REQUESTED

Mr. Roger L. Wiseman

Glendale, WV 26038-1302

SUBJECT: Amateur Radio license KC8JBO

Dear Mr. Wiseman:

Pursuant to Section 97.519(d)(2) of the Commission's Rules, 47 C.F.R. Section 97.519(d)(2), the Commission has the authority to re-administer any examination element previously administered by Volunteer Examiners (VE's). The Commission may either administer the examination itself, or under the supervision of a Volunteer Examiner Coordinator (VEC) or VE designated by the Commission.

Accordingly, we are requiring you to re-take the General Class Amateur Examination, (Elements 2, 3(A) and 3(B)) under the supervision of an American Radio Relay League Volunteer Examiner Coordinator. This examination must be completed on or before September 11, 2000. The required code speed that you must demonstrate is 5 words per minute.

Please be prepared to verify your current address and to present a photo identification. Pursuant to Commission rules, your license will be cancelled if you do not appear for re-examination. You will be granted an Amateur Radio license consistent with the elements you pass upon re-examination.

Sincerely,

W. Riley Hollingsworth

Special Counsel, Amateur Radio

Enforcement Bureau

Pull your foot out of your mouth before you choke on those fungus-ridden toenails, fuckhead.

I'M NOT A BIGGER GUY
WHEN I WAS A BABY IT WAS EXACTLY THE SAME SIZE
BUT THERE IS NOTHING I CAN DO
'CAUSE I ONLY HAVE A THREE INCH TOOL

COME HOME WITH ME
HAVE A COCKTAIL AT MY PLACE
I GOT TO TELL YOU BEFORE WE GET PAST SECOND BASE
IN MY PANTS AIN'T NO BIG SWING
BUT IF YOU CAN FIND HIM
HE'S A FRIENDLY LITTLE THING!
BUT THERE NOTHING I CAN DO
I ONLY HAVE A THREE INCH TOOL
WHEN I'M COMING OUT OF THE POOL
I ONLY HAVE A ONE INCH TOOL

SOMETIMES I WONDER IF IT'LL EVER EXTEND
I GET SO EMBARASSED WHEN I'M HANGIN' WITH MY FRIENDS
THE LIKE TO RAZE ME,
I DON'T KNOW WHY
THEY GET ME A HAPPY MEAL AND SUPERSIZE MY FRY
AND THERES NOTHING I CAN DO
I ONLY HAVE A THREE INCH TOOL
WHEN I'M COMING OUT OF THE POOL
I ONLY HAVE A ONE INCH TOOL

I fully accept that doing 5 wpm Morse test is much easier than doing a degree. But so are many things. I've never learned to: play the piano, sing (although I admit that probably is a lost cause in my case and I could well end up being labelled as a weapon of mass destruction), speak Welsh, or sword swallow. All for the simple reason that the gain (eg access to HF) does not warrant IN MY MIND the effort (limited or otherwise). In fact if the Morse test went tomorrow I wouldn't bother with HF if I had to change my callsign.

As I also have an M3 I could go on HF now but haven't and probably won't - may be not even after 2003!. I only did the Morse assessment as I teach the FL and it seemed like a good idea to try it.

So poke away if you choose but you are wasting your time. The key thing about a hobby is that you CHOOSE to do it in your own way.

Over this side of the Irish Sea it's not that difficult. Successive religious zeal.

Well, Fuckup, since I only had to take my General exam over and passed it with ease, several months before I passed my Extra, I guess that says a lot about my knowledge, and you've yet to produce any evidence ~you've~ even passed the Technician exam. Where's that callsign, Fuckup? Yet you still maintain that I had to retake the Extra, don't you, Fuckup?

Here's a fucking timeline, maybe it will sink into that granite skull of yours:

06/11/99 - I was granted my General license November, 1999 - received a poorly presented "jamming without proper or specific evidence" warning letter

July, 2000 - received a retest letter, no reason given sometime in July, I retook and passed my General exam....no sanctions, no reduction in license class.
Feb., 2002 - passed Amateur Extra exam and received Amateur Extra class license.
July, 2002 - Fuckup Lee still yammering about something he knows nothing about, as usual and par for the monumental fuckup.

Woger hunts dangerous cockroach in the trailer parks of West Vagina with his side kick Chason!

Tonight's episode Woger and Chason hunt the dangerous Bung Munch Roaches in Wiseman's own home (Bung Munch Roachs crawl up you butt and eat your innards out!)

Wiseman: Alrightie mate, be more very careful and be verrry vvverry quiet. Remember these roaches can smell your fear.

Chason: I ain't your mate, you mommie living fag!

Wiseman: Shhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhh I think they've already gotten mommie Marie! Blimey, I won't have to the bleeding trash out!

Chason: Why you talking like a 'Roo fucking aSStralian, you dick sucker? <Trip> <Fall> <SMASH!> You need to clean this place up you fucking pig!

Wiseman: Run like the wind mate, they know we're here!

Chason: Get your hand off my butt Wiseman! Arrrrrrrrrrgggggggggggggggg help something crawled up my ass, and it's to big for Wiseman! Eeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeee!!! Hellllllppppppppppppppp! The pain!

Roaches: MUNCH! MUNCH!

Rex Reid says: "That Wiseman is so BITCH!

WOGER
(Xemblinkosky/Davies)

He lives in a trailor park somewhere in West Vagina
Where he drinks down cum in the faggot bars and it tastes just like his mommy's Vagina,
See-oh-el-aye stinky Vagina!
He walked up to a fag and asked him to dance
And he'll tell you his name in a real girlie voice
El-oh-el-aye Woger, Wo-wo-wo-Woger!

Now Wiseman's not the most physical guy
But when he sucks your cock he'll inhale your spine
Oh my Woger Wo-Wo-Wo-ger!
Wo-ger Wo-Wo-Wo-ger!
Well Woger's real dumb and he can't understand
Why he walk like a woman but gets butt fucked like a man
Oh my Wo-ger Wo-Wo-Woger!

Well he drank a lot of cum and pranced all night,
Under his terrible overbite
Woger found a black man and sat down on his knee,

He said pretty brother will you make me a G?
Well that guy was a bum and wino but really fell for his Wo-ger
Wo-Wo-Wo-ger!
He push him to the floor
Woger got down on his knees
He looked at his pecker
He inhaled till he sneezed!

Well that is the way Woger wants to stay
Wo-Wo-Wo Wo-ger
Woger is a boy but dresses like a girl
He lives in a muddled faggot world

He'd only had sex with his mommy before
Well Woger's not the most masculine of fags
But he knows he is in drag,
Oh Wo-ger
Wo-Wo-Woger! Wo-Wo-Wo-Wo-ger!

HOW TO SPEAK HILLBILLY BY WOGER WISEMAN:

"Basios"...word Woger uses when he gets neeeerrrrvous.
"Behing"...a cross between being and behind?
"Feamle"...I think he meant female.
"Losser"...only loser Roger can do it better.
"Ignroant"...typical, considering the source.
"Sluprs"...only Rogie knows what this means.
"Travelled"...a Rogerism, replete with ignorance.
"Postss"...pssst...Roger..that should be Posts.
"Defgenerate"...well, it's Roger's word...
"Faity"...he meant to say Fairy, but you know Roger.
"Distribiution"...Roger likes using phonics.
"Biotch"...he meant Bitch, but his phonics took over again.
"Methjadone"...a West Virginia substitute for Heroin.
"Anoinymous"...a cross between anonymous and annoying?
"Sumbliminal"...one of Roger's favorites.
"Recepticle"...either of Roger's moist cavaties.
"Cociane"...a West Virginia drug of choice?
"Tiome"...Roger meant to say Time...but his fingers were numb.
"Beraking"...no definition. Could mean 'beraking' the leaves,
"Amny"...he meant 'any',
"Nlay"...a town in Maylaysia? Vermont?
"Al;ong"...only Wussman knows what this means.
"Becasu"...well, becasu Roger is not the brightest bulb on the tree.
"Seperation". Why? Because Roger cannot "seperate" from his mommie!

Roger's "female friend" is a well known cross-dresser in the Marshall county area. Roger gets quite excited when "she" wears short skirts and spike heels. Roger asks "her" to walk on his back with the heels on, while she loundly calls him filthy names. Actually, that's where Roger gets much of his material for Usenet.

Wiseman update! Picture of fat assed Woger Wiseman during his recent stay at the crazy house. Man is the fucker fat!

Update features pictures supplied by the Glen dale Area Ham operators!!!!

Pictures of the Wiseman's Mommie.

CAUTION: PICTURES ARE OF A GRAPHIC AND WHITE TRASH NATURE!!!!!

I ONLY HAVE A THREE INCH TOOL*
(HOOTIE/WISEMAN)

LITTLE ME, MY NUTS ARE AS SMALL AS PEARLS
YOU LIKE TO LAUGH AT ME BECAUSE I'M HUNG JUST LIKE A SQUIRREL
SOMETIMES IT BUGS ME
I'M NOT A BIGGER GUY
WHEN I WAS A BABY IT WAS EXACTLY THE SAME SIZE
BUT THERE IS NOTHING I CAN DO
'CAUSE I ONLY HAVE A THREE INCH TOOL

COME HOME WITH ME
HAVE A COCKTAIL AT MY PLACE
I GOT TO TELL YOU BEFORE WE GET PAST SECOND BASE
IN MY PANTS AIN'T NO BIG SWING
BUT IF YOU CAN FIND HIM
HE'S A FRIENDLY LITTLE THING!
BUT THERE NOTHING I CAN DO
I ONLY HAVE A THREE INCH TOOL
WHEN I'M COMING OUT OF THE POOL
I ONLY HAVE A ONE INCH TOOL

SOMETIMES I WONDER IF IT'LL EVER EXTEND
I GET SO EMBARASSED WHEN I'M HANGIN' WITH MY FRIENDS
THE LIKE TO RAZE ME,
I DON'T KNOW WHY
THEY GET ME A HAPPY MEAL AND SUPERSIZE MY FRY
AND THERES NOTHING I CAN DO
I ONLY HAVE A THREE INCH TOOL
WHEN I'M COMING OUT OF THE POOL

I ONLY HAVE A ONE INCH TOOL
YEAH IT'S SMALL BUT IT'S REAL COOL!
I'M HAPPY WITH A ONE INCH TOOL!

WOGER WISEMAN COCKROACH HUNTER premiers tonight on the Hillbilly Station!

Woger hunts dangerous cockroach in the trailer parks of West Vagina with his side kick Chason!

Tonight's episode Woger and Chason hunt the dangerous Bung Munch Roaches in Wiseman's own home (Bung Munch Roachs crawl up you butt and eat your innards out!)

Wiseman: Alrightie mate, be more very careful and be verrry vvverry quiet.
Remember these roaches can smell your fear.

Chason: I ain't your mate, you mommie living fag!

Wiseman: Shhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhh I think they've already gotten mommie Marie! Blimey, I won't have to the bleeding trash out!

Chason: Why you talking like a 'Roo fucking aSStralian, you dick sucker?
<Trip> <Fall> <SMASH!> You need to clean this place up you fucking pig!

Wiseman: Run like the wind mate, they know we're here!

Chason: Get your hand off my butt Wiseman! Arrrrrrrrrrgggggggggggggggg help something crawled up my ass, and it's to big for Wiseman!
Eeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeeee!!! Hellllppppppppppppppp! The pain!

Roaches: MUNCH! MUNCH!

Billy Jack and Joe Bob give it up fists up the bun!

Rex Reid says: "That Wiseman is so BITCH!

WOGER
(Xemblinkosky/Davies)

He lives in a trailor park somewhere in West Vagina Where he drinks down cum in the faggot bars and it tastes just like his mommy's Vagina,
See-oh-el-aye stinky Vagina!

He walked up to a fag and asked him to dance
And he'll tell you his name in a real girlie voice
El-oh-el-aye Woger, Wo-wo-wo-Woger!

Now Wiseman's not the most physical guy
But when he sucks your cock he'll inhale your spine
Oh my Woger Wo-Wo-Wo-ger!
Wo-ger Wo-Wo-Wo-ger!
Well Woger's real dumb and he can't understand
Why he walk like a woman but gets butt fucked like a man
Oh my Wo-ger Wo-Wo-Woger!

Well he drank a lot of cum and pranced all night,
Under his terrible overbite
Woger found a black man and sat down on his knee,
He said pretty brother will you make me a G?
Well that guy was a bum and wino but really fell for his Wo-ger
Wo-Wo-Wo-ger!
He push him to the floor
Woger got down on his knees
He looked at his pecker
He inhaled till he sneezed!

Well that is the way Woger wants to stay
Wo-Wo-Wo Wo-ger
Woger is a boy but dresses like a girl
He lives in a muddled faggot world

He'd only had sex with his mommy before
Well Woger's not the most masculine of fags
But he knows he is in drag,
Oh Wo-ger
Wo-Wo-Woger! Wo-Wo-Wo-Wo-ger!

HOW TO SPEAK HILLBILLY BY WOGER WISEMAN:

"Basios"...word Woger uses when he gets neeeerrrrvous.
"Behing"...a cross between being and behind?
"Feamle"...I think he meant female.
"Losser"...only loser Roger can do it better.
"Ignroant"...typical, considering the source.
"Sluprs"...only Rogie knows what this means.
"Travelled"...a Rogerism, replete with ignorance.
"Postss"...pssst...Roger..that should be Posts.
"Defgenerate"...well, it's Roger's word...
"Faity"...he meant to say Fairy, but you know Roger.
"Distribiution"...Roger likes using phonics.
"Biotch"...he meant Bitch, but his phonics took over again.
"Methjadone"...a West Virginia substitute for Heroin.
"Anoinymous"...a cross between anonymous and annoying?

"Sumbliminal"...one of Roger's favorites.
"Recepticle"...either of Roger's moist cavaties.
"Cociane"...a West Virginia drug of choice?
"Tiome"...Roger meant to say Time...but his fingers were numb.
"Beraking"...no definition. Could mean 'beraking' the leaves,
"Amny"...he meant 'any',
"Nlay"...a town in Maylaysia? Vermont?
"Al;ong"...only Wussman knows what this means.
"Becasu"...well, becasu Roger is not the brightest bulb on the tree.
"Seperation". Why? Because Roger cannot "seperate" from his mommie!

I wonder what Chief Stenger would say to arrest you, fuckhead? They've already said they'd turn into law enforcement any more letters like you sent them before. Seems like they tuirned those in, too. Guess you'd like that that way you'd be back being a prison bitch.

Yep, you momumental FUCKUP. You are the one saying the FCC "doubted my technical abilities" without substantiation. The retest letter says nothing of the kind, FUCKUP.
Looks like you are talking out of your ass and fucking up as usual.

06/11/99 - I was granted my General license
November, 1999 - received a poorly presented "jamming without proper or specific evidence" warning letter
July, 2000 - received a retest letter, no reason given sometime in July, I retook and passed my General exam....no sanctions, no reduction in license class.
Feb., 2002 - passed Amateur Extra exam and received Amateur Extra class license.
July, 2002 - Fuckup Lee still yammering about something he knows nothing about, as usual and par for the monumental fuckup.

The Great Pumpkin
Birmingham Post-Herald
October 14, 2000

Police arrested Lloyd A. Davies, a 27 year old white male, resident of Athens, Alabama in the Anderson Pumpkin patch at 11:38pm Friday. Davies will be charged with lewd and lascivious behavior, public indecency, and public intoxication at the Athens Municipal Courthouse Monday. The suspect allegedly stated that as he was passing a pumpkin patch, he decided to stop. "You know, a pumpkin is soft and squishy inside, and there was no one around here for miles. At least I thought there wasn't." he stated in a phone interview from the Athens Municipal Courthouse Jail.
Davies went on to state that he pulled over to the side of the road, picked out a pumpkin that he felt was appropriate to his purposes, cut a hole in it, and proceeded to satisfy his alleged "need". "I guess I was just really into it, you know?" he commented with evident embarrassment. In the process, Torrance apparently failed to notice the Athens Municipal police car approaching and was unaware of his audience until officer Brenda Taylor approached him. "It was an unusual situation, sure." said officer Taylor. "I walked up to (Davies) and he's... just working away at this pumpkin."
Taylor went on to describe what happened when she approached Davies. "I just went up and said, 'Excuse me sir, but do you realize that you are screwing a pumpkin?' He got real surprised as you'd expect, and then looked me straight in the face and said,
'A pumpkin? Damn... is it midnight already?"

The GAY-TEAM
- In 1972, a commando unit was sent to prison by a military court for gay acts they committed. These men promptly escaped a maximum security penitentiary to the San Francisco underground. Today, still wanted by the government, they survive as soldiers of gay fortune. If you have a problem, if no one else can help, and if you can find them, maybe you can hire The Gay-Team. -

"Howling Mad" Eric Oyen- This flaming homo went insane after his participation in the deal a meal program failed one too many times. He now resides in a mental hospital but The Gay Team frequently breaks him out when going on assignment. He constantly annoys Herpes but he is still a valuable member.

Sgt. Lllardassss Lllllllllllloyd- The enforcer of the group, he pities the fool who don't like drag queens. Although he can't stand Oyen, deep down he likes him and has saved his ass many times, mainly because he wanted a piece of it for himself.
His specialty is working on mechanical things such as hooking a vibrator to a and new ways to tie back his tiny schlong so he appears as a woman.

"CUNTFace" Turdeater - The best looking of the group, queers worldwide would do anything to get to see that fat naked ass. This smooth talking snake is the master of charm. Whether the assignment is infiltrating enemy lines or surviving on an island full of straight people, usually gets the blowjob done. If only he could beat that cocaine habit and drooling over his microphone.

I will take part in an US Amateur Radio Exam on the 15th of July, 2002 in Helsinki, Finland. But According to FCC rules I need an US postal address for my license, if I'll get/pass one.

Could some ham help me to get that US postal address? I would probably never visit that location of the address, unless we would become very good friends and I would some day have enough money to travel to the USA.
I would pay all costs sending the US license to Finland + other costs that might concern my license being located officially at an US address.

I'm taking part in the US exam because of self-educational purposes. As a student of electrical engineering at the Helsinki University of Technology I find particularly the exam of the amateur extra very challencing.

If you are willing to help me, E-mail me:

Mr. Roger L. Wiseman

Glendale, WV 26038-1302

SUBJECT: Amateur Radio license KC8JBO

Dear Mr. Wiseman:

Pursuant to Section 97.519(d)(2) of the Commission's Rules, 47 C.F.R.
Section 97.519(d)(2), the Commission has the authority to re-administer any examination element previously administered by Volunteer Examiners (VE's).
The Commission may either administer the examination itself, or under the supervision of a Volunteer Examiner Coordinator (VEC) or VE designated by the Commission.

Accordingly, we are requiring you to re-take the General Class Amateur Examination, (Elements 2, 3(A) and 3(B)) under the supervision of an American Radio Relay League Volunteer Examiner Coordinator. This examination must be completed on or before September 11, 2000. The required code speed that you must demonstrate is 5 words per minute.

Please be prepared to verify your current address and to present a photo identification. Pursuant to Commission rules, your license will be cancelled if you do not appear for re-examination. You will be granted an Amateur Radio license consistent with the elements you pass upon re-examination.

Sincerely,

W. Riley Hollingsworth

Special Counsel, Amateur Radio

Enforcement Bureau

Jarmo,

I am one of the guys who set up the volunteer examiner group for U.S. amateur radio testing along with Dick Irving K3FK back in the mid-nineties when we were both at the U.S. Embassy in Helsinki. I'm now retired from diplomatic service and living in West Virginia.

My wife is a Finn (now a naturalized American) whom I met during my first assignment in Finland back in the mid-eighties.

If you don't mind being issued an "8th area" callsign, you may use my address:

I need help with suppressing hum from fluorescent lights in our church sound system.

I know this is a fringe subject for this news group, but I did a search for any information on the subject and this is the only place I have been able to find any intellegent discussion at all. Also, my background as a radio technican makes me believe that radio people can solve any problem :-)

I have determined the hum is from some lights near the front of our church and is being picked up by the pastor's lapel mic. It is not being picked up by the other (wired) mics, nor is the problem at the receiver for the mic. It varies depending on how close he stands to the lights. It could be the mic element, the transmitter, or the wire connecting the two.

Solutions can include a different lapel mic (the one in use is a Tandy/Radio Shack model) a different light fixture or shielding around the bulbs and/or the balasts and wiring.

I worked in a radio lab once where the fluorescent tubes were jacketed by somthing similar to coax braid, but larger and made from a few large flat strands. I haven't been able to find that material lately (the ones we had there were supplied by Hughs Aircraft in the sixties).

Limitations on my project are that we don't have a lot of funds and the lights can be dimmer - but not removed.

Thanks
Rex

I suspect that the sentiment was similar to comparing a tech to an extra however, the difference is that there really have been those two classes available in G-land since the very early 70's. Actually, the difference between the old CLass A and Class B licenses was more akin to the difference between a 12WPM and a no-code Extra as the morse test was the only thing that set one beside the other.

The new Foundation Licence is vastly more elementary than the old US novice test. The morse assessment is truly a joke and can in no way be considered any test of morse sending or receiving competence.

Actually, I take back that previous sentence; the morse assessment would be sufficient for someone who only wanted to take part in the QRSS (ultra-slow speed morse) experiments on the 136kHz LF band!

Well, perhaps...

EBay to Buy PayPal for About $1.5 Billion in Stock (Update2)
By Greg Wiles

San Jose, California, July 8 (Bloomberg) -- EBay Inc., the world's largest Internet auctioneer, agreed to buy online-payment provider PayPal Inc. for about $1.5 billion to make it easier for users to send and receive payments on transactions.

EBay will exchange 0.39 a share for each PayPal share, the company said in a statement. That's an 18 percent premium to Friday's closing stock price. EBay shares fell as much as 4.4 percent in early trading.

About 60 percent of PayPal's business takes place on EBay, which plans to phase out the company's gambling operations after the purchase is completed. It expects about $13 million of costs a quarter related to the acquisition for stock-based compensation and the amortization of assets. EBay also said that second-quarter profit and sales were higher than forecast.
``It is very clear to us that EBay and Paypal can each help each other expand,'' Peter Thiel, Paypal founder and chief executive, said on a conference call with analysts and investors.

Other merchants also use PayPal's e-mail system, paying a fee on each transaction. Individual customers pay no fee to send or receive payments via their e-mail address after setting up an account with PayPal. The money is deducted from their credit card or checking accounts.
It will remain as an independent brand.

Mountain View, California-based PayPal said last month that second-quarter sales would be as much as $54 million and profit before some costs was expected to be 8 cents to 9 cents a share. It had first-quarter earnings of about $1.23 million, or 2 cents, on sales of about $48.8 million.
Paypal will replace EBay's money-losing EBay Payments by Billpoint unit, the companies said. EBay said it will phase out Paypal's gaming business, which was projected to account for as much as 15 percent of sales, because of the regulatory issues involved with online gambling.

Shares in San Jose, California-based EBay fell $1.79 to $58.76 in early trading. They had dropped 9.5 percent this year. PayPal rose $2.56 to $22.56. PayPal was the first Internet company to go public in almost a year when sold 5.4 million shares in February. The stock had surged 54 percent since the initial public offering.

EBay's net income was about $54.3 million, or 19 cents a share, on sales of about $266 million. The company had said it expected profit of 17 cents a share on sales of $260 million to $265 million. It earned about $24.61 million, or 9 cents, on sales of $$180.9 million in the year-earlier period.

Both companies will release complete second-quarter results on June 24. EBay is forecast to earn 17 cents a share, according to the average estimate of analysts surveyed by Thomson First Call.

Doug Moore has written a nice article about safety and AC/DC radios, which he has allowed me to publish at http://antiqueradio.org/safety.htm .

Poor Prison Bitch Eugene Paris, he thinks everybody is in the same boat as he is, uneducated and holding a menial job as an underling. {Eugene works at the

Hi Bill,
I have the software running on an XP machine and I get some strange lockups and occasionally the computer will reset for no appearant reason. The serial port I'm using is one provided through a USB Hub, so I'm not sure if that is contributing to the problem, but I'd label the program 'unstable' under XP. I haven't had a chance to try it under ME or Win98 yet.

I've been getting a lot of stuff from West Vagina Ham operators lately about our Woger. Since it's all pretty funny and really only confirms what we've know or suspected about Woger, I thought I'd share it with you:

1). Woger has been in and out of mental institutions for sometime. Most recently in 06/99.

2). Woger lives with his mommie (like that is a fucking surprise) and she was the one who had him sent to the funny farm last time.

3). Woger is a high school drop out who has never ever held anything but part time jobs. Yes, West Virginia that means no MASTER DEGREE and claims of a PLATINUM CARD so much horse shit.

4). Woger is morbidly obese, supposedly 297 lbs but he looks heavier. He is one fat gross piece of shit.

5). Woger was never in the Air Force.

6). Woger is a habitual liar.

If any of this is a surprise to any of you please let me know so I can laugh my ass off at you!

Well, then I think you have it wrong. If anything, the exams nowadays are harder, it's just the CW is easier since it only has to go to 5wpm.

In the old days you almost knew what the exam was. You could get what was called the 'Bash Books' and basically know what you needed to walk in and out with a ticket. Now you have 'question pools' that are at LEAST an order of magnitude than they used to be, you have many more varied and dissimilar topics, and you have a MUCH more controlled environment at the entry level.

You want them to wipe out their neighbours Hi-Fis ?

I can't think of a quicker way of getting a question asked in the house

"Mr Speaker, A member of my constituency, a Mrs Smegma of Acacia Ave.
what trying to listen the Archers on Radio 4, when a person calling himself M3xxx
calling CQ on 136, interfered with her listening What's the right honourable Mr Secretary of state for the Home office going to do about it ?"

You might notice that Woger projects all of his faults upon his

In the old days you never new what questions would be on the exam and you had to draw schematics of circuits and explaine how they worked.

1442. Question on FRS/GMRS

Now as I understand it, FRS and GMRS are similar - what GMRS gets you, in exchange for the license, is the ability to use an extra set of frequencies and a higher power level.

My first question is whether the license is tied to the use or to the equipment.

There are many GMRS radios that will transmit on the FRS frequencies - and some that provide a lower power setting that matches that of the FRS radios.

Would use of a radio capable of accessing the GRMS frequences and outputting GRMS power levels on the FRS frequencies alone, and at the FRS power levels, be considered a violation of the regulations, if done without a license?

And second, how many licenses are necessary?

If I buy three GMRS radios, obtain a license, and then hand two of them to my kids, and they engaged in a conversation in which I was not involved, would one of them need a license?

Amateur radio is neither FRS or GMRS - wrong group.

GMRS is "Class A" CB. Although most of the posts in "rec.radio.cb" may be for "Class D", that group (if a "rec.radio.frs" or "rec.radio.gmrs" group doesn't exist) is more appropriate than here - by topic.

GMRS is tied to the licensee (and family).

If exceeding the FRS power limits, a GMRS license is needed. Yes, there would be a technical violation.

No. Because they are immediate family, they operate under your license.

I'll ask there if I have further questions.

I hope you won't mind if I ask for some clarification here, though.

My question was specific - if the radio operated within FRS power levels, could it be operated without a license?

And if I head out with a couple of hunting buddies? Not being family, they would not be covered by the license, but by keeping on the FRS channels and on FRS power levels, we'd stay legal?

In truth, one who believes it wrong to arm himself against criminal violence shows contempt of God's gift of life (or, in modern parlance, does not properly value himself), does not live up to his responsibilities to his family and community, and proclaims himself mentally and morally deficient, because he does not trust himself to behave responsibly. In truth, a state that deprives its law-abiding citizens of the means to effectively defend themselves is not civilized but barbarous, becoming an accomplice of murderers, rapists, and thugs and revealing its totalitarian nature by its tacit admission that the disorganized, random havoc created by criminals is far less a threat than are men and women who believe themselves free and independent, and act accordingly.

The way FRS and GMRS is set up, there are 7 frequencies that are an 'overlap'. (The first 7 FRS 'channels'.)

It's the radio, not the frequency you are on. This is NOT amateur radio.
The radio defines the service. If you are using a GMRS radio, even on a frequency that is shared with FRS, and at FRS power levels, you are still legally GMRS. (The same applies to HAM radio being operated on these frequencies. It doesn't matter if you 'match' the emmision, it's the radio, and illegal!)

I believe GMRS was modified to include family members. I THOUGHT there was an age restriction but that may just be for business radios. In fact, when FRS came along, I believe it was the first without an age rule.

I just picked up some GMRS units. ($25 after rebate at BJ's) so I'm just learning about them. Got them this weekend, and while I knew there was a license fee, I was shocked at the $75. I figured $50 would be a lot!

Oh well.

I'm looking into various ways of applying for the license. Haven't done serious looking yet, but if I can, I want to see if it's an option to make it a family 'association'. Like "Mike's family ski trips". Then declare anyone on the ski trip as a member of the 'group', and hence the license could 'technically' cover them. But I haven't really looked at the rules for GMRS yet at all.

The system is solid state, and appears to be properly grounded.
Except for the lapel mic. I can't get the pastor to stand still long enough to attach a cable to his lapel.

Actually, I have already determined the problem to be electric fields from the lights and their impact on the lapel mic (or possibly the transmitter circuit it uses). I was hoping to find information about suppressing it at the lights or finding a lapel mic that is resistant to the problem. I only need about 9 to 12db suppression (although 15 would be nice).

Look up references to ballanced lines. It can be implemented with 3k:3K center tapped transformers as used in transistor radios etc. Common mode hum rejection is greatly enhanced.

Cheers.

1459. Roger Does Yardwork

Roger wanted to do some yard work. He went to the Rent-it-All Store and told the clerk he wanted a chain saw that would cut down eight trees a hour. The clerk told Roger he had the Super McCulloch XL which would cut down 10 or more trees per hour. Roger accepted the clerk's recommendation and rented the XL. However, Roger could only get the chain saw to cut down one tree per hour. Roger became very angry at the clerk who rented him the saw and decided to return the chain saw to the Rent-it-All Store for a refund. But first, Roger got on Usenet and posted filthy obscene attacks on the store clerk's children and the clerk's wife. Roger returned the chain saw to the Rent-it-All Store and told the clerk the saw would cut only one tree per hour, not the 10 that the clerk claimed the saw would do. The clerk wanted to check the saw out, before returning Roger's money, so the clerk pulled the starter rope, and the chain saw loudly came to life. When Roger heard the motor start, he asked the clerk, "What is that loud sound"?

You're right, 136kHz for M3's now !

Limited to say -10dbw of course, so they take No notice of any power limit, and tell them that BT left an aerial for them to use.
i.e. their neighbours phone line ;-)

Woger Wiseman Weight Watchers Poster Boy:
http://www.geocities.com/wiseman_he_is_fat/

I've been getting a lot of stuff from West Vagina Ham operators lately about our Woger. Since it's all pretty funny and really only confirms what we've know or suspected about Woger, I thought I'd share it with you:

1). Woger has been in and out of mental institutions for sometime. Most recently in 06/99.

2). Woger lives with his mommie (like that is a fucking surprise) and she was the one who had him sent to the funny farm last time.

3). Woger is a high school drop out who has never ever held anything but part time jobs. Yes, West Virginia that means no MASTER DEGREE and claims of a PLATINUM CARD are so much horse shit.

4). Woger is morbidly obese, supposedly 297 lbs but he looks heavier. He is one fat piece of shit.

5). Woger was never in the Air Force or he dishonorable discharged.

6). Woger is a habitual liar.

7). Woger is over 50 years of age, fat, and very out of shape.

If any of this is a surprise to any of you please let me know so I can laugh my ass off at you!

1469. International M3 Boycott Week 21st - 28th July 2002

To show support for _REAL_ Ham Radio, and to show disapproval for CBers masquerading as Radio Hams.
I nominate Sun 21st to Sun 28th July 2002 as International M3 Boycott Week.

During this period, no self-respecting Radio Ham worthy of the name will talk with any M3 callsign.

(This will not cause any problem to an M3, because if she regards herself as a fully-fledged Ham, then she must so regard any other M3. Therefore, by her own argument, if she is limited to talking to other M3's for the week, then she's still talking to other Hams (But we will know differently!))

Sorry to disappoint you Steve but my M3 already covers me for a whole watt of ERP on 136 kHz, just like your 'A' licence covers you. Ready made rigs or commercial kits seem to be a bit thin on the ground but one of those audiophool amplifiers might just work. Hmmmm.......

If fail to find any callsign in your posting... are you frustrated because you failed to paas the RAE?

BTW. I'm glad I caught your posting in time before operating as 9H3Z.
I will do my best to work as many M3's as possible between July 21-28th (outside these dates also of course).

The real G4VGO seemed a bit surprised he was posting on the newsgroups. Did you not think to ask him if it was OK to use his callsign and Email address?

It will be interesting to see how many foriegn amateurs share your views-most I have heard seem all to willing to work M3s.

I remember a conversation with an RIS man, must have been 20 years back. He had recently attended a Europe wide meeting / conference of RIS / license enforcement types and related some of the content.

While the Italians seemed to be regarded as being the most cavalier as regards regulations, first place for bascially having the most "arseholes" (that was his word) in the amateur radio went to the UK.

Silly postings like yours Gareth will only extend that view and do no good for amateur radio.

I'll also be abroad that week on holiday in VE7 with two other Hams (G4's).
We'll be setting up shop and operating lots and lots of M3's.

QRV 40m-1.2cm. AO-7 & AO-40 contacts especially welcome.

Hi all.

Please just remember not all CB..ers are bad. I know many 11mtr ops that perform better than hams. So please do not tar everyone with the same brush.

Also i think that we all have to start somewhere.
ENCOURAGEMENT would be helpfull from professionals like yourself. I thought the idea was to promote radio not the other way. Its not the operators you should have a go at but the Licensing people or RSGB.

i HOPE MY COMMENTS ARE NOTED. (unlicensed SWL)

It is extremely unlikely that a guy who can't walk and chew gum at the same time could get all of the headers correctly formatted for such a message. Someone who isn't even aware of the significance of 127.0.0.1, after spending years on the net, has no chance at all with a control message.

Why don't you send another self-outing, "anonymous" netcop message to Chris Caputo, Roger? That was hilariously stupid.

There is no suggestion that CBers are bad. But CB is not Ham Radio.

CB is an operating hobby.

Harm Radio is a technical hobby.

By supporting International M3 Boycott Week, you will help to emphasize the difference.

I think you made comments about progression (which I inadvertently deleted). No bad thing, but the M3 licence is not progression.

It is CB, fair and square.

That's because DXing as it has become is a CB (Cheque Book) activity. Buy a rig, press a button. Say, "Hello, you're 5&9, Goodbye" over and over again.

No skill involved (especially when Internet DX prompting is used). No technical improvement to the station being tested.

Be interesting if you met some of the M3's from round here, I think they'd take exception to that comment.
Most of them were either G8's or G6's who succumbed to the temptation of easy access to HF but as Hams I'd bet they've been licensed as long as you have (if not longer) and I personally know of two whose knowledge, expertise and operating practices are better than many 'real' hams who did their morse.

1508. Beware of TI2YLL, "Jose Gerardo Garcia Mora" a.k.a. "Gerardo Garcia", radio amateur and "collector"

Dear radio amateur friends (and perhaps fellow collectors),

Please be warned about HAM radio amateur"Mr. Jose Gerardo Garcia Mora" of Costa Rica, callsign TI2YLL. http://www.qrz.com/callsign/TI2YLL , http://www.eham.net/callbook/ (search for TI2YLL)

As a "collector", he has cheated many in the collectors' community in the past. But this might also concern you, too. Apart from QSL cards, he has also advertised for other collectibles' exchange within your community's pages.
And I believe that you often exchange items related to your hobby, too.

Several months ago, I posted a message on several newsgroups to warn collectors about "Mr. Jose Gerardo Garcia Mora" of Costa Rica, "collector" or "seller" at times of, breweriana, cans, matchbooks, paper money, coins, stamps, phone cards, postcards,cigarette packs and of course QSL CARDS. I consider him the worst cheater I have ever come across; he has cheated at least 10 individuals besides myself, to my knowledge.

Mr Garcia's name has been included in several collectors' Black lists.
Here are links to just a few of them:

http://www.geocities.com/kirbas/mora.html (phonecards)
"http://www.network54.com/Hide/Forum/thread?forumid=169329&messageid=1007389482&lp=1007389 482/
" (banknotes)
http://www.ophetweb.nl/collcoin/blacklist.html (coins)
Jan Meinders black list at http://www.beercollection.net/(breweriana)

Mr Garcia Mora had disappeared completely from the Internet since last September, right after cheating me. Recently he reappeared with new email and surface mail addresses, and sometimes with a different name (more like a different combination of his 4 names). I was alerted by a cigarette pack collector from Italy and after a brief search on the Web discovered the following:

He now uses the following email addresses:
electronica2391@hotmail.com, electronica96@hotmail.com and ti2yll@qsl.com (instead of the old imex81sa@racsa.co.cr) and this surface address:

P.O.Box 10485, (instead of PO Box 7138 which he had been using since 1993)
San Jose, Costa Rica, America Central

He now mostly appears as "Gerardo Garcia" , instead of Josï¿½.

This man has managed to remain active since 1993, beginning without the aid of the Internet. He has been blacklisted before, but he somehow manages to continue cheating, by avoiding newsgroups and large, frequently visited sites, by switching from one field to another and by disappearing for months from time to time. People either choose to forget about him or just don't have the time to go after him.

Thank you all very much for your time-and, for those of you who are fellow collectors, happy "safe" collecting .

For more details, here follows the latest research I have done on this individual:

For years he has posed as a Ham Radio amateur with the call sign TI2YLL. Look at http://www.qrz.com/callsign/TI2YLL. This was his old identity as "Jose Garcia."
At another related site, http://www.eham.net/classifieds/, try a search for TI2YLL. Here you see a new email address combined with the old PO Box number and his usual name.
At "http://www.guestbook.ru/book.cgi?user=uradxclub&action=show/ ", yet another email address. He does not mention a name here but it is more than obvious that it is him.

At the following links he appears with the new email address as "Gerardo Garcia" and has a new PO Box address:
http://jos.hkcampus.net/~jos-wym/gbook.html
http://members.tripod.com/~HouleV/America.htm
"http://www.santanderciudadviva.com/tablon.asp?buscar=&paginaactual=5/
" in Spanish
"http://www.molepostcards.com/services/adverts.php?id=497&p=1&o=&s=/" http://books.dreambook.com/peacenest/main.html from http://www.deuss.com/peacenest/http://www.pcbandit.net/guestbook/guestbook.pl , and at http://www.pcbandit.net/traders/ (number 103)
http://www.cigpack.at (Guest book).

Besides the above, he maintains three separate pages on www.webshots.com , where he proudly displays his postcard, cigarette pack and QSL card collections, the greater part of the first 2 collections quite possibly stolen.
http://community.webshots.com/user/69as010 http://community.webshots.com/user/ggarciacr http://community.webshots.com/user/packs1952 http://community.webshots.com/user/matches101 (empty for now)
Are the cigarette packs perhaps those stolen from Thomas http://members.aol.com/lfm1111/thieves.html ?

not all DX stations operate as 'UR 59 TU'

some have more 'expertise' than a deterministic finite automaton. From the bilge that spreads forth of your keyboard, you would appear to be an non-deterministic finite automaton, with an incredible ostrich complex.

It's time to change the record, wake up and smell reality!

Lllllllardasssssssssss couldn't hack public high school, so his parents put him in a Xtian academy, which is next to no schooling at all. Lllllllardasssssss later got a lousy "Certificate in Computer Operations" which speaks a lot about how well he would do in college. He couldn't hack it there and opted for just a certificate.

Wrong again, Shitball, it does show up, fuckhead.
But a lying hypocrite who tries to weasel his way out of his lies has no credibility.
Oh, too bad, you Chrone's diseased mutant.

I've been getting a lot of stuff from West Vagina Ham operators lately about our Woger. Since it's all pretty funny and really only confirms what we've know or suspected about Woger, I thought I'd share it with you:

1). Woger has been in and out of mental institutions for sometime. Most recently in 06/99.

2). Woger lives with his mommie (like that is a fucking surprise) and she was the one who had him sent to the funny farm last time.

3). Woger is a high school drop out who has never ever held anything but part time jobs. Yes, West Virginia that means no MASTER DEGREE and claims of a PLATINUM CARD are so much horse shit.

4). Woger is morbidly obese, supposedly 297 lbs but he looks heavier. He is one fat piece of shit.

5). Woger was never in the Air Force or he dishonorable discharged.

6). Woger is a habitual liar.

7). Woger is over 50 years of age, fat, and very out of shape.

then present it to another committee to consider it and produce another

Forgive me. I worked with them for a couple of years, just before I got out of the service - and got so used to them being called that that I began to assume everyone would use the same terminology. Duh.
(Never had this problem with any of them though.)

Yes, this is a tiny mic (about the size of a thimble) attached to the speaker about 3 inches below where their chin would touch their chest.
It is connected to a transmitter worn, usually, on the belt. The transmitters usually operate in the 200-220 or 250-275 or 500-550MHz range. Some recievers use dual antennas with a dirversity receiver to prevent dead spots, but since we are ony working with 50 feet, that wasn't nessasary.

By trial and error, and a little deduction, I narrowed the problem to the electric fields from the fluorescent lights inducing a hum in the mic or transmitter worn by the speacker (pastor). It only happens within about 12-15 feet of the lights, but that restricts him to the middle quarter of the auditorium. A 10 db reduction would reduce the problem to within about 5 feet of the lights, and that would be sufficient.

Thanks,
Rex

I have a lowly tech license and want to move up. Is anyone aware of Internet sites with live practice Morse code streaming? I came across several practice MP3 files...but they're of course no good to use a 2nd time. I was told that if I had an HF rig I could tune into a couple stations with constantly updated practice code. Is there anything similar on the Internet? Thanks for your suggestions.

It doesn't show up on Altopia. So, where do you imagine that you are seeing it? Been drinking Sterno again?

Gee, I guess I am going to have to brake the news to dad that he died in 1996 at age 56 (which seems pretty strange since two months ago he celebrated birthday #57). Additionally, I think you are having a bit of trouble keeping your lies straight. Did you not say I was living with some girl named Brook or Brock somewhere on N. Francis and now your claiming I live on S.W. 27th with my Mommie whose name is Claudina?

Oh and hey fatboy, your so busy lying you forgot to remove your vanity group.

I've been getting a lot of stuff from West Vagina Ham operators lately about our Woger. Since it's all pretty funny and really only confirms what we've know or suspected about Woger, I thought I'd share it with you:

1). Woger has been in and out of mental institutions for sometime. Most recently in 06/99.

2). Woger lives with his mommie (like that is a fucking surprise) and she was the one who had him sent to the funny farm last time.

3). Woger is a high school drop out who has never ever held anything but part time jobs. Yes, West Virginia that means no MASTER DEGREE and claims of a PLATINUM CARD are so much horse shit.

4). Woger is morbidly obese, supposedly 297 lbs but he looks heavier. He is one fat piece of shit.

5). Woger was never in the Air Force or he dishonorable discharged.

6). Woger is a habitual liar.

7). Woger is over 50 years of age, fat, and very out of shape.

If any of this is a surprise to any of you please let me know so I can laugh my ass off at you!

"Basios"...word Woger uses when he gets neeeerrrrvous.
"Behing"...a cross between being and behind?
"Feamle"...I think he meant female.
"Losser"...only loser Roger can do it better.
"Ignroant"...typical, considering the source.
"Sluprs"...only Rogie knows what this means.
"Travelled"...a Rogerism, replete with ignorance.
"Postss"...pssst...Roger..that should be Posts.
"Defgenerate"...well, it's Roger's word...
"Faity"...he meant to say Fairy, but you know Roger.
"Distribiution"...Roger likes using phonics.
"Biotch"...he meant Bitch, but his phonics took over again.
"Methjadone"...a West Virginia substitute for Heroin.
"Anoinymous"...a cross between anonymous and annoying?
"Sumbliminal"...one of Roger's favorites.
"Recepticle"...either of Roger's moist cavaties.
"Cociane"...a West Virginia drug of choice?
"Tiome"...Roger meant to say Time...but his fingers were numb.
"Beraking"...no definition. Could mean 'beraking' the leaves,
"Amny"...he meant 'any',
"Nlay"...a town in Maylaysia? Vermont?
"Al;ong"...only Wussman knows what this means.
"Becasu"...well, becasu Roger is not the brightest bulb on the tree.
"Seperation". Why? Because Roger cannot "seperate" from his mommie!

Some satirical content included.]

SONGS OF THE CYBER-DOOMED: THE 1 MILLION-POUND SHITHAMMER AND THE FIDONET [Portions of the following article are tasteless and profane. You might want to delete this file now if these kinds of things offend you.] "The psychopath [is] literally an excommunicant in the matter of socially acceptable goals . . . Consequently, all his activities . . . are restraint-free, sometimes strikingly bizarre, always unappreciative of consequences." --Robert Lindner, "Rebel Without a Cause" Sooner or later, everyone on-line gets to savor the experience of the electronic mail bomb: nuisance collections of ersatz messaging usually designed to shock and annoy the easily irritated. Recently, the Fidonet's Virus Information special interest group has been paralyzed by an almost continuous stream of pornographic mail bombs which have crowded out the regular content of the public messaging carried by the electronic mail echo. Electronic mail bombs of this nature are routinely disguised as legitimate electronic mail packets using a hacker software tool, appropriately named, in this case, BOGUS. They are dispersed through the network by the dial-up of poorly secured Fidonet bulletin board systems and anonymous ramming of the packets into the attacked systems' mail queues. The mail queues are automated and subsequently distribute the dubious mail to other systems in a chain of cascades which, optimally, passes the mail around the world. The mail bombs we're discussing have been jammed into unsecured systems in Israel, South Africa, France, Germany, Scandinavia and assorted points throughout the United States, generating hundreds of e-mail packets of X-rated electronic insults. All of this sounds rather dry but it becomes singularly interesting when one begins to look at the history of a confessed Fidonet mail-bomber, the self-styled cyber-terrorist, Paskell "Geno" Paris.

Paris, a nurse by day, ran a bulletin board system in Oklahoma City in 1993 which flip-flopped between the names Vortex and The Oklahoma Institute of Virus Research. It was part of network of systems which had become inextricably mixed-up with the Fidonet bulletin boards devoted to spreading advertising for shareware anti-virus software. However, this aim not what Paris had in mind, much to the annoyance of the software developers and their representatives. When not in the mainstream mail areas of the Fidonet, Paris would call other systems using aliases like Colostomy Bagboy. He published a profane, hideously violent electronic magazine known as Vortex. Vortex was an oil stain covering the windshield to those used to driving leisurely down the center lane of the information highway, or what there was of it on the Fidonet. Vortex was also hysterically funny. If you didn't know what you were doing, reading Vortex was also kind of like walking through a minefield.

Colostomy Bagboy included tips and advice for playing with viruses and other types of software boobytraps, which, if followed, would result in the inexperienced corrupting the data on their computers. In Vortex, the editor explained his world view. The networks were a silicon vortex, Colostomy Bagboy proclaimed. His philosophy was a metaphysical pseudo-serious gobble which combined junk pop culture, received wisdom and an assortment of fictions flogged by the likes of William Gibson, "Dune's" Frank Herbert, Anne Rice and Steven Donaldson. "The VORTEX is this and more . . . ," wrote Colostomy Bagboy. "[In] this medium there is only continued flux, the pursuit of information, and joyful destruction. Steven Donaldson's Despiser is our only god and anarchy is our only goal." The Despiser, or Lord Foul, was the arch villain in Donaldson's Illearth War series of books, a sort of cheap rip-off of J. R. R. Tolkien's "Lord of The Rings." Paul Mua'Dib, the hero of the book "Dune," also tended to get invoked as spiritual shaman in Paskell Paris's Vortex. However, Paris was no cyberpunk, he said. He hated the word. "Cyberpunk is the term that [William] Gibson gave that highly [trained] group of phreakers/hackers in his hi-tech fictional world," he wrote in Vortex. "Man, a punk is somebody who bends over and takes it up the ass. If that's what you feel like you are then fine, power to you. Personally, I have always liked the term . . . 'Technopath.' "There are many ways to obtain godhood in The SILICON VORTEX, however, if you can leave the false worldly constrains of ethics and morals behind . . . Creation is always nice, but true power rests in the power to destroy," continued the hacker. "The information contained within [Vortex] . . . will give you the ability to tap into that dark side of yourself that likes to cause anarchy. When you cross the line, your desire to create the anarchy of destruction will become almost all consuming . . . "True gratification comes in the creative and stylish destruction of other's data based inside the VORTEX." For those unfamiliar with the argot of the computer underground, the words of Colostomy Bagboy were enough to set hair ablaze. However, within the underground it fit a mold of standard, if cleverly written, rabble-rousing malevolence exceeding other similar publications only by minor degrees. In other words, it fit the lay of the land.

The Fidonet, or Paris's silicon vortex, was ripe for a kind of low-level hacking version of search and destroy. Fidonet is sustained by a diverse collection of hobbyists and computer professionals who spent quite a deal of their spare time building up its electronic mail capabilities which encompassed sending astronomical volumes of database-like messaging from system to system in a mind-numbingly complicated web which stretched around the planet. Because it is cobbled together from countless different and poorly understood, poorly documented, poorly supported software mixtures, it is a security nightmare and riddled with gaping loopholes which can be exploited to sow fear and insane hatred among its managers. While pernicious hacking on the Fidonet may have seemed like a neat trick for Paskell Paris, it was the equivalent of pulling wings off flies. However, this being cyberspace, opinions tended to differ. One of Paris's favorite technopathic stunts was the manipulation and fabrication of mail - the creation of the mail bomb - within the structure of the Fidonet. He would select a well-read electronic message feed and concoct an elaborate series of irritating, tasteless and sophomoric messages packed with puzzling lies, spittle-spraying-from-the-mouth diatribes and sexual language of the vilest sort. In his own words: "Single message bases are called echos, and are organized by a moderator. All posts are expected to deal with the particular subject of the echo. Example: Posts in the abortion echo are expected to concern abortion, posts in the Holy_Bible echo are expected to deal with the Bible. Moderators who do not understand the inherent nature of the VORTEX become quite peeved when one gets off subject. They get all pissed and become unhappy Babylonians." Paris published the BOGUS software in Vortex to automate the production of fabricated mail chains of purely inflammatory quality. He would brag of launching these electronic mail stink bombs into the network from time to time. He also snatched the regular message bases devoted to virus information on the net. This created a continuous war between the moderators of the virus information feeds, who were only interested in pushing various shareware anti-virus software kits, and Paris and assorted like-minded denizens of the Fidonet. One of the moderators of the virus information echos was a European by the name of Edwin Cleton. Cleton was constantly threatening anyone who didn't agree with him with banishment from the Fidonet echo, called Virus, which he controlled. Cleton would, he said, "Hit them with his electronic baseball bat." These were brainless, empty threats in cyberspace but Cleton's pompous and doctrinaire manner made him an immediate lightning rod for retaliation by hackers like Paris. The security of Cleton's Fidonet echo was abominable in America, and Paris, doing what he liked best, subsequently manipulated the mail and staging within the network so that Cleton, through confusion and inattention, was cut off from control of his own turf. Paris had literally hijacked the mail, proclaiming himself the new moderator and Edwin Cleton an unwanted pest. The anarchy so beloved by Colostomy Bagboy reigned. "Edwin is so pissed off he could shit in his own hand," laughed Paris at one point. That was how he talked. Cleton was indeed incensed. He accused Paris of being a child pornographer, a claim that made the mad hacker chuckle. Even Paris's friends were buffaloed. Terminator, an acquaintance from Missouri, who sometimes collaborated with Paris in the fabrication and deployment of mail bombs into the Fidonet Midwest architecture, confessed Colostomy Bagboy was a wild man, prone to crazy fabrications. "You just never know with Geno," he said. "Geno talks and talks and after a while, anything could be true." Then Colostomy Bagboy walked over even his line by, according to Paris, messing with the Federal Bureau of Investigation's National Crime Information Center computer.

Paris claimed to have invaded the NCIC system, a computer network which contains the national criminal activity database used by lawmen across the country. NCIC is raw criminal data which can tell a cop taking a hit-and-run driver in for booking in California whether the suspect is wanted on different charges in other states. The FBI takes NCIC rather seriously and when Colostomy Bagboy attempted to upload one of his software boobytraps into it, a virtual load of pig iron trouble crashed down on him, he said. Minutes after he had connected via modem with NCIC and hung up, someone had called him back and said merely, "Gotcha" over the phone. The FBI scooped him up and handed him over to authorities at the Oklahoma City jail. Back in the real world, it was quite a different story. Paris was indicted by a federal grand jury and jailed in late 1993 on the far more prosaic felony charges of forgery, making false claims, possession of a stolen credit card (later dismissed), possession of photo license of another, and related counts. He pleaded guilty, was convicted and sentenced to serve a twelve-month stint in prison, delivered by the state of Oklahoma and the federal government. Paskell Paris, according to federal indictment CR-93-255R, "falsely represented himself to be [another]" and had engaged in activities aimed at hijacking of that identity. Weirdly, Paskell Paris's friends in cyberspace had no idea what really had happened to him, just that he was in jail. Terminator knew Colostomy Bagboy was up the river for at least a year and that was it. Finally, he received mail from Paris in the Oklahoma City jail which declared, in typical megalomaniacal Bagboy style:

"For those that did not know, I am in here suffering and paying penance for your sins. Only through my blood will you be saved. "The United States of America, supposed land of the free imprisons more people than any other nation on the face of the earth. "The 'information highway' is a joke. This was proven when they arrested me for supposed 'hacking' on the NCIC. We have no freedom of expression or speech . . . Rise up, oh sons and daughters, in bloody revolution against the oppressive regime! Like Nelson Mandela before me I will suffer . . . although as long as I have a punk named Mikey in here the suffering ain't that bad." While Paris was far from the information highway's anti-Christ, his Vortex persona had spun a legend that convinced his targets and peers he was one bad dude. The recent spate of mail-bombs eerily echoed Paris, as if the inflammatory hacker was using another of his technopathic tricks to speak from behind the iron curtain of an Oklahoma correctional facility. But no, this time one of the hijackers was the Terminator who had seized control of the special interest group - moderated by Jeff Cook, an American representative of the Dutch Thunderbyte antivirus company. Cook, like Cleton in a different echo in 1993, had become a cyber-whipping boy for similar reasons: childishly authoritarian harassment of those deemed politically incorrect, even if they were little more than trivial nuisances. Kicked into a kind of electronic limbo where he would labor to restore control of the special interest group by cutting electronic mail feeds to those suspected of cooperating with the master of the mail bombs, Cook found that the harder he worked, the more messages like this would be posted into his domain of cyberspace: "Are there any persons out there that get off by watching a woman pee? There is just something about seeing and hearing a woman pee. Not sure if I am into getting peed upon, but I am always open to new adventures." Obviously, not every operator in this particular corner of the Fidonet wished to be part of a chain of electronic messaging which included scat material. Some monitored their systems more closely for obviously fake mail; others hunkered down and attempted to secure their automated mail queues. Still others took the expedient cure: they simply dropped the special interest group. The uproar even involved Planet Connect, a Memphis-based telecommunications company which supplies satellite-transmitted feeds for much of the Fidonet. Planet Connect, in an attempt to staunch the flow of nuisance mail, tried to implement a "dirty word" software filter in September to trap the bogus mail but abandoned the effort when some Fidonet sysops complained of discarded and censored messaging. Ironically, Planet Connect's minor involvement in the mail-bombing war being fought on the Fidonet illustrated how technology, in this case the transfer of Fidonet mail feeds through more centralized satellite telecommunications providers, had contributed to the erosion of special interest group moderators within the network by the de facto elimination of them as the primary links in public mail administration. In effect, such satellite-based providers became positioned to provide the Fidonet's base - which numbers in excess of 8,000 amateur, semi-professional and professional systems - as a neatly packaged entertainment-type on-line service, for a price. In the meantime, the Fidonet's Virus Information special interest group had changed its subject matter once again, from golden showers to transvestism.

SONGS OF THE CYBER-DOOMED, II: THE TERMINATOR TERMINATES THE FIDONET'S INTERNET E-MAIL GATEWAY

Earlier this year, Burt Juda, an administrator for the FIDOnet's Internet mail gateway announced the network would lose the gateway as a consequence of a denial-of-service attack on his system carried out by a couple of the network's ex-sysops, one of whom - The Terminator - is familiar to Crypt Newsletter followers of the FIDOnet "cyber-doomed" news stories (Crypt 27 - 28).

Juda commented recently in a post widely distributed by various on-line networks:

"Effective March 1, 1996, the Internet Gateway at 1:1/31 will be shutting down. At that point, there will be NO MORE 'default' gateway for electronic mail inbound from the Internet for [the US].

"The reasons for this termination of service are numerous . . .

"Most recently, an excommunicated SysOp has gone on a rampage of forging subscription messages to subscribe numerous FidoNet addresses to . . . unwanted Internet mailing-lists in a deliberate attempt to 'break' [FidoNet] routing . . . and the gateway structure."

Further, Juda writes, "I can no longer deal with the voluminous netmail being received from [people] querying what has happened to their inbound [electronic mail] coming [through the affected gateway].

Juda added he no longer had the time to support the service when cyber-denizens "continue[d] to break the rules of its use and bypass . . . controls."

The Fidonet Internet-netmail junction, which provides service to the community of amateur, pro and semi-pro BBS sysops and callers who use the FIDOnet nationwide, was brought to the point of collapse as a result of mass electronic mail forgery by The Terminator and another collaborator.

In late 1995, The Terminator and a partner spent an evening ramming the Fidonet-Internet gateway in Piscataway, New Jersey, with posts forged to look like they originated from as many FIDO-sysop network e-mail accounts as could be gathered. This is quite a few -- thousands -- as it turns out. Many, many of these posts were simply subscription requests to Internet mailing lists.

Subsequently, the Fidonet/Internet junction was overwhelmed with the volume of nuisance mail and hung.

The Terminator had been involved in disruption of the FIDO Virus Information echo and others throughout 1994 and 1995 with re-directed spam-mail. The mail-bombs, rammed through unsecured FIDOnet mail links from Europe, Israel and the United States, consisted of virus source code interspersed with a great deal of text hardcore filth dealing with transvestism and scatological material fabricated for the occasion and/or cross-posted from an adult-oriented network.

One example of such mail:

"Are there any persons out there that get off by watching a woman pee? There is just something about seeing and hearing a woman pee. Not sure if I am into getting peed upon, but I am always open to new adventures."

Because of the level of trust in the inherently wide-open, difficult to secure FIDO technology network, FIDO administrators and sysops were never able to completely plug the system breaches exploited by The Terminator, leading more recently to the collapse of its Internet gateway when expanded attacks overpowered the message handling capacity of the junction and the patience of its administrator.

At the time of the original nuisance mail rammings in the FIDO Virus Information message base, some BBS operators monitored their systems more closely for obviously fake mail; others attempted to secure their automated mailer software with mixed success. Still others took the expedient cure. They simply dropped service on the special interest groups affected, the same answer given to the problem by the FIDO/Internet electronic mail gateway administrator.

Shortly after the initial failure of the FIDO/Internet mail gateway, The Terminator contacted Crypt Newsletter from Moberly, Missouri, to point out the interruption in service brought about by the attack.

"The FIDO/Internet gateway is crashed," he said.

The start of attacks on FIDOnet computer virus information message feeds in 1993 were attributed to Paskell "Geno" Paris of Oklahoma City, a FIDO sysop and self-styled "technopath" who waged a guerilla war for control of a small section of cyberspace moderated by Ed Cleton, a European host of virus information topics on the FIDOnet. Paris was later indicted and convicted on fraud charges, crimes unrelated to his activity on the FIDOnet. As a consequence, Paris served time in state and federal prison. The Terminator carried on Paris' mail war with Virus Information moderators Jeff Cook, a representative of Thunderbyte Anti-virus, and his successor, Allen Taylor. During the period and as a result of repeated mail bombing runs, The Terminator was banned from the message base. Nuisance mail-rammings of virus source code and forged messages, however, continued to plague the FIDOnet echo.

COLOSTOMY BAGBOY RETURNS TO CIVILIAN LIFE IN OKLAHOMA, REFLECTS ON SIMPLE PRISON RECREATIONS

Recently, Paskell "Geno" Paris called Crypt to inform readers he had returned from a two year stay in federal prison in connection with events that are well known to readers of "The Virus Creation Labs."

In 1993 Paris travelled under the handle "Colostomy Bagboy" while lurking on the Fidonet as sysop of the "Oklahoma Institute of Virus Research" in Oklahoma City. While a Fidonet sysop, Paris engaged in a well-publicized public feud with Edwin Cleton, a former moderator of one of the network's "Virus Information" message feeds.

As a computer virus exchange bulletin board sysop, Colostomy Bagboy edited two issues of the underground publication, Vortex. Vortex was a profane, hideously violent e-zine that mixed extreme bad taste and off-color humor with exhortations to join the author in the "stylish destruction" of the data of others found in the silicon vortex -- Paris' euphemism for the world computer network. To most users accustomed to driving slowly down the middle lane of the information highway, Vortex read as evidence that menacing electronic bogeymen lurked under every rock in cyberspace. However, like many electronic magazines from the underground it was exaggerated for effect, talking the talk and walking the walk of many such underground publications.

Federal and local lawmen indicted and arrested Paris the same year. He was subsequently convicted on charges apparently unrelated to his underground persona. A fraud charge stemming from the creation or usurpation of a false identity and a forgery charge resulting from attempts to counterfeit treasury bills landed him in prison. Paris also maintained computer tampering was also part of the conviction, coming down from what he claimed was an unsuccessful attempt to access and meddle with the FBI's National Crime Information Center computer database.

While serving his two year sentence, Paris said he was contacted by reporters looking for a scoop on the underground world of computer hacking. However, no stories resulted. Paris added he was allowed to be part of a computer club at one of the minimum security facilities -- a work camp -- where he was incarcerated. In addition, Paris told Crypt News fisticuffs is a common recreation in American jails.

RANDOM NOTES: A DISPATCH FROM PASKELL PARIS; TOM TOMORROW VISITS COMPUSERVE

Over the holidays, Paskell "Geno" Paris mailed Crypt a number of dispatches including a Christmas greeting. Paris, recently admonished by a two year stint in prison, has resumed travel in cyberspace under the handle "Colostomy Bagboy." Any who are interested in swapping correspondence with him can send mail to:

jesus.christ@webcitement.com .

Paris indicated he was once again involved in tormenting users of the Fidonet, referring to them in one electronic document as "[the] Filthy Fido Capitalist PigDogs." Bagboy's current operations are somewhat reminiscent of those of the character Jesus Bernal in Carl Hiaasen's black humor/crime story, "Tourist Season" (Warner Books).

In neo-Bernal style, Paris vows to "smite [enemies] until they are most smote" by employing mass distribution of nuisance electronic leaflets and political statements.

But you couldn't hack or steal credit cards without fucking it up, Eugene, you're not any threat. Except to yourself, dumbfuck.

Here is a nice program no download.com.
Here's the link, if it doesn't work just go to www.download.com and search for 'learn morse code'

If I remember correctly, this program will let you practice as well and gets it data from text files you can make your self.

http://download.com.com/3000-2130-7906609.html?tag=lst-0-1
* I'm not sure why they do com.com but that's the link I got from my browser window.

I think this program is a trial version but you may like it enought to buy it.

Did you know that the Air Force had their own version of "Rangers"? Yes, it is true. Roger spearheaded the movement and had asked the "brass" to issue special uniforms to a newly formed unit that Roger dubbed the "Rump Rangers."
Roger asked the brass to issue purple berets to the Rump Rangers in special recognition of their service. The rest is history, so to speak.
Roger also managed to initiate an award for the Rangers, an award that he named the "Purple Hickey". Roger was the first ever recipient of this infamous award and he wears it proudly.
Chapter Two of Roger's Rump Ranger story to be told later.

As we know, things technical tend to confuse 2Test. If he would trace certain routers and examine certain headers in his postings, he would find out how some people know he is not posting from You're not hiding very well, Eugene. Did Claudine visit you when you were in Federal Prison? I guess she's the one who complied to your request for women's clothes, as your black prison master made you wear them while you were his BITCH, to make you even more look like a woman than you already so.

I bet if I called Claudine, she'd have all kinds of tidbits about her punk Prison Bitch idiot son.

Try telling that to the widows and families of the Spratly Island DX-pedition enough lives have been lost through conflict. The 28th July in particular should be a day to remember old friends and welcome new ones.

You would do well to remember who it was that sent you to prison last time punk. If you think for one god damned minute that I have lost Melissa Thurman's number then you are mistaken. You do remember your Probation Officer don't you geneo?

Chuck Anderson was a better man than you'll ever be PUNK.

From: Jarmo Manninen <jmannine@kosh.hut.fi>

It states: "How long it takes for an intial charge of 800 V DC to decrease to 294 V DC in a 450-microfarad capasitor when a 1-megohm resistor is connected across it?"

The correct answer is given as 450 seconds.

However, I would calculate this by the following formula:

294 V = 800 V exp((-1/(RC))*t), where R is the resistance and C is the capacitance, t is the time. That would give the time t = 40 seconds.

What did I make wrong, or is there possibly an error in the question pool?

========== The Roger Wiseman Story ========== or
"I don't know how."

Rogers earliest memory was of his daddy screaming at him for wetting the bed once again.
"You stupid fucking kid," Mr. Wiseman bellowed. "Take a god-damn piss before you go to bed."
"I don't know how," Roger would answer once again.
Then daddy would lead him into the bathroom and hold his little wiener for him as he'd strain and strain to produce a drop or two. Daddy's hands were rough with thick calluses and Roger Wiseman loved how they felt on his spaghetti thin string of wimpy-ness. It wasn't until years later when Roger discovered humping his teddy bear would he feel so loved again.
As he aged Roger Wiseman found professing to be clueless helped him in other ways. Once the boys on the street were short a guy for their baseball team and they asked him if he'd play.
"I don't know how," whined Roger Wiseman.
The boys laughed at him and made him eat cat shit out of the playground sandbox. The fibrous crap reminded Roger Wiseman of the Shredded Wheat his mom Marie made him eat after he told her he didn't know how to shit anywhere but in his pants. Roger Wiseman munched on the cat crap as the boys laughed.
"Hey Woger Wussman" they laughed, "Now you can say you know how to eat pussy!"
Years later in Junior High some one tried to get him to smoke a cigarette in the bathroom. After he began crying that he didn't know how he got a lit cigarette shoved up each nostril and had to lick all the old dried zit spots off the bathroom mirror.
Since he didn't know how to not say 'I don't know how' Roger Wiseman then and there decided to be the sorriest whiner he could. What else could he do? He didn't know how to do anything else.

Awwww... Pooooor widdle Roger.

RADIOSPORTS: THE HAM RADIO OLYMPICS FOR 2002 ARE ON

Its the Super Bowl of ham radio contesting. The 2002 World Radiosport Team Championship games also known as WRTC 2002 have been taking place this week. Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, reports:

The World Radiosport Team Championship, sometimes called 'the Olympic Games of Amateur Radio', takes place in Finland between the 9th and 15th of July. WRTC is a competition among 52 two-person teams of the top amateur radio contest operators in the world.

By bringing competitors together in one geographic area and providing equal operating conditions, including antennas and power, the variables normally associated with radio contesting are minimised, and the individual team's operating skills are emphasised. Look for the national teams taking part in next weekend's IARU HF Championship contest from sites in the Helsinki area and using callsigns with the unique OJ1 to OJ8 prefixes.

Jeramy Boot, G4NJH.

The contest began at 1200 U-T-C on Saturday the 13th of July, and runs for 24 hours. The WRTC 2002 organizing committee is asking any of you who worked the conterstants to e-mail your logs by 1800 U-T-C on July 14. These "early bird" logs will be used only for log checking purposes related to the WRTC 2002 teams. The e-mail address is logs@wrtc2002.org

Also, Film maker Dave Bell, W6AQ, is in Finland recording the event on digital videotape. Bell produced the popular Ham Radio Olympics video that chronicled the 2000 WRTC games. (WRTC2002, GB2RS, W6AQ)

RESCUE RADIO: HAM RADIO AND THE TEXAS FLOODS

On this side of the Atlantic, the Federal Communication Commission declared a general communications emergency Friday July 5th in response to severe flooding in parts of Texas. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Bruce Tennant, K6PZW has more:

Thousands of people were evacuated from three West Texas towns as a massive storm dumped more than a foot of water on an area that rarely sees more than 2 feet a year. This, as rainfall in flood-weary Central Texas continued and flood water surrounded homes in 29 counties.

Statewide,the week of flooding has forced at least 4,000 people to evacuate, killed at least eight people and caused tens of millions of dollars in damage. Its also cut off normal lines of communications to some areas and that’s where ham radio was called in.

On Friday, July 5th, the FCC issued an edict declaring two parcels of spectrum -- one on 40 meters and the other on 75 as off limits to all but those stations handling flood emergency traffic for 72 hours. Those frequencies were 7.285 MHz during daylight hours and 3.873 MHz at night. Amateurs not directly involved in the emergency communications were required to stay at least 3 kHz away from these frequencies until the order is rescinded. The FCC cancelled the order at 1700 UTC on Monday, July 8th. But as we go to air, hams involved in Texas ARES, along with other volunteer groups, are still providing assistance to the flood ravaged areas.

RESCUE RADIO: AZ HAMS STAND DOWN AS WILDFIRE IS CONTAINED

After weeks of battling the largest wildfire in Arizona history, ham radio has stood down and firefighters from around the country are being reassigned to other states or sent home. This, as the half-million acre Rodeo Chedeski blaze was finally contained on Sunday, July 7th. And hams have gone home. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Norm Seeley, KI7UP, in Scottsdale has the rest of the story:

SATERN, which by the way stands for "Salvation Army Team Emergency Radio Network was probably the most visible ham radio communications group involved with the giant Rodeo Chedeski firestorm. SATERN was active throughout the emergency providing assistance to The Salvation Army in it's disaster relief mission. The Salvation Army was assigned by the State of Arizona to be responsible for receiving all material donations. It also was responsible to distribute these supplies to any agency or group requesting them. The SATERN net, operated on 7.265 MHz dayside and 3.990 MHz evenings It finally stood down and released the frequencies when the shelters closed down and their services were no longer needed.

What SATERN did not do was to handle health and welfare messages into and out of the area. That job fell to ARES and the Red Cross and both responded as expected. A-R-E-S used several High Frequency nets, local repeater communications and the Cactus Radio Network intertie to handle hundreds of tactical and health and welfare messages.

Another group deserving mention is the Kachina Amateur Radio Club. It was activated on June 18th handling communications for the Navajo Emergency Operations Center and shelters set up for the evacuation of all evacuation areas at that time. The Kachina Amateur Radio Club was on the air in support of the shelters through June 30th.

As the fire peaked in late June, more than 4,400 personnel -- most of them firefighters -- were working to corral the blaze. That number has been reduced to about 1100 now that the fire is fully contained.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Norm Seeley, KI7UP, in Scottsdale Arizona.

As we go to air, the firefighters still on the scene are busy mopping up smoldering embers top insure no new eruptions take place. In some areas, crews are already at work seeding the burned land to help minimize the effects of erosion from the coming monsoon rain season. (ARNewsline™ from various sources)

RESCUE RADIO: EAS WORKING WELL IN THE ARIZONA WILD FIRE EVACUATIONS

The E-A-S system woked well in Arizona during the recent Rodeo Chedeski wildfires. According to reports in the CGC Communicator, Navajo and Apache County EAS woked almost flawlessly in ordering evacuations during fires. About 30,000 people were evacuated at the height of this emergency. (CGC Communicator)

AWARDS: JOSH ABRAMOWICZ, KB3GWY, NAMED ARNEWSLINE™ “YOUNG HAM OF THE YEAR”

The nominations are in and the committee has reached a decision on this yearsAmateur Radio Newsline Young Ham of the Year. And now its time to share that decision with you. And who better to make the announcement than the 2001 Young Ham of the year. Pareick clark, KC8BFD. introduces us to yet another young ham who is keeping the hobby alive:

--

He is 17 years old. An 11th grader at Central Catholic High School in Reading Pennsylvania and an Eagle Scout. And less we forget, he loves bringing new young hams into the hobby through the scouting program. And for those reasons and many more, Amateur Radio Newsline has named Josh Abramowicz, KB3GWY, as its 2002 Young Ham of the Year.

Josh was away at a scout camp when the committee reached its decision. We finally got him on the phone and this was his reaction when we told him the news:

Abramowicz reaction audio
--

According to the nominating form, Josh Abramowicz became interested in ham radio because of his parents and the Boy Scouts. His dad is Mark NT3V and his mother is Suzanna NZ3G. Josh says that for him, becoming a ham was in the cards:

Abramowicz: I got into it [Amateur Radio] through them when they brought the stuff [ham station out years later after it had lied dormant for awhile. They hooked it up and I just could not keep my hands off of it As a matter of fact, I used to sneak up and just dial up and down the bands just listening to stuff sometimes."
--

His parents also gave Josh a good reason to get his ham ticket:

Abramowicz: "After the year years went by they said: 'Why don't you go and get your license – and by the way – if you don't get your license you are not getting a drivers license. I said O-K."
--

Talk about incentive licensing but in short order Josh had his Technician ticket. But it was his involvement in the Boy Scouts, a scouting Jamboree and a chance to operate K2BSA that really started his ham radio career:

Abramowicz: "So I looked into what was required on the application. Of coarse you had tio be a licensed Amateur Radio operator. By then I had my Technician license and I really started pushing for my General license. That's where I am now, studying for the Extra license."
--

As a member of the K2BSA staff at Fort A.P. Hill in Virginia, Josh helped to demonstrate ham radio to the 35,000 Scouts attending the event. He also helped in the training of some 400 Scouts who earned Radio Merit Badges at the gathering.

But thats not all. Another achievement credited to KB3GWY is that of organizing a scouting Amateur Radio Venture Crew with the Hawk Mountain Council in his hometown of Reading. PA. What is a Venturing Crew? Josh explains:

Abramowicz: “Its kind of like the Explorer program. It involves boys and girls over the age of 14 until you become an adult. It’s a completely separate program designated to high adventure kind of things – not your normal, average camping trips but more involved things like Philmont Treks and summer camp kinds of things or the Florida Sea Base would be considered high adventure.”
--

Josh presented his idea for a radio Venture Crew to the Frankford Amateur Radio Club and obtainded its support as the sponsoring organization. He then convinced the Hawk Mountain Council leadership to use space in a new science center at its headquarters for a perminant Amateur Radio station. This station will soon be available to campers the year round.

Abramowicz: “Its up here on the mountain. The propagation will be absolutely great. I’m expecting some really, really good DX from up here and we have high hopes. As a matter of fact, we are going to be doing a demonstration up here this weekend on Saturday. We are going to have some of the Venture Crrew kids up. Just fiddle around with to see whats open and see what we can find. Get the kids on and let them talk a little bit. Maybe a 2 meter set-up. And I think that the Cub Scouts are up that weekend. And they will be checking us out during their free time. They are up for a Super Cub Weekend.”

Josh Abramowicz, KB3GWY, will receive his Young Ham of the Year Award plaque at the Huntsville Hamfest in Huntsville Alabama on Saturday August 17th. His trip to the hamfrest is a gift from Vertex Standard Corporation which wiull also be prssenting Josh with a gift of its Yaesu brand ham radio gear. Josh will also receive a week at Spacecamp Huntsville courtesy of CQ Magazine.

The committee judging the award also name to runner-up finalists. They are Evan Anderson, KC0CWP, of Ashland Nebraska and Thomas Tenaglia, K3TAT who lives in West Chester Pennsylvania. Both will receive a certificate of appreciation from the award sponsors. (ARNewsline™)

REMEMBERING THE PAST: HEIL DONATES SPECIAL MICS TO QUEEN MARY AMATEUR STATION

A special presentation of ‘commemorative microphones’ honoring the operators of the Queen Mary ocean liner Amateur Radio station will be made on Saturday, July 27th. This, by by Bob Heil, K9EID, the President of Heil Sound Ltd..

The Queen Mary is permanently docked in Long Beach California. The ship is a popular tourist attraction as is its Amateur Radio station, W6RO, which operates daily from the historic Queen Mary Wireless Room. And it is in that Wireless Room that the presentation will be made.

According to K9EID, the new microphones are being custom manufactured for the Wiress Room. He adds that each is an exact replica of the broadcast mic's used during the years the Queen Mary was at sea. (Heil Sound release)

PROMOTING HAM RADIO: CQ MAGAZINE TAKES ON "THE HUMAN RACE"

CQ magazine has been named the Official Journal of "The Human Race." "The Human Race" is a planned educational television series in which two amateur radio operators will participate in a global "road rally." Amateur Radio Newsline's Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ, has an in depth look at the show and how it will work:

How does it work? Simple. There will be two ham radio contestants. One ham will head East and the other West from Kansas City Missouri beginning in July of 2003. Over the next six months the hams will travel around the world but using only transportation that is volunteered by other amateur operators that the ham competitors meet along the way. The race will end in a location roughly halfway around the world where the paths of the two competitors cross.

But thats only part of the story. Along the way, each racer will encounter a series of pre-selected "ham hosts." These are people who have expertise in a particular area of amateur radio. They not only play host to the competeing amateur, but also are interviewed by the competitor about their area of specialty and the role ham radio has played in their lives.

William Desjardins, W1ZY, is the shows producer. He says that " 'The Human Race' is based on the premise that Amateur Radio is inherently a human activity. As such, technology is a tool used by people around the world to connect and communicate with each other."

Desjardens: “People who use the Internet, and use chat rooms and send video pictures to each other -- and engage in instant messaging and so forth -- these people are prime candidates to become amateur Radio operators.”
--

By way of technology, each competitor will be outfitted with advanced communications systems, including amateur stations. Each will also be accompanied by a TV production crew and tracked using the Global Positioning System and APRS. This information will be displayed on a constantly updated website enabling hams and others around the world to follow the progress of the race making it a competition that everyone can be a part of.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ.

For its part, CQ will publish a series of articles and updates written by Human Race Producer Desjardins. It will also provide updates and additional information on its website.

The tentative schedule calls for the completed 8-part series ready to air in the fall of 2004.For more information on "The Human Race," see the program website at www.home.earthlink.net/~bdesj but soon to be moved to http://www.humanrace.org (CQ)

INTERNATIONAL – UK – A SECOND CHANCE FOE DIGITAL TV

Still in the U-K, an attempt is being made to revive that nations terrestrial digital TV industry. This, following the collapse of ITV Digital, the company that held the license. According to the Netherlands based Media Network e-newsletter, the U-K's Independent Television Commission considered four bids to take over the license, and has decided to award it to a consortium consisting of the British Broadcasting Company, British Sky Broadcasting and transmission services provider Crown Castle Communications. But the question remains as to whether or not the new consortium be able to restore confidence in the British digital television industry. I take my foundation exam next week. I'm sorry to see that the elitism and snobism that I was told existed in the amateur fraternity really does exist. I don't think it was the difficulty of the exam that stopped newcommers becomeing Radio Amamteurs, it was that no one wanted to associate with such stuck up snobs as yourselves. I don't know about boycotting M3's, maybe we should boycot all you others!!!!

Seriously, there are a lot of good people on my course who will make good amateurs, stop moaning that it's not fair because you had to sit a harder exam. Wait to you contact an M3 on the air and then make your decision about how good a broadcater they are then. Please put your prejudices away and give us a chance!

Regards Chris Heaton.

Jarmo, the voltage across a capacitor drops to 36.8% of its initial value. You can find the voltage across the capacitor in one timne constant by changing the 36.8% to the decimal value equivalent or 0.368. 800 V * 0.368 = 294.4 volts. 294 volts = one time constant. You're looking for how long the time constant is, so multiply the "megs" times the "micros" 1 Megohm * 450 microfarads = 450 seconds = the answer.

Try http://www.aa9pw.com and see if it helps. This site creates random code which you can somewhat customize. When fully functional, it also creates random QSO's, but that function in currently disabled. This site also offers practice written exams that may help you in your study for the written test.

There is a reason for the selection of 294 volts; it is without checking it 36.8 percent of the original in which case T = CR which makes 45 seconds correct. This has been a good old warhorse of a question since about the time of Sitting Bull.
May not be correct but it is right.

Even at the Extra level, U.S. exams have never been mathematically difficult.

I think the formula has to recognize that the discharge rate decreases with the voltage remaining which makes the extra 5 seconds a bit easier to explain.

If you solve for the time, you take the natural logarithm of both sides of the equation and get an answer of

t = -(RC) * ln(294/800)

With the rest of the numbers inserted, you should get t = -(1E6*450E-6) * (-1.001032) = 450.46 sec which agrees with the question pool's answer when rounded to three significant digits.

P.S., The equation above works everywhere in the world, except for portions of West Virginia. In those places, there are no natural logarithms.

You can take a number of old cell phones and get them to go into service mode. The Motorola bag phones come to mind, and most of them require a jumper across the plug normally used to go to the battery to go into that mode. Search around the web for the phone you're thinking about modifying.

It ain't necessary legal, but quite a few of the older analog phones will scan the cell frequencies when in service mode. Viola, your phone becomes a scanner! Again, use a search engine like Google to find instructions for your particular cell phone.

Haven't you folks figured it out yet? Wiseman is a sick individual. All he want is attention. Good, bad, it doesn't matter. All he wants is attention.

Don't you see how this all looks to some poor guy or gal interested in Amateur radio? Can you imagine some youngster sitting at a computer trying to find something about this Ham radio stuff and running into this sort of thing?

No wonder we are losing in the numbers game. Wiseman is one of the main reasons it is happening. And giving him this sounding board certainly does not help.

If you people would just ignore him he will go away. After all he is just a jammer wanting to jam. Since he can't do it on the air anymore, then he does it here.

Want proof of that? He was bad enough before but after he got popped what happened? See my point.

I'm done with this goof. From now on I block his posts.

Just like lots of us used to do to you when you went ballistic on 14.313.
We'd block you by turning off the radio.
Would you rather we talk about you, instead? Seems that you raised your share of garbage on the HF bands and, like Roger, all you wanted was attention, too. Apparently you DID get attention...Riley's!
Golly, Dan. Come to think of it you and Roger have something in common besides the Air Force after all.

For instance t= R*C

R= 200 Ohms
C= 100 pf

200 ohms * 100 pf = 20 ms
Fuill discharge would take 5 time constants, so 5 * 20 ms = 100 ms.

Hey Moron,

If your gonna tell a story, at least get it right. It was not a meat cleaver, it was a kitchen knife. She wasnt chasing me, she was after the kids. And who made ALL of the reports? ME !!. Any other

Im not claiming to "as clean as the winddriven snow", and never will.
As for my cussing and acting like a shit, your right. And when did it stop? When those stumpjumping malcontent assholes stopped jamming' me on a nightly basis. As far as Im concerned the "war" is over, and unless attacked, as in the past, by blatent lies and jamming, it will stay over. The ball is in the stumpers court, simple as that. Leave me alone and I'll do the same.

Noboby pressured me to resign as an OO. I resigned because I realized that the program was a farce. I resigned because I could no longer remain out of the fight on 3.901. I could not in all good coincience be a OO and be in the fight at the same time. So I resigned.

And for your information, I NEVER sent out any OO cards for ANY of the crap that happened on 75 or 20. Why? Because I was not an outsider looking in, I was in the mess and thus could not be objective. You can believe me or not, I don't care which.

The only reason I was attacked by Polly and his braindead crew was because I talked to Rich Whiten. An enemy of my enemy is a friend of mine. Bet you read that somewhere eh?

My view of life is simple....you can be my friend, or my enemy.. YOUR CHOICE..but if you chose enemy, your one for life.

Hmmm, I leave a.f. for a short while to enjoy the summer and focus on my dragonboat racing to help raise money for disabled children and notice that nothing has changed. Surprise. Surprise. Same old boring fuckheads. Of course, the most unexciting aspect to all this is chickenshit Suzielame poking her fat ugly beaver in to brag about her pathetic retard lame awards and Roger ineloquently autolaming himself to death - competing with the most dried up of old used sponges in the "blow the guage on the stoopid meter" division. If this were dragonboating between me and a.f., it would be like winning against a boatfull of overweight arm-amputees.
==========

Feeling pathetic? Thinking maybe it's time to end it all, or at least the portion of it all that keeps girls from talking to you? Cheer up, gloomypants! The fact is, you could be even MORE pathetic! Here's how:

Your name could be Roger Wiseman.

You take a break from usenet only to find that the content contains mainly of Suzielame trying to intimidate some newbie with her a.f. retard "awards" and Roger continuing in his best tradition to out-stoopid the most braindead of sponges. You leave in disgust and ask yourself, why did I even bother?

You could get demoted from scaling fish to gutting Roger Wiseman.

Your shirts could be pee-stained and your underwear mustard-stained, instead of vice-versa. Or the name Roger Wiseman could be sewn into the backs of those soiled diapers while you're spewing filth on usenet and calling everyone a pedophile who doesn't agree with you.

You could still be addressing your pillow as "Kathy Ireland" instead of having switched to Cindy Crawford in 1999. Or you could be cooing in the ear of your dead mother underneath your Inspector Gadget sheets.

You might only have the FIFTH most popular collection of Roger Wiseman PKB's, Autolames, & IKYABWAI's on usenet.

Your mom could take that one old video of you dressed up as Batman, singing the Batman song and playing air guitar, and she could show it to everyone at work instead of only those who make it to the annual Christmas party. Or you could be more like Roger Wiseman and spend the days felching the worms from her decomposing arse.

If you hadn't torn your Inspector Gadget sheets, you might still be using them today. Or your name could be Roger Wiseman and you could be over forty and find yourself sharing those same sheets with your dead mother.

You could have completely lost that one online argument about how a eighth-level druid could completely kick an eighth-level ranger's ass. Or you could be the first to lose an argument to Roger Wiseman on usenet.

You could still be pronouncing "ebullient" wrong. Or you could be creating typo's all over the place while posting spell-lames just like Roger Wiseman.

It could have been a supervisor who walked in on you masturbating into the bathroom sink, instead of just a janitor. Or it could have been Roger Wiseman offering your kid a candy in the park.

You could forget to omit breed when people ask you about your corgi-bite scar. Or you could have caught scabies while sleeping over at the Wiseman trailer household.

You could have failed to make any progress whatsoever in your efforts to not automatically look around in a panic whenever someone yells "Hey, loser!" Or your name could be Roger Wiseman and you could be absolute clueless to know what that means.

Your left testicle might not have finally descended. Or Roger Wiseman could be offering to help you with that left testy.

Someone might have seen you that day you almost fainted after stepping on a slug. Or someone might have seen you with Roger Wiseman.

If you knew more people, that'd just be more people who know how pathetic you are. Or you could be advertising it on usenet and ham radio like Roger Wiseman.

The only fun is making you dance. And the only discharges you are familiar with are those from your skanky wife's yeast infected cunt, Georgie. Maybe the ones in your senile old fucking daddy in the nursing home, because you had to change his Depends.

The way I said to calculate the time constant is correct, dumbfuck. You need to read up a little before you open your highly uninformed mouth. Just check any of the License prep manuals from say, Gordon West, and you'll see. You are trying to make yourself out to be some sort of "expert" when in fact you couldn't pass any tests if you had to retake them.

"Ha, ha; made you look" lame.

Yeah, what a stupid thing to do...use the internet for its intended purpose; to look stuff up. Boy, am I embarrassed to be using the internet.

So when someone spouts that "A is B" which I know to be wrong, and I do some research which verifies that "A is definitely not B" and I challenge the someone to prove their obvious lie, and the best they can do is say, "ha, ha; made you look," what does that say about them?

Hint: "them" in the preceding is you. The answer is not complimentary.

But hey, you've demonstrated that sufficiently by continuing to engage the other party whom you incessantly address with your drivel. Do you have the remotest idea how foolish you look doing that?

Well, they are only about 1/3watt, so by 'power' comparisons, they should be 'about' the same as a lot of FRS. But they seem to have a LOT better receive.

Still, I'd say they are comparable. But, since a LOT of HAM work is through repeaters, and the repeaters generally have fairly high 'input' antennas, they seem to have a respectable coverage in areas local to repeaters.

Curtain Boy has many, many personal problems. One of the most glaringly obvious is that if you tell Roger the sun is out, he will argue that it is not. If you tell Roger that it is Sunday, he will argue that it is not.
This is Roger's female side...his vagina causes a chemical imbalance and he has a difficult time reconciling that.
I was also told that Roger is supposed to maintain a regimen of certain medications to keep balanced. One of the area Hams let it slip that Roger is supposed to take Thorazine twice daily, but he often forgets. Sometimes, I am told, Roger doubles up on his doses and becomes a glassy-eyed zombie.
Roger is on disability as a result.

I'm not quite sure if this is the correct forum for this. I recently purchased a RELM WHS 150 VHF transceiver. This is a field programmable model; however, the radio must be taken apart, a dip switch thrown, then put back together for the radio to enter PROGRAM mode.

I'm looking for a mod that will enable me to enter PROGRAM mode from the DTMF keypad under normal operation. I know this mod can be done, because I've seen a radio that can do this... (the owner has NO clue how or why this can be done).

Can anyone here give me some help, or point me in the right direction??

Thanks in advance for any help...

There's neither snobbism nor elitism, merely a wish to maintain standards in what is a technical hobby.

It is not lawful to be a broadcaster in Ham Radio.

However, if your refer to operating, and your perceptions are that of operating, then you are a CBer, for that is nothing but operating, and does not need examination.

Ham Radio, however, is a technical pursuit for those suitable qualified. As I said, there's no elitism here - you yourself are welcome and, indeed, invited, to make the grade.

Sorry, but all the M3 exam test is operating, and that's silly. You wouldn't test for the ability to operate a mobile phone, neither are you tested for such for the CB licence.

It sure looks like the Marshall County ARES, and it even has a place to send email."

In the above quote you are trying to pass off a Alabama ARES website for one in West Virginia. You treally need to quit mixing your freebase cocaine and the alcohol, Georgie Girl.

That's fine, except KB8RPI isn't in charge of Marshall County ARES, you stupid fuck.
[end restore]

As usual, you FUCK UP royally, spinchter-expert. KB8RPI hasn't been in charge of the Marshall County ARES for over a year.

What type of psycho meds are you on Roger?
You should at least let us know, since the taxpayers are paying for your meds.

More claptrap from this source.

What he said is _WRONG!_

BR68 (which Mr Sockpuppet refuses to discuss) has "self-training in communications" as the reason for the Amateur Licence. It goes on to add "...which use includes technical investigations" As a subset repeat subset (as in SUBSET) of this.

Little wonder really why Mr Sockpuppet refuses to discuss it. It doesn't fit in with the law of the land in his Liberal Republic.

Beginning next Sunday, 21 July, there will be roughly 10,000 aircraft converging on Oshkosh WI for a week's stay. If statistics hold true, about 3000 of those aircraft will have at least one ham aboard, and 300-500 of them will have some way of using 2-meters while airborne (other than the HT with a rubber dicky in the window).

Me? The Kenwood 231 is plumbed into the audio switching panel and pilot/copilot headsets with a brazing-rod whip antenna out in the plastic wingtip. It is a fairly decent arrangement and we get good audio reports for most QSOs with almost no engine noise apparent.

Return home will probably peak on Saturday the 27th, with some earlier and some later.

If you all could listen for us and give us a shout on the national 2-meter calling frequency 146.52s, we'd appreciate it. Also understand that there may be times when we need to leave 2 meters abruptly to talk to the radar folks on the ground. Don't be surprised or keep calling us if we don't come back to you. We'll come back as soon as we can. Honest.

If we are at 10,000 AGL (a pretty common cruise altitude), our radio horizon is roughly 150 miles in any direction. That's a pretty long distance and in the midwest can cover three or four states at once. At 120 knots cruise, it takes us over two hours to go from one horizon to the other.

So funny to see Curtains Boy Wiseman now calling Dan all kinds of names, when just a couple of weeks ago Woger was quoting Dan for support, concerning Wogie's vast "knowledge" of military comms.
Thought we forgot, eh 2Test? Funny also that Curtains Boy babbles on about his "military service," yet says he split with Dan over politics.
Wiseman supports liberal Democrats for one reason. Like all those who feed off the public dole, Wiseman wants only those politicians who fund and support social welfare programs to get elected. Like most people in WVA, Wiseman lives off welfare, which buys his psycho-drugs and pays for his FAKE mental disabilities. Is it any wonder, Curtains Boy Wiseman split with Dan over politics? Has your case worker ever read any of your Usenet posts Wogie?

"Curtains Boy"

So you are a femme who is an intrerior decorator, Lllardasssss?
Or is the Paskell Eunuch Paris, Prison Bitch Punk and Oklahomo Femme hiding again, because he's a wannabe boxer who's got a yellow streak down his hunched

Why, you looking for a handout, Lllardasssss? Maybe you should work overtime bending conduit and carrying tools for the real electricians like bad audio Whorass has to just to make his mortgage payments. And what is "public assistnace," Lllllardasssssssssssssssssssssssssssssssssssssssssssssssss?
Sorry, PUNK, I don't get welfare check, I have enough money. More than you'll ever earn in your lifetime.

Hey, Wiseman. What did those caretakers at the Funny Farm feed you during your 1999 stay?
It sure wasn't brain food.

The West Virginia Bureau of Motor Vehicles placed this disclaimer on Wiseman's drivers license.

"Any resemblance to real persons, living or dead is purely coincidental. Approved for veterans. Avoid contact with skin. Batteries not included. Contents under pressure. Package sold by weight, not volume. Parental guidance suggested. Simulated picture. No riders. No solicitors."

What's this?? First there were cigarette lighters that look like guns, now there'll be flasks that look like guns.... (Actually, I have one.
It wasn't for liquor. Years ago some cologne came in a bottle that was shaped like an old flintlock pistol...)

Hi all,

My TS-570 is only putting out 60W on SSB. I want it to be appx. 100W. I know how to do that on a TS-50, 450 and 850, but for the 570 i seem to have to go in a service menu and change it there.

Does anyone know how to do this? How to get in this menu and what settings to change?

Thanks a mountain,

Ton.

Really, it's a miracle he could stay SOBER long enough. I hear him crfy over his gay lover Eric when he died of his AIDS a few years ago. Poor old drunken VVV, he was heartbroken that his femme croaked from his AIDS.

Did you have a good weekend? Had to work all weekend. I'm getting ready to visit my Mom next week in Iowa. I'll be gone all next week for Thanksgiving. You got Thanksgiving plans? You'll probably goto warm Florida! Iowa gets very cold this time of year.

I'm gonna get my picture taken this week to send to you. I have a digital camera. I'll send it as soon as I get it taken.

Are you still in School? I did'nt know If you were or not.

I'm sorry I have not had time to write you back. I've been working a lot right now. I am currently trying to get some more computer courses. For starters, I have brown hair, brown eyes. I have a few extra pounds, but been trying get to them off. I see you are college educated. I like that in a girl. I once dated a gal once, who all she wanted to do was sit at home and watch TV. Not my kind of gal! I have a computer education, and trying to get my A+ certification. I would make a good amount of money if I could get it passed. I'll be taking an online course.

1) Push the button marked "PWR"
2) Turn the "MULTI" control to select the desired level.

Couldn't be simpler.

Curtains Boy would like people to believe he is very sophisticated, Masters Degree, job that allows him to post to Usenet from work, several women he dates, etc. What is so funny is that we know otherwise.

Again with the curtains, Eunuch Paris.....you must've gotten that bald, oblong head banged against the steel bars when black Bubba Washington was ass fucking you, Eunuch Paris.

Eunuch Paris, longing for the day he can get that hair transplant, so he can return to that "A Flock of Seagulls" hairstyle.

Poor Eunuch Paris, he remembers dressing up as the Tim Curry character in the 'Rocky Horror Picture Show" fishnet stockings and lipstick and all........

On the waves of the air,
Geno's shitty underwear.
If you have a credit card beware,
he can steal it.

And Geno's a prison woman,
he moves through the light, hoping the K-Y shipment came in.
When he tried for a new identity yeah, Geno's not very bright,

then Geno became a night queefer, night queefer.
Geno knows how to blow it.
Geno's a night queefer, night queefer.
He knows how to blow it.

Here Geno is, prayin' for his reaming to last,
livin' on the music so fine, borne on breaking wind,
tastin' it like wine.

Night queefer, night queefer.
Geno knows how to blow it.
Geno's a night queefer, night queefer.
He knows how to blow it.

In the heat of Bubba's love,
Geno don't need no help for him to make it.
Gimme just enough to take us to the mornin'.
Geno whines with black choad in his ass.
He got higher in his assfuckin'.
And he's glowin' in the dark;
I give you warnin'.

And Geno's a prison woman,
he moves through the cell-light,

Can you imagine...that Schoenbohm creature is back on the bands? And the Administrative Law Judge was a Jewish gent named Steinberg whom I'm sure had no knowledge of FZ's vicious anti-Semitism whch I can prove by tape. How odd this all is. WB2OTK gets what seems to be a "forever boot" off ham radio and did nothing but accidentally launch an email. KV4FZ is convicted of this, of that, was called a liar and he's back. I am totally bewildered but then again what's happened to Conservatism in this nation? I thought GW and company would be tough noogies but when a rat like Johnny "Taliban" Lindh, an American who had an avowed hatred of this nation and would have killed Americans in Afghanistan gets 20 years instead of the death sentence and that 20 may go down to actually 10, we're talking more liberal than liberal. I simply cannot believe that KV4FZ got a "pass". What a travesty.

ENFORCEMENT BUREAU'S

PROPOSED FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

I. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. By Hearing Designation Order, 17 FCC Rcd 1369 (2002) ("HDO"), the Commission commenced this proceeding to determine whether the above-captioned Amateur Radio Service applications filed by Herbert L. Schoenbohm should be granted. The Commission concluded a hearing was necessary because Mr. Schoenbohm had offered no evidence of rehabilitation to offset previously adjudicated disqualifying behavior. Specifically, Mr. Schoenbohm had used illicitly obtained telephone company access codes, which resulted in a felony conviction,[1] and he had testified deceitfully in a subsequent Commission hearing.[2]

2. Consequently, in paragraph 7 of the HDO, the Commission specified the following issues for resolution in this proceeding:

(a) To determine whether Herbert L. Schoenbohm possesses the requisite character qualifications to be a Commission licensee.

(b) To determine, in light of the evidence adduced under issue (a), whether the captioned applications should be granted.

3. Paragraph 10 of the HDO placed the burden of the introduction of evidence and the burden of proof on Mr. Schoenbohm.

4. A hearing on the issues was held in Washington, D.C. on May 7, 2002. The record in this proceeding was closed that same day. Tr. 189.

II. Proposed Findings of Fact

A. background

5. In December 1992, Mr. Schoenbohm was convicted for fraudulently using a counterfeit access device to obtain long distance telephone service in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1029(a)(1). Decision, 13 FCC Rcd at 15028. Mr. Schoenbohm was sentenced to house arrest for two months, given two years probation, and ordered to pay a fine of $5,000. Id., 13 FCC Rcd at 15028.

6. In 1994, Mr. Schoenbohm filed applications to renew his Amateur Radio Service station license for KV4FZ and for his Amateur Radio Service operator license. In 1995, the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau, under delegated authority, designed Mr. Schoenbohm's applications for hearing. HDO, 17 FCC Rcd at 1370. Following two hearing sessions, the Commission, in July 1998, determined that Mr. Schoenbohm had engaged in misrepresentation and was not fully candid in describing his conviction. The Commission found that Mr. Schoenbohm had testified deceptively about his conviction both in 1995 and again in 1997. Decision, 13 FCC Rcd at 15029-31; Tr. 39. In addition, the Commission found that Mr. Schoenbohm had testified deceptively in 1997 about an amateur radio transmission he made in 1995, during which Mr. Schoenbohm solicited others to make ex parte presentations to the Commission on his behalf. Decision, 13 FCC Rcd at 15032-36. Accordingly, the Commission denied Mr. Schoenbohm's applications. However, in accordance with its usual policy, the Commission authorized Mr. Schoenbohm to continue to operate his amateur station until the 91st day following the release date of judicial review of its decision. Decision, 13 FCC Rcd at 15037. Subsequent to the Supreme Court's action in October 2000, which denied Mr. Schoenbohm's petition for a writ of certiorari, Mr. Schoenbohm ceased operating amateur station KV4FZ in late January 2001. He submitted the applications currently under consideration on March 31, 2001. Tr. 42. In conjunction with his applications, Mr. Schoenbohm, on April 14, 2001, took and passed an examination for an extra class amateur license administered by the American Radio Relay League. Schoenbohm Ex. 31.

B. Character Generally

7. At the instant hearing, Mr. Schoenbohm testified that, prior to his conviction, he had never been convicted of any felony or serious crime. He further testified that, subsequent to his conviction, he has not been convicted of anything. Schoenbohm Ex. 1. Before the Commission denied his renewal applications in 1998, Mr. Schoenbohm had held an amateur license for over 40 years. Schoenbohm Ex. 14. He also holds a general radiotelephone operator license. Schoenbohm Ex. 43.

8. As for his testimony at the prior proceeding, Mr. Schoenbohm explained that he "was in a state of denial, believing that [he] had been wrongfully convicted of a crime that [he] did not commit." Schoenbohm Ex. 1. Notwithstanding his personal opinion of the events surrounding his conviction, Mr. Schoenbohm now realizes that he was found guilty and that he is a felon. Id. Addressing the fact that his written testimony in this proceeding omits any reference to the Commission's findings that he misrepresented facts and lacked candor in his 1995 and 1997 testimony regarding his felony conviction and ex parte communication solicitation, Mr. Schoenbohm explained that he did not think he had to address the Commission's findings from the prior proceeding. Schoenbohm Ex. 1; Tr. 44, 46-47.

9. Mr. Schoenbohm understands that the purpose of the instant hearing is to determine whether he has "been sufficiently rehabilitated such that the Commission could be confident that [he] could be relied upon to deal with the Commission in an honest and forthright manner." Tr. 43. In support of his claim that he now possesses the requisite character qualifications, Mr. Schoenbohm testified that he has worked hard to rehabilitate himself "and to overcome the effects of [his] conviction" and "to demonstrate that [he is] capable of obeying the law and, in particular, the FCC's rules and regulations." Schoenbohm Ex. 1. In this regard, Mr. Schoenbohm testified that for about the past eight years, he has "held a responsible position with the Virgin Islands government, in charge of expenditures and supervision of large amount[s] of money and property. During that time, nobody has accused me of any dishonesty, connected with my work." Schoenbohm Exs. 1. See also Schoenbohm Ex. 45. In this regard, the record reflects that Mr. Schoenbohm has worked in various capacities in the Virgin Islands Department of Property and Procurement. Tr. 47; Schoenbohm Exs. 4, 13, 30, 41, 45, 56. Among other positions, Mr. Schoenbohm has been the manager for the Recovery Hill repeater site. In that role, he "issued a plan of attack to get all the illegal, unlicensed, not properly licensed or wrong location squatters that had moved in over the past ten years and were using the facility." Tr. 48. More recently, Marc Briggs, the Commissioner of the Department of Property and Procurement, designated Mr. Schoenbohm a department "Essential Employee," effective August 21, 2001. Schoenbohm Ex. 41.

10. In his capacity as a member of the Virgin Islands Department of Property and Procurement, Mr. Schoenbohm serves on a committee that evaluates all government radio purchases. Tr. 47. The chief legal counsel for the department appointed Mr. Schoenbohm as the "radio site inspector" to investigate whether certain other Virgin Islands government agencies were procuring improperly licensed radios by skirting the competitive bidding process. Tr. 47-48. Mr. Schoenbohm testified that he has sent a letter to Joseph Casey of the Commission's Enforcement Bureau regarding this matter, and that Mr. Schoenbohm has communicated "with [Commission] field personnel in Puerto Rico, Rueben Jusino, and ha[s] been cooperating with him in trying to get information, invoices, serial numbers, locations of radios," in this on-going investigation. Tr. 48.

11. Mr. Schoenbohm also responded to a complaint letter Riley Hollingsworth, an FCC attorney, forwarded to Mr. Schoenbohm. Tr. 79. According to Mr. Schoenbohm, Louis Bean, an amateur licensee, complained to the FCC about Mr. Schoenbohm's operating a radio station associated with Mr. Bean's amateur repeater. Tr. 78-80. Mr. Schoenbohm notes that Mr. Bean claimed that Mr. Schoenbohm restored Mr. Bean's station to operation "by hook or by crook." Tr. 78. Mr. Schoenbohm explained that, years ago, his call sign had been the designated call sign for use on the repeater. Tr. 80. When Mr. Schoenbohm's call sign was removed from the repeater, Mr. Bean began using his call sign on the repeater. Tr. 80. Mr. Schoenbohm testified that he never had the ability to operate the equipment associated with Mr. Bean's call sign. Mr. Schoenbohm testified his only involvement with the repeater was to unplug the equipment in response to the letter from Mr. Hollingsworth. Tr. 81.

12. With regard to his reputation in the community, Mr. Schoenbohm is an elected and non-elected official of the Republican Party of the United State Virgin Islands. Tr. 52; Schoenbohm Ex. 3. Mr. Schoenbohm also continues to do volunteer work, although not to the same extent as he did before his license was not renewed due to the passing of time. For example, Mr. Schoenbohm recently worked on a triathlon. Tr. 52.

13. The only other witness to testify in person was Mr. Frank Todd of Port Vue, Pennsylvania, who testified as to Mr. Schoenbohm's reputation in the amateur radio community. Schoenbohm Ex. 22; Tr. 129-145. Mr. Todd, who has recently recovered from a car accident, traveled 236 miles to appear at the hearing. Tr. 131. Mr. Todd has known Mr. Schoenbohm since approximately 1995, when, at the age of 13, Mr. Todd became interested in amateur radio and used to monitor Mr. Schoenbohm's transmissions. Tr. 140-141; Schoenbohm Ex. 22. During his years of listening to Mr. Schoenbohm, Mr. Todd found Mr.

Shoenbohm's deportment exemplary. Id. Mr. Todd testified that he considers Mr. Schoenbohm "a positive role model in amateur radio and an individual that is capable of making a very significant contribution to the Amateur Radio Service." Id. In fact, Mr. Schoenbohm was the "prime inspiration and motivation" that led to Mr. Todd's acquisition of amateur license K3EKO. Id.

14. Mr. Todd did not meet Mr. Schoenbohm in person until 1999. Tr. 141. Although Mr. Todd did not have an amateur license at that time, he traveled to the Virgin Islands to meet Mr. Schoenbohm, and he stayed with Mr. Schoenbohm and his family for a week. Schoenbohm Ex. 22. Mr. Todd testified that he believes Mr. Schoenbohm to be a "decent, honest and hard-working person" and hopes the Commission will allow Mr. Schoenbohm "to prove himself and enjoy his later years through a wonderful activity like amateur radio." Id.

15. Mr. Todd testified that he is familiar with the reasons underlying the Commission's 1998 decision not to grant Mr. Schoenbohm's renewal applications. Tr. 133. Specifically, Mr. Todd acknowledged that he was aware of Mr. Schoenbohm's lack of candor regarding his testimony about his toll fraud conviction; however, Mr. Todd also admitted that he didn't understand the Commission's findings regarding Mr. Schoenbohm's lack of candor regarding his ex parte communications. Tr. 133, 136, 139. Mr. Todd' s awareness of the Commission's finding regarding Mr. Schoenbohm's lack of candor did not change Mr. Todd's opinion as to Mr. Schoenbohm's qualifications because Mr. Todd believes that Mr. Schoenbohm has been truthful to him. Tr. 137, 140. Mr. Todd further testified that "[r]egardless of whatever Mr. Schoenbohm may have done, he has certainly had time to make the adjustments in his life necessary to re-qualify himself as a candidate for an Amateur Radio License." Schoenbohm Ex. 22.

C. WSTX/WSTX-FM

16. After Hurricane Lenny hit the Virgin Islands in 1999 and interrupted the power supply for station WSTX(AM), Mr. Schoenbohm restored the station's antenna and tuned the transmitter so that the station could continue operating. Tr. 51, 53-54, 60, 62-63. Mr. Schoenbohm testified that after Hurricane Lenny passed through St. Croix, the Virgin Islands Emergency Management Agency directed him to install an antenna to ensure that station WSTX was able to operate "so the public could be informed by FEMA and by the local government agencies on relief supplies. They considered it vital to put that station back on the air," because WSTX(AM) was the primary station that people listened to during emergencies. Tr. 60-61, 64. Mr. Schoenbohm advised the owner of station WSTX that he would need a competent consulting engineer in order to put the station in the proper mode, and that he would have to notify the Commission of the station's circumstances and file the necessary papers as soon as practicable. Tr. 58, 60, 64-65.

D. Contest

17. In October 2001, subsequent to the cancellation of the license for amateur station KV4FZ, Mr. Schoenbohm served as a host for a participant in an international radio competition or contest. Schoenbohm Ex. 1; Tr. 81. The purpose of the competition was to have contestants make contact with other amateur stations around the world. Essentially, the message sent and received involved each station identifying itself and transmitting a message consisting of a signal report and a numeral identifying which of 40 "zones" where the station was located. The contestant(s) who had the highest score would win. Tr. 84, 89, 102. Some months earlier, Mr. Schoenbohm had placed a notice on the Internet advising that he would rent out part of his home to amateur radio operators who wished to participate. Tr. 88. Steven S. Reichlyn, amateur radio licensee of station AA4V, accepted Mr. Schoenbohm's offer and indicated that he and a friend would like to use Mr. Schoenbohm's facilities, to include use of his home and radio equipment (a transmitter, amplifier, and a switch for some antennas). Tr. 89-90. At the last minute, Mr. Reichlyn's friend cancelled. Tr. 89. Nevertheless, Mr. Reichlyn arrived at Mr. Schoenbohm's home on or about October 25, 2001, two days before the start of the contest, and did not leave Mr.Schoenbohm's premises until after the contest ended on October 28, 2001. Tr. 81.

18. The contest began on Saturday, October 27, 2001, at 00:00 Greenwich Mean Time ("GMT") and lasted 48 hours. Tr. 96, 98, 100-101; EB Ex. 3. Mr. Reichlyn operated from inside of Mr. Schoenbohm's house, a single-level dwelling that is "basically a very open area that is separated only by" louvered windows. Tr. 90. Mr. Reichlyn stopped transmitting at 0627 GMT, 27 October and asked Mr. Schoenbohm if he would like to operate the microphone because of Mr. Schoenbohm's expertise at operating on low frequencies. Tr. 109. Because Mr. Reichlyn had entered a two-man contest, he could have another person assist him with the contest. Tr. 97. Mr. Schoenbohm accepted and began operating the equipment under Mr. Reichlyn's call sign from 0627 to 0758 GMT. Tr. 98, 110, 116. Mr. Schoenbohm contacted multiple operators during that period, including contacts with operators in St. Martin, Scotland, the Canary Islands, New Zealand, Ireland, and Aruba. Tr. 105, 106, 112, 113-114, 116; EB Ex. 3. According to Mr. Schoenbohm, Mr. Reichlyn did not stay in the equipment room with him, but, nevertheless, supervised him during this time period by remaining on the premises and staying within earshot of Mr. Schoenbohm and observing Mr. Schoenbohm's operations. Tr. 111.

19. Mr. Reichlyn resumed operating the microphone at 0758 GMT and did not ask Mr. Schoenbohm to take over for him again until the following day. Tr. 101, 117. Mr. Schoenbohm thereupon operated the equipment from 0834 to 0903 GMT, 28 October. Tr. 101, 117; EB Ex. 3. During this second spell at the microphone, Mr. Schoenbohm again contacted multiple operators, including operators located in New Zealand and the Wallis and Futuna Islands (a French possession in the South Pacific). Tr. 119; EB Ex. 3. Mr. Schoenbohm testified that, during this second time period, Mr. Reichlyn "did not leave the premises" and that he, Mr. Reichlyn, was "always in a position to exercise the necessary controls to comply with the rules and regulations." Tr. 127-28. Mr. Schoenbohm testified that his premises consist of the "ham shack" and a very small yard, and that Mr. Reichlyn was always within earshot of the facility and that "he was always in a position to control the time, periods of time that I was operating." Tr. 128.

20. Mr. Schoenbohm is aware that section 97.115 of the Commission's rules prohibits certain communications involving a "third party."[3] Mr. Schoenbohm asserts that he did not violate section 97.115 of the Commission's rules when he operated radio equipment under Mr. Reichlyn's call sign. Schoenbohm Ex. 1; Tr. 106. As Mr. Schoenbohm understands that rule, he would be prohibited, as an unlicensed operator, from "passing messages to a third party." Tr. 106; 108. Mr. Schoenbohm contends that the rules would not, however, prohibit him "from being a voice behind the microphone to establish the communication" with another operator. Tr. 106; 108. Mr. Schoenbohm understood that, so long as a licensed operator supervises the transmission, an unlicensed operator, such as Mr. Schoenbohm, could speak into the microphone. Tr. 108.

E. Effect of the Loss of License

21. Mr. Schoenbohm acknowledged that "misrepresentation . . . is considered to be a cardinal sin at the Commission," and he viewed the Commission's denial of an application for renewal as "a death penalty." Tr. 175, 176. Although Mr. Schoenbohm disavowed any intent to deliberately deceive the trier of fact during his earlier Commission hearings, he specifically acknowledged that the mistakes he made in his prior testimony "were egregious mistakes, fatal mistakes." Tr. 180. Mr. Schoenbohm believes that being denied use of an amateur station for fifteen months has been an adequate sanction. Tr. 176. As he described it:

[i]f you have been off the air for a year in ham radio you have shamed yourself, like a Japanese industrialist would, before the entire amateur community. It is a very serious punishment when you are . . . a very high-profiled [sic] individual, involved a lot in contests and international operations, regarded as a person who has won contests and achieved world records, all of a sudden he is banished. That is a much more serious deterrent than a taxicab licensee losing his communication system for one year because it is a personal shame that is attached to it.

And it is very hard for me to explain that to you because only I know it. . . . I let the community down and the Virgin Islands down where I cannot perform the services they have relied on in the past because I can't even talk to the National Weather Service when a hurricane passes over. Tr. 176-177.

III. PROPOSED CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

22. The HDO requires the Commission to determine whether Herbert L. Schoenbohm possesses the requisite character qualifications to be a Commission licensee.

In assessing character, the Commission seeks to predict whether a prospective licensee will be honest in his dealings with the Commission and will abide by the Commission's rules and the Communications Act. See Policy Regarding Character Qualifications in Broadcast Licensing, 102 FCC 2d 1179, 1183, 1189-91 (1986) (subsequent history omitted) ("Character Policy Statement").[4] As discussed herein, the Bureau believes that the evidence, although mixed, supports a conclusion that Mr. Schoenbohm has the requisite character qualifications. In this regard, the Bureau notes that its reluctance to fully endorse Mr. Schoenbohm stems from his operation of an amateur station when he did not have a license to do so.

23. As noted in the HDO, the Commission considers various factors in determining whether an applicant such as Mr. Schoenbohm has rehabilitated himself and demonstrated that he possesses the requisite character qualifications to become or remain a licensee. Among other things, the Commission will consider: 1) whether the applicant has avoided any significant wrongdoing since the prior disqualifying misconduct; 2) the amount of time elapsed since the misconduct; 3) the applicant's reputation for good character in the community; and 4) meaningful measures taken by the applicant to prevent the future occurrence of misconduct. Moreover, in assessing the character of someone who, like Mr. Schoenbohm, had a previous application denied by the Commission, the Commission will also consider the deterrent impact of its previous action. Policy Regarding Character Qualifications in Broadcast Licensing, 5 FCC Rcd 3252, 3254 (1990) ("Modified Character Policy Statement").

24. Behavior subsequent to prior misconduct. The record reflects that Mr. Schoenbohm has not engaged in any criminal misconduct since his 1992 conviction for toll fraud. However, as discussed below, the record reflects that Mr. Schoenbohm violated the Communications Act subsequent to his 1995/1997 misconduct. Specifically, the findings support, and it should be concluded, that Mr. Schoenbohm's operation of Mr. Reichlyn's station during an amateur contest violated section 301 of the Communications Act, 47 U.S.C. § 301, because Mr. Schoenbohm's operation was not allowed by sections 97.5 and 97.7 of the Commission's rules.[5] Read together, those rules require that, during transmissions, an amateur station be under the physical control of a control operator who is a licensee. Clearly, that was not the case during the two hours Mr. Schoenbohm operated Mr. Reichlyn's station. Instead, the evidence reflects that Mr. Schoenbohm had physical control of the station. In this regard, even though Mr. Reichlyn was present or nearby and able to supervise Mr. Schoenbohm, it is apparent that Mr. Schoenbohm operated the station and made transmissions while at the microphone. Thus, Mr. Schoenbohm violated section 301 of the Act because he did not have a license to transmit and was not otherwise authorized to operate Mr. Reichlyn's station.[6] Finally, Mr. Schoenbohm's work on WSTX(AM)'s antenna in 1999 occurred in the context of restoring service following a hurricane. The "fix" was meant to be temporary, and Mr. Schoenbohm advised the licensee that additional work was needed before the station's antenna complied with the terms of the station's license. Mr. Schoenbohm worked as a contractor and was not responsible for the legality or illegality of WSTX's antenna.

25. Time since the misconduct. The evidence reflects that the last misrepresentation occurred in 1997, when Mr. Schoenbohm testified falsely before a Commission Administrative Law Judge. However, as noted above, Mr. Schoenbohm violated the Communications Act during a two-hour period in October 2001, when, although unlicensed, he operated Mr.

Reichlyn's station.

26. Applicant's reputation for good character in the community. The only direct evidence of reputation proffered by Mr. Schoenbohm was the testimony of Frank Todd. However, Mr. Todd testified unequivocally that Mr. Schoenbohm's reputation for good character in the Virgin Islands was favorable. The Bureau submits it is also appropriate to infer that Mr.

Schoenbohm's reputation for character in the local community is good in view of his current employment, his employment history, and his position in the local Republican Party. Specifically, as to employment, Mr. Schoenbohm has held and continues to hold positions of responsibility and trust in the Virgin Islands' Department of Property and Procurement.

27. Meaningful measures taken by the applicant to prevent the future occurrence of misconduct. The denial of Mr. Schoenbohm's renewal application occurred because he committed a felony and because he testified deceitfully before this agency. Consequently, meaningful measures should reasonably include a commitment by Mr. Schoenbohm to avoid criminal behavior and to be truthful in all his dealings with this agency. The findings reflect that such has occurred. As noted, Mr. Schoenbohm has not been convicted of anything since 1992, and there is nothing in the record to suggest that Mr. Schoenbohm will commit crimes in the future. As for truthfulness, Mr. Schoenbohm recognizes that he made "fatal mistakes" in his prior hearing testimony. While not exactly an unequivocal commitment to future truthfulness, the Bureau believes it sufficient, when coupled with Mr. Schoenbohm's recognition that misrepresentation is a "cardinal sin at the Commission," to constitute a meaningful measure to prevent a future recurrence of deceit.

28. Deterrent impact of previous denial. Mr. Schoenbohm has not been authorized to operate an amateur station since January 2001. Given his governmental positions and his previous use of amateur radio, inter alia, in connection with hurricane relief, Mr. Schoenbohm apparently had some notoriety in the amateur community. Thus, as he testified, his banishment, which has now extended some 17 months,[7] could have caused him great shame. Such shame, and the desire to avoid such shame in the future, should lead to the conclusion that the Commission's previous denial has had the desired deterrent impact. Notwithstanding Mr. Schoenbohm's October 2001 violation of the Communications Act, it is the Bureau's view that Mr. Schoenbohm has learned his lesson and will not, in the future, engage in behavior that calls into question his fitness to be a Commission licensee.

29. In light of the foregoing, it appears that Mr. Schoenbohm has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that he possesses the requisite character to be a Commission licensee.

IV. ULTIMATE CONCLUSION

30. Issue (b) requires the determination of whether, in light of the evidence adduced, the captioned applications should be granted. For the reasons noted above, the Bureau believes they should.

[1] See United States v. Schoenbohm, No. Crim.: 1991/0108 (D.V.I. Dec. 30, 1992), aff'd in pertinent part, No. 93-7516 (3d Cir. July 22, 1994), rehearing den. (3d Cir. Nov. 2, 1994).

[2] Herbert L. Schoenbohm, 13 FCC Rcd 15028 (1998) ("Decision"), recon. den., 13 FCC Rcd 23774 (1998), aff'd, 204 F.3d 243 (D.C. Cir. 2000), rehearing en banc denied (May 2, 2000), as amended (June 28, 2000), cert. denied, 531 U.S. 968 (2000).

[3] Section 97.3(46) of the Commission's rules defines a third party communication as a message from the control operator (first party) of an amateur station to another amateur station control operator (second party) on behalf of another person (third party).

[4] Although the character policy arose in the context of broadcast licensing, the principles used to assess character apply to all decisions involving Commission authorizations. See, e.g., Marc Sobel, 17 FCC Rcd 1872, 1893-94 (2002), recon. denied, 17 FCC Rcd 8562 (2002).

[5] Section 301 of the Communications Act reads in pertinent part: "No person shall use or operate any apparatus for the transmission of energy or communications or signals by radio . except under and in accordance with this Act and with a license.." In pertinent part, section 97.5(a) of the rules states: "The station apparatus must be under the physical control of a person named in an amateur station license grant on the ULS consolidated license database . before the station may transmit on any amateur service frequency.." 47 C.F.R. § 97.5(a). Section 97.7 of the rules provides: "When transmitting, each amateur station must have a control operator. The control operator must be a person: (a) For whom an amateur operator/primary station license grant appears on the ULS consolidated licensee database.." 47 C.F.R. § 97.7. Section 97.3(a)(13) defines control operator as: "An amateur operator designated by the licensee of a station to be responsible for the transmissions from that station to assure compliance with the FCC Rules," while section 97.3(a)(1) defines amateur operator as: "A person holding a written authorization to be the control operator of an amateur station." 47 C.F.R. § 97.3(a)(1) and (13).

[6] In light of this conclusion, the Bureau believes it need not address whether Mr. Schoenbohm's actions also resulted in a violation of section 97.115 of the rules, which regulates third party communications. See, generally, Kenwood Communications Corp., 15 FCC Rcd 13819, 13825 n. 29 (2000). See also 47 C.F.R. § 97.3(a)(46); Public Notice, Amateur Service International Arrangements, July 21, 1999, 1999 WL 511186. Moreover, even though Mr. Schoenbohm violated section 301 of the Act, the presiding officer may not impose a forfeiture due to the absence of the requisite notice. See 47 U.S.C. § 503(b)(3); 47 C.F.R. § 1.80(g).

[7] The Bureau notes that the Commission is considering an amendment to section 1.937 of the Commission's rules. In the Matter of Amendment of Section 1.937 of the Commission's Rules Concerning Repetitious or Conflicting Applications, 17 FCC Rcd 5628 (2002). Section 1.937 currently prohibits "repetitious" applications, that is, applications filed within 12 months of the denial or dismissal of a substantially similar application. While that rule did not explicitly bar Mr. Schoenbohm's current application, the Commission plainly intended that applicants such as Mr. Schoenbohm wait at least 12 months before seeking to reacquire the license that had been so recently lost. See id, 17 FCC Rcd at 5629. Because of the hearing proceeding, however, the passage of time between the denial of Mr. Schoenbohm's renewal application and the submission of his current application is no longer an issue of any import.

Anyone out there want to talk ham radio? As a suggestion lets start by discussing the following.

WHAT GOT YOU INTERESTED IN HAM RADIO IN THE FIRST PLACE.

TELL US ABOUT YOUR ELMER, IF YOU HAD ONE, AND WHAT HE TOLD YOU ABOUT AMATEUR RADIO.

TELL US ABOUT YOUR 1ST CONTACT FROM YOUR OWN STATION WITH YOUR OWN CALL.

If there is any interest I'll throw in my penny's worth.

Funny, I've been licensed since 1958 and, except for a few idiots -- which one finds in all human endeavors -- ham operators have been some of the nicest folks I have met, on the air and in person.

And, I operate a lot of CW. No foolishness there as CW separates the adults from those who never matured beyond age 16.

The "nets" and frequencies of stupid people do not bother me -- I learned a long time ago to drive around the trash in the road.

You are sadly in error with this gross generalization. I am refering to the 'typically like' part. I do agree that 'some' operators are idiots.

Please don' group the majority of polite and helpful hams into the group that contains a few.

But I have a feeling this post in merely meant to incite responses otherwise it could just be filed into the 'totally absurd' folder on our computers.

The moment Schoenbohm returns to 14313 the jammers will be all over him, and Hollingsworth can flush five years of enforcement work right down the shitter. Follow that with the moment Schoenbohm attempts to check into the Maritime Mobile Net all hell will let loose, and Hollingsworth can flush the shitter again just to make sure his five years of hard work are gone down the shitter. And of course history will repeat itself, because where Herbie goes, his little band of sycophants are sure to follow.

> I. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT
> 1. By Hearing Designation Order, 17 FCC Rcd 1369 (2002) ("HDO"), the > Commission commenced this proceeding to determine whether the > above-captioned Amateur Radio Service applications filed by Herbert L.

> Schoenbohm should be granted. The Commission concluded a hearing was > necessary because Mr. Schoenbohm had offered no evidence of rehabilitation > to offset previously adjudicated disqualifying behavior. Specifically,
Mr.
> Schoenbohm had used illicitly obtained telephone company access codes, which > resulted in a felony conviction,[1] and he had testified deceitfully in a > subsequent Commission hearing.[2]
>
>
> 2. Consequently, in paragraph 7 of the HDO, the Commission > specified the following issues for resolution in this proceeding:
>
> (a) To determine whether Herbert L. Schoenbohm possesses the > requisite character qualifications to be a Commission licensee.
> (b) To determine, in light of the evidence adduced under issue (a), > whether the captioned applications should be granted.
> 3. Paragraph 10 of the HDO placed the burden of the > introduction of evidence and the burden of proof on Mr. Schoenbohm.
>
> 4. A hearing on the issues was held in Washington, D.C. on May
> 7, 2002. The record in this proceeding was closed that same day. Tr.

> II. Proposed Findings of Fact
> 5. In December 1992, Mr. Schoenbohm was convicted for > fraudulently using a counterfeit access device to obtain long distance > telephone service in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1029(a)(1). Decision, 13
FCC
> Rcd at 15028. Mr. Schoenbohm was sentenced to house arrest for two months, > given two years probation, and ordered to pay a fine of $5,000. Id., 13

FCC
> Rcd at 15028.
>
>
>
> 6. In 1994, Mr. Schoenbohm filed applications to renew his > Amateur Radio Service station license for KV4FZ and for his Amateur Radio > Service operator license. In 1995, the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau,
> under delegated authority, designed Mr. Schoenbohm's applications for > hearing. HDO, 17 FCC Rcd at 1370. Following two hearing sessions, the > Commission, in July 1998, determined that Mr. Schoenbohm had engaged in > misrepresentation and was not fully candid in describing his conviction.
> The Commission found that Mr. Schoenbohm had testified deceptively about his > conviction both in 1995 and again in 1997. Decision, 13 FCC Rcd at > 15029-31; Tr. 39. In addition, the Commission found that Mr. Schoenbohm had > testified deceptively in 1997 about an amateur radio transmission he made in > 1995, during which Mr. Schoenbohm solicited others to make ex parte > presentations to the Commission on his behalf. Decision, 13 FCC Rcd at > 15032-36. Accordingly, the Commission denied Mr. Schoenbohm's applications.
> However, in accordance with its usual policy, the Commission authorized
Mr.
> Schoenbohm to continue to operate his amateur station until the 91st day > following the release date of judicial review of its decision. Decision, > 13 FCC Rcd at 15037. Subsequent to the Supreme Court's action in October > 2000, which denied Mr. Schoenbohm's petition for a writ of certiorari, Mr.
> Schoenbohm ceased operating amateur station KV4FZ in late January 2001.
He
> submitted the applications currently under consideration on March 31, 2001.
> Tr. 42. In conjunction with his applications, Mr. Schoenbohm, on April 14,

>
> B. Character Generally
>
> 7. At the instant hearing, Mr. Schoenbohm testified that, prior > to his conviction, he had never been convicted of any felony or serious > crime. He further testified that, subsequent to his conviction, he has not > been convicted of anything. Schoenbohm Ex. 1. Before the Commission denied > his renewal applications in 1998, Mr. Schoenbohm had held an amateur license > for over 40 years. Schoenbohm Ex. 14. He also holds a general > radiotelephone operator license. Schoenbohm Ex. 43.

>
>
>
> 8. As for his testimony at the prior proceeding, Mr. Schoenbohm explained > that he "was in a state of denial, believing that [he] had been wrongfully > convicted of a crime that [he] did not commit." Schoenbohm Ex. 1.
> Notwithstanding his personal opinion of the events surrounding his > conviction, Mr. Schoenbohm now realizes that he was found guilty and that he > is a felon. Id. Addressing the fact that his written testimony in this > proceeding omits any reference to the Commission's findings that he > misrepresented facts and lacked candor in his 1995 and 1997 testimony > regarding his felony conviction and ex parte communication solicitation,
Mr.
> Schoenbohm explained that he did not think he had to address the Commission' > s findings from the prior proceeding. Schoenbohm Ex. 1; Tr. 44, 46-47.
>
> 9. Mr. Schoenbohm understands that the purpose of the instant hearing is to > determine whether he has "been sufficiently rehabilitated such that the

of > his claim that he now possesses the requisite character qualifications,
Mr.
> Schoenbohm testified that he has worked hard to rehabilitate himself "and to > overcome the effects of [his] conviction" and "to demonstrate that [he is] > capable of obeying the law and, in particular, the FCC's rules and > regulations." Schoenbohm Ex. 1. In this regard, Mr. Schoenbohm testified > that for about the past eight years, he has "held a responsible position > supervision of large amount[s] of money and property. During that time, > nobody has accused me of any dishonesty, connected with my work."

> 0627 GMT, 27 October and asked Mr. Schoenbohm if he would like to operate > the microphone because of Mr. Schoenbohm's expertise at operating on low > frequencies. Tr. 109. Because Mr. Reichlyn had entered a two-man contest,
> he could have another person assist him with the contest. Tr. 97. Mr.
> Schoenbohm accepted and began operating the equipment under Mr. Reichlyn's > call sign from 0627 to 0758 GMT. Tr. 98, 110, 116. Mr. Schoenbohm > contacted multiple operators during that period, including contacts with > operators in St. Martin, Scotland, the Canary Islands, New Zealand, Ireland,

> and Aruba. Tr. 105, 106, 112, 113-114, 116; EB Ex. 3. According to Mr.
> Schoenbohm, Mr. Reichlyn did not stay in the equipment room with him, but, > the microphone, Mr. Schoenbohm again contacted multiple operators, including > operators located in New Zealand and the Wallis and Futuna Islands (a French > possession in the South Pacific). Tr. 119; EB Ex. 3. Mr. Schoenbohm > testified that, during this second time period, Mr. Reichlyn "did not leave > the premises" and that he, Mr. Reichlyn, was "always in a position to > exercise the necessary controls to comply with the rules and regulations."

> Tr. 127-28. Mr. Schoenbohm testified that his premises consist of the "ham > shack" and a very small yard, and that Mr. Reichlyn was always within > earshot of the facility and that "he was always in a position to control
the > time, periods of time that I was operating." Tr. 128.
> 20. Mr. Schoenbohm is aware that section 97.115 of the Commission's rules > not, however, prohibit him "from being a voice behind the microphone to > establish the communication" with another operator. Tr. 106; 108. Mr.

> Schoenbohm understood that, so long as a licensed operator supervises the

>
>
>
> 22. The HDO requires the Commission to determine whether Herbert L.
> Schoenbohm possesses the requisite character qualifications to be a > Commission licensee.
>
> In assessing character, the Commission seeks to predict whether a > prospective licensee will be honest in his dealings with the Commission and > will abide by the Commission's rules and the Communications Act. See Policy
> Regarding Character Qualifications in Broadcast Licensing, 102 FCC 2d 1179,
> 1183, 1189-91 (1986) (subsequent history omitted) ("Character Policy > Statement").[4] As discussed herein, the Bureau believes that the evidence, > although mixed, supports a conclusion that Mr. Schoenbohm has the requisite > character qualifications. In this regard, the Bureau notes that its > reluctance to fully endorse Mr. Schoenbohm stems from his operation of an > amateur station when he did not have a license to do so.
>
> 23. As noted in the HDO, the Commission considers various > factors in determining whether an applicant such as Mr. Schoenbohm has > rehabilitated himself and demonstrated that he possesses the requisite > character qualifications to become or remain a licensee. Among other > things, the Commission will consider: 1) whether the applicant has avoided

the > amount of time elapsed since the misconduct; 3) the applicant's reputation > for good character in the community; and 4)

> 24. Behavior subsequent to prior misconduct. The record > reflects that Mr. Schoenbohm has not engaged in any criminal misconduct > since his 1992 conviction for toll fraud. However, as discussed below,
the > record reflects that Mr. Schoenbohm violated the Communications Act > subsequent to his 1995/1997 misconduct. Specifically, the findings support,
> and it should be concluded, that Mr. Schoenbohm's operation of Mr.
Reichlyn'
> Communications Act, 47 U.S.C. 301, because Mr. Schoenbohm's operation was > not allowed by sections 97.5 and 97.7 of the Commission's rules.[5] Read > together, those rules require that, during transmissions, an amateur station
> be under the physical control of a control operator who is a licensee.
> Clearly, that was not the case during the two hours Mr. Schoenbohm operated
> Mr. Reichlyn's station. Instead, the evidence reflects that Mr.
Schoenbohm
> had physical control of the station. In this regard, even though Mr.
> Reichlyn was present or nearby and able to supervise Mr. Schoenbohm, it is > apparent that Mr. Schoenbohm operated the station and made transmissions > while at the microphone. Thus, Mr. Schoenbohm violated section 301 of the > Act because he did not have a license to transmit and was not otherwise > authorized to operate Mr. Reichlyn's station.[6] Finally, Mr.
Schoenbohm's
> work on WSTX(AM)'s antenna in 1999 occurred in the context of restoring > service following a hurricane. The "fix" was meant to be temporary, and Mr.
> Schoenbohm advised the licensee that additional work was needed before the > station's antenna complied with the terms of the station's license. Mr.
> Schoenbohm worked as a contractor and was not responsible for the legality > or illegality of WSTX's antenna.

> 25. Time since the misconduct. The evidence reflects that
the > last misrepresentation occurred in 1997, when Mr. Schoenbohm testified > falsely before a Commission Administrative Law Judge. However, as noted
> period in October 2001, when, although unlicensed, he operated Mr.
>
> Reichlyn's station.
>
>
>
> 26. Applicant's reputation for good character in the community.
> The only direct evidence of reputation proffered by Mr. Schoenbohm was the > testimony of Frank Todd. However, Mr. Todd testified unequivocally that Mr.
> Schoenbohm's reputation for good character in the Virgin Islands was > favorable. The Bureau submits it is also appropriate to infer that Mr.
>
> Schoenbohm's reputation for character in the local community is good in view
> of his current employment, his employment history, and his position in the > local Republican Party. Specifically, as to employment, Mr. Schoenbohm has > held and continues to hold positions of responsibility and trust in the > Virgin Islands' Department of Property and Procurement.
> 27. Meaningful measures taken by the applicant to prevent the > future occurrence of misconduct. The denial of Mr. Schoenbohm's renewal > application occurred because he committed a felony and because he testified > deceitfully before this agency. Consequently, meaningful measures should > reasonably include a commitment by Mr. Schoenbohm to avoid criminal behavior > and to be truthful in all his dealings with this agency. The findings > reflect that such has occurred. As noted, Mr. Schoenbohm has not been > convicted of anything since 1992, and there is nothing in the record to > suggest that Mr. Schoenbohm will commit crimes in the future. As for > truthfulness, Mr. Schoenbohm recognizes that he made "fatal mistakes" in his > prior hearing testimony. While not exactly an unequivocal commitment to > future truthfulness, the Bureau believes it sufficient, when coupled with > Mr. Schoenbohm's recognition that misrepresentation is a "cardinal sin at > the Commission," to constitute a meaningful measure to prevent a future > recurrence of deceit.
>

> 28. Deterrent impact of previous denial. Mr. Schoenbohm has > not been authorized to operate an amateur station since January 2001.
Given
> his governmental positions and his previous use of amateur radio, inter > alia, in connection with hurricane relief, Mr. Schoenbohm apparently had > some notoriety in the amateur community. Thus, as he testified, his > banishment, which has now extended some 17 months,[7] could have caused him > great shame. Such shame, and the desire to avoid such shame in the future, > should lead to the conclusion that the Commission's previous denial has had > the desired deterrent impact. Notwithstanding Mr. Schoenbohm's October 2001 > violation of the Communications Act, it is the Bureau's view that Mr.
> Schoenbohm has learned his lesson and will not, in the future, engage in > behavior that calls into question his fitness to be a Commission licensee.

Roger "Shebelle" Wiseman's continual references to female clothing is noted. It appears Curtains Boy is projecting again.
He definitely has a "thing" about woman's clothing. It appears the information Eugene has been posting is correct.

>Go to a ham club. Be ignored.
You WILL be ignored if you are a radio amateur, but are not interested in the "Ham" agenda.

For example, I am interested in electronics experimentation with radios and rf. Hams are interested in collecting QSOs and contesting. I get ignored at Ham clubs because none of the members there are interested in electronics, just interested in operating.

I consider myself to be a radio amateur but NOT a "Ham", even though I got a no-code licence. The licence allows for my usage of the bands.

Ham Radio is not what got me interested in rf. I do not identify with the Ham culture. I do happen to have one common interest, which is setting up antennas. However, I do not believe in using codewords, do not care about amateur radio politics, do not care for contesting.

Hertz was not a "Ham". Marconi was not a "Ham". But, they were both radio amateurs.

>What is left are the dying embers of a once-great hobby which >is neither important as an operator reservoir, nor at the forefront of >technology.

I am not interested in being part of an operator reservoir. So thats fine.

One thing I do want to point out is Hams need to work on projects together and split the costs. Otherwise, the hobby can get very expensive. If you want to use a mode a few times, but do not want to own the hardware, it would be less costly to split the cost with other Hams.

Ham Radio clubs need to take a more active role in this. This would result in Hams with better operating skills, knowledge of more modes, emergency communications, setting up stations, etc.

Also, don't need to be at the forefront of technology. As long as amateur radio suits my needs, it is fine with me. Group technical projects are useful for the same reasons as group operational project as I mentioned before.

Unfortunately, most Hams are not interested in electronics, just operating a radio. Ham radio tends to attract those that are NOT interested in electronics.

Not everyone should be interested in electronics to part of Ham Radio, but shouldn't there be a good percentage (perhaps 5%) that are interested in electronics? If greater than 5% are interested in electronics, they sure aren't attending the meetings.

I have found this as well. Hams are usually nice and courteous.

Well, once you have an opinion, pro or con, about Morse Code, you will not be swayed to the other side.

Some may consider it immature to tap keys to send a message. Sort of like a secret code playskool toy used to send messages. Those that tap keys and get a thrill about it must be childish when you can use your voice.

So, CW does seperate the adults from the children.
Glad we are in agreement.

Does anyone know or know where to find the protocol used by the IC T7H to communicate with it's remote control mike.

I was looking for a microcontroller project for my classes and thought building a remote control for this might be fun.

I asked ICOM and the denied any knowlege, Interesting comment.

>WHAT GOT YOU INTERESTED IN HAM RADIO IN THE FIRST PLACE.
I got interested in amateur radio from calibrating and troubleshooting radios. I like the unuqueness of the electronics, the procedures involoved, and getting a fixed radio on the air.

Thats how I became interested in amateur radio. Much later, I got a Ham Radio licence and joined a Ham Radio club.

I found that Ham Radio was different than what I was interested in. I wanted to find people that were interested in rf electronics.

I had a hard time finding any "Hams" interested in rf electronics. Instead they are interested in contesting, using codewords, and Ham Radio politics.

Since I do not fit into the Ham Radio culture, I consider myself to be a radio amateur, but not a "Ham".

>TELL US ABOUT YOUR ELMER, IF YOU HAD ONE, AND WHAT HE TOLD YOU ABOUT >AMATEUR RADIO.
No Elemer. See above answer.

>TELL US ABOUT YOUR 1ST CONTACT FROM YOUR OWN STATION WITH YOUR OWN CALL.

First contact was made from serviced radio. I like seing the waveforms on a spectrum analyzer and oscilloscope. It was a challenge to get the radio working and getting the first contact.

>If there is any interest I'll throw in my penny's worth.

Sorry, this is probably not what you are looking for. Jason Hsu, AG4DG has a BSEE and discovered Ham Radio after he graduated. He has an interesting, inspiring story, which is flattering towards Ham Radio.

You have obviously been involved with the wrong clubs. And don't even go the route that they are all like that. I have only been a ham for 8 years, but have belonged to several clubs in that time. They have all welcomed holders of all classes of license and encouraged all interests. The club I currently belong to in California for example has "gurus" for almost all apects. APRS, Satellite, ILRP, electronics experts, builders, ehf, etc. Shoot, I wish to heck you were in my part of the woods. We could always use another electronics type. Our electronics guru is looked upon with veneration and admiration.

Like I said to begin with, you just gotta find the right clubs. I guess I have been lucky so far :)

1760. Where Can I Find Power Connector For Kenwood Mobile???

Any help on where I can find this connector is appreciated (it's the power cord that connects to the other half of the power cord that is attached to the Kenwood dual band TM-G707A mobile 2 m/ 70 cm radio). I would prefer to just purchase quick disconnect female terminals, crimp them onto 10 gauge wire and insert them into this connector (instead of splicing them onto a power cord with the wire and quick disconnect female terminals already attached). I have placed 2 pictures of the connector on my webpage (http://members.aol.com/xtx99/index.html)and would appreciate and suggestions. Radio Shack didn't have it. I'm saving the original power cord for base operation and temporarily carefully inserting disconnects into the connector for mobile operation (thank God for fuses!!) Thanks

When it comes to discussing the technical part of the hobby, al I ever hear is about 'soldering' and 'electronics'.

Operating is also part of the 'technical pursuit' (i.e. studying propagation).

> 5. In December 1992, Mr. Schoenbohm was convicted for > fraudulently using a counterfeit access device to obtain long distance > telephone service in violation of 18 U.S.C. ï¿½ 1029(a)(1). Decision, 13 FCC > Rcd at 15028. Mr. Schoenbohm was sentenced to house arrest for two months, > given two years probation, and ordered to pay a fine of $5,000. Id., 13 FCC > Rcd at 15028.
>
>
> 6. In 1994, Mr. Schoenbohm filed applications to renew his > Amateur Radio Service station license for KV4FZ and for his Amateur Radio > Service operator license. In 1995, the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau, > under delegated authority, designed Mr. Schoenbohm's applications for > hearing. HDO, 17 FCC Rcd at 1370. Following two hearing sessions, the > Commission, in July 1998, determined that Mr. Schoenbohm had engaged in > misrepresentation and was not fully candid in describing his conviction.
> The Commission found that Mr. Schoenbohm had testified deceptively about his > conviction both in 1995 and again in 1997. Decision, 13 FCC Rcd at > 15029-31; Tr. 39. In addition, the Commission found that Mr. Schoenbohm had > testified deceptively in 1997 about an amateur radio transmission he made in > 1995, during which Mr. Schoenbohm solicited others to make ex parte > presentations to the Commission on his behalf. Decision, 13 FCC Rcd at > 15032-36. Accordingly, the Commission denied Mr. Schoenbohm's applications.
> However, in accordance with its usual policy, the Commission authorized Mr.
> Schoenbohm to continue to operate his amateur station until the 91st day > following the release date of judicial review of its decision. Decision, > 13 FCC Rcd at 15037. Subsequent to the Supreme Court's action in October

> 2000, which denied Mr. Schoenbohm's petition for a writ of certiorari, Mr.
> Schoenbohm ceased operating amateur station KV4FZ in late January 2001. He > submitted the applications currently under consideration on March 31, 2001.
> Tr. 42. In conjunction with his applications, Mr. Schoenbohm, on April 14, > 2001, took and passed an examination for an extra class amateur license > administered by the American Radio Relay League. Schoenbohm Ex. 31.
>
>
> B. Character Generally
> 7. At the instant hearing, Mr. Schoenbohm testified that, prior > to his conviction, he had never been convicted of any felony or serious > crime. He further testified that, subsequent to his conviction, he has not > been convicted of anything. Schoenbohm Ex. 1. Before the Commission denied > his renewal applications in 1998, Mr. Schoenbohm had held an amateur license > for over 40 years. Schoenbohm Ex. 14. He also holds a general > radiotelephone operator license. Schoenbohm Ex. 43.
>
>
>
> 8. As for his testimony at the prior proceeding, Mr. Schoenbohm explained > that he "was in a state of denial, believing that [he] had been wrongfully > convicted of a crime that [he] did not commit." Schoenbohm Ex. 1.
> Notwithstanding his personal opinion of the events surrounding his > conviction, Mr. Schoenbohm now realizes that he was found guilty and that he > is a felon. Id. Addressing the fact that his written testimony in this > proceeding omits any reference to the Commission's findings that he > misrepresented facts and lacked candor in his 1995 and 1997 testimony > regarding his felony conviction and ex parte communication solicitation, Mr.
> Schoenbohm explained that he did not think he had to address the Commission' > s findings from the prior proceeding. Schoenbohm Ex. 1; Tr. 44, 46-47.
>
> 9. Mr. Schoenbohm understands that the purpose of the instant hearing is to > determine whether he has "been sufficiently rehabilitated such that the > Commission could be confident that [he] could be relied upon to deal with > the Commission in an honest and forthright manner." Tr. 43. In support of > his claim that he now possesses the requisite character qualifications, Mr.
> Schoenbohm testified that he has worked hard to rehabilitate himself "and to > overcome the effects of [his] conviction" and "to demonstrate that [he is] > capable of obeying the law and, in particular, the FCC's rules and > regulations." Schoenbohm Ex. 1. In this regard, Mr. Schoenbohm testified > that for about the past eight years, he has "held a responsible position > with the Virgin Islands government, in charge of expenditures and > supervision of large amount[s] of money and property. During that time, > nobody has accused me of any dishonesty, connected with my work."
> Schoenbohm Exs. 1. See also Schoenbohm Ex. 45. In this regard, the record > reflects that Mr. Schoenbohm has worked in various capacities in the Virgin > Islands Department of Property and Procurement. Tr. 47; Schoenbohm Exs. 4, > 13, 30, 41, 45, 56. Among other positions, Mr. Schoenbohm has been the > manager for the Recovery Hill repeater site. In that role, he "issued a > plan of attack to get all the illegal, unlicensed, not properly licensed or > wrong location squatters that had moved in over the past ten years and were > using the facility." Tr. 48. More recently, Marc Briggs, the Commissioner > of the Department of Property and Procurement, designated Mr. Schoenbohm a

>
>
> 10. In his capacity as a member of the Virgin Islands Department of > for the department appointed Mr. Schoenbohm as the "radio site inspector" to > investigate whether certain other Virgin Islands government agencies were > procuring improperly licensed radios by skirting the competitive bidding > process. Tr. 47-48. Mr. Schoenbohm testified that he has sent a letter to > Joseph Casey of the Commission's Enforcement Bureau regarding this matter, > and that Mr. Schoenbohm has communicated "with [Commission] field personnel > in Puerto Rico, Rueben Jusino, and ha[s] been cooperating with him in trying

>
>
> 11. Mr. Schoenbohm also responded to a complaint letter Riley > Hollingsworth, an FCC attorney, forwarded to Mr. Schoenbohm. Tr. 79.
> According to Mr. Schoenbohm, Louis Bean, an amateur licensee, complained to > the FCC about Mr. Schoenbohm's operating a radio station associated with Mr.
> Bean's amateur repeater. Tr. 78-80. Mr. Schoenbohm notes that Mr. Bean > claimed that Mr. Schoenbohm restored Mr. Bean's station to operation "by > hook or by crook." Tr. 78. Mr. Schoenbohm explained that, years ago, his > call sign had been the designated call sign for use on the repeater. Tr.
> 80. When Mr. Schoenbohm's call sign was removed from the repeater, Mr. Bean > began using his call sign on the repeater. Tr. 80. Mr. Schoenbohm > testified that he never had the ability to operate the equipment associated > with Mr. Bean's call sign. Mr. Schoenbohm testified his only involvement > with the repeater was to unplug the equipment in response to the letter from > Mr. Hollingsworth. Tr. 81.

> 12. With regard to his reputation in the community, Mr. Schoenbohm is an

> 13. The only other witness to testify in person was Mr. Frank Todd of Port > Vue, Pennsylvania, who testified as to Mr. Schoenbohm's reputation in the > recently recovered from a car accident, traveled 236 miles to appear at the > hearing. Tr. 131. Mr. Todd has known Mr. Schoenbohm since approximately > 1995, when, at the age of 13, Mr. Todd became interested in amateur radio > candor did not change Mr. Todd's opinion as to Mr. Schoenbohm's > qualifications because Mr. Todd believes that Mr. Schoenbohm has been

> Hurricane Lenny passed through St. Croix, the Virgin Islands Emergency > Management Agency directed him to install an antenna to ensure that station > WSTX was able to operate "so the public could be informed by FEMA and by the > local government agencies on relief supplies. They considered it vital to > 17. In October 2001, subsequent to the cancellation of the license for > amateur station KV4FZ, Mr. Schoenbohm served as a host for a participant in > an international radio competition or contest. Schoenbohm Ex. 1; Tr. 81.

> The purpose of the competition was to have contestants make contact with > other amateur stations around the world. Essentially, the message sent and > received involved each station identifying itself and transmitting a message > consisting of a signal report and a numeral identifying which of 40 "zones" > would win. Tr. 84, 89, 102. Some months earlier, Mr. Schoenbohm had placed > a notice on the Internet advising that he would rent out part of his home to > amateur radio operators who wished to participate. Tr. 88. Steven S.

> Reichlyn, amateur radio licensee of station AA4V, accepted Mr. Schoenbohm's

> 0627 GMT, 27 October and asked Mr. Schoenbohm if he would like to operate > the microphone because of Mr. Schoenbohm's expertise at operating on low > frequencies. Tr. 109. Because Mr. Reichlyn had entered a two-man contest, > he could have another person assist him with the contest. Tr. 97. Mr.
> Schoenbohm accepted and began operating the equipment under Mr. Reichlyn's

> call sign from 0627 to 0758 GMT. Tr. 98, 110, 116. Mr. Schoenbohm > contacted multiple operators during that period, including contacts with > operators in St. Martin, Scotland, the Canary Islands, New Zealand, Ireland, > and Aruba. Tr. 105, 106, 112, 113-114, 116; EB Ex. 3. According to Mr.
> Schoenbohm, Mr. Reichlyn did not stay in the equipment room with him, but,

> 0903 GMT, 28 October. Tr. 101, 117; EB Ex. 3. During this second spell at > the microphone, Mr. Schoenbohm again contacted multiple operators, including > operators located in New Zealand and the Wallis and Futuna Islands (a French > possession in the South Pacific). Tr. 119; EB Ex. 3. Mr. Schoenbohm > testified that, during this second time period, Mr. Reichlyn "did not leave > the premises" and that he, Mr. Reichlyn, was "always in a position to > exercise the necessary controls to comply with the rules and regulations."
> Tr. 127-28. Mr. Schoenbohm testified that his premises consist of the "ham > shack" and a very small yard, and that Mr. Reichlyn was always within > earshot of the facility and that "he was always in a position to control the

> 20. Mr. Schoenbohm is aware that section 97.115 of the Commission's rules

>
>
>
> 22. The HDO requires the Commission to determine whether Herbert L.

> Schoenbohm possesses the requisite character qualifications to be a > Commission licensee.
>
> In assessing character, the Commission seeks to predict whether a > prospective licensee will be honest in his dealings with the Commission and > will abide by the Commission's rules and the Communications Act. See Policy > Regarding Character Qualifications in Broadcast Licensing, 102 FCC 2d 1179, > 1183, 1189-91 (1986) (subsequent history omitted) ("Character Policy > Statement").[4] As discussed herein, the Bureau believes that the evidence, > although mixed, supports a conclusion that Mr. Schoenbohm has the requisite > character qualifications. In this regard, the Bureau notes that its > reluctance to fully endorse Mr. Schoenbohm stems from his operation of an > amateur station when he did not have a license to do so.
>
>
> 23. As noted in the HDO, the Commission considers various > factors in determining whether an applicant such as Mr. Schoenbohm has > rehabilitated himself and demonstrated that he possesses the requisite > character qualifications to become or remain a licensee. Among other > things, the Commission will consider: 1) whether the applicant has avoided > any significant wrongdoing since the prior disqualifying misconduct; 2) the > amount of time elapsed since the misconduct; 3) the applicant's reputation > for good character in the community; and 4)
>
>
> meaningful measures taken by the applicant to prevent the future occurrence > of misconduct. Moreover, in assessing the character of someone who, like > Mr. Schoenbohm, had a previous application denied by the Commission, the > Commission will also consider the deterrent impact of its previous action.
> Policy Regarding Character Qualifications in Broadcast Licensing, 5 FCC Rcd > 3252, 3254 (1990) ("Modified Character Policy Statement").
>
> 24. Behavior subsequent to prior misconduct. The record > reflects that Mr. Schoenbohm has not engaged in any criminal misconduct > since his 1992 conviction for toll fraud. However, as discussed below, the > record reflects that Mr. Schoenbohm violated the Communications Act > subsequent to his 1995/1997 misconduct. Specifically, the findings support, > and it should be concluded, that Mr. Schoenbohm's operation of Mr. Reichlyn'
> Communications Act, 47 U.S.C. ï¿½ 301, because Mr. Schoenbohm's operation was > not allowed by sections 97.5 and 97.7 of the Commission's rules.[5] Read > together, those rules require that, during transmissions, an amateur station > be under the physical control of a control operator who is a licensee.
> Clearly, that was not the case during the two hours Mr. Schoenbohm operated > Mr. Reichlyn's station. Instead, the evidence reflects that Mr. Schoenbohm > had physical control of the station. In this regard, even though Mr.

> Reichlyn was present or nearby and able to supervise Mr. Schoenbohm, it is > apparent that Mr. Schoenbohm operated the station and made transmissions > while at the microphone. Thus, Mr. Schoenbohm violated section 301 of the > Act because he did not have a license to transmit and was not otherwise > authorized to operate Mr. Reichlyn's station.[6] Finally, Mr. Schoenbohm's > work on WSTX(AM)'s antenna in 1999 occurred in the context of restoring > service following a hurricane. The "fix" was meant to be temporary, and Mr.
> Schoenbohm advised the licensee that additional work was needed before the > station's antenna complied with the terms of the station's license. Mr.
> Schoenbohm worked as a contractor and was not responsible for the legality > or illegality of WSTX's antenna.
> 25. Time since the misconduct. The evidence reflects that the > last misrepresentation occurred in 1997, when Mr. Schoenbohm testified > falsely before a Commission Administrative Law Judge. However, as noted
> period in October 2001, when, although unlicensed, he operated Mr.
>
> Reichlyn's station.
>
>
>
> 26. Applicant's reputation for good character in the community.
> The only direct evidence of reputation proffered by Mr. Schoenbohm was the > testimony of Frank Todd. However, Mr. Todd testified unequivocally that Mr.
> Schoenbohm's reputation for good character in the Virgin Islands was > favorable. The Bureau submits it is also appropriate to infer that Mr.
>
> Schoenbohm's reputation for character in the local community is good in view > of his current employment, his employment history, and his position in the > local Republican Party. Specifically, as to employment, Mr. Schoenbohm has > held and continues to hold positions of responsibility and trust in the > Virgin Islands' Department of Property and Procurement.
>
> 27. Meaningful measures taken by the applicant to prevent the > future occurrence of misconduct. The denial of Mr. Schoenbohm's renewal > application occurred because he committed a felony and because he testified > deceitfully before this agency. Consequently, meaningful measures should > reasonably include a commitment by Mr. Schoenbohm to avoid criminal behavior > and to be truthful in all his dealings with this agency. The findings > reflect that such has occurred. As noted, Mr. Schoenbohm has not been > convicted of anything since 1992, and there is nothing in the record to > suggest that Mr. Schoenbohm will commit crimes in the future. As for > truthfulness, Mr. Schoenbohm recognizes that he made "fatal mistakes" in his > prior hearing testimony. While not exactly an unequivocal commitment to > future truthfulness, the Bureau believes it sufficient, when coupled with > Mr. Schoenbohm's recognition that misrepresentation is a "cardinal sin at > the Commission," to constitute a meaningful measure to prevent a future > recurrence of deceit.

>
> 28. Deterrent impact of previous denial. Mr. Schoenbohm has > not been authorized to operate an amateur station since January 2001. Given > his governmental positions and his previous use of amateur radio, inter > alia, in connection with hurricane relief, Mr. Schoenbohm apparently had > some notoriety in the amateur community. Thus, as he testified, his > banishment, which has now extended some 17 months,[7] could have caused him > great shame. Such shame, and the desire to avoid such shame in the future, > should lead to the conclusion that the Commission's previous denial has had > the desired deterrent impact. Notwithstanding Mr. Schoenbohm's October 2001 > violation of the Communications Act, it is the Bureau's view that Mr.
> Schoenbohm has learned his lesson and will not, in the future, engage in > behavior that calls into question his fitness to be a Commission licensee.
>
> 29. In light of the foregoing, it appears that Mr. Schoenbohm > has shown by a
>
>
> preponderance of the evidence that he possesses the requisite character to > be a Commission licensee.
>
>
> IV. ULTIMATE CONCLUSION
> 30. Issue (b) requires the determination of whether, in light of the Apparently, Eunuch Paris has gender issues, the poor Oklahomo is checking into Yahoo! as Britney Smith. This must be the "name" he uses in the gay chat rooms, because he admitted:

Herbie used the words, "death sentence." This implies suicide. Had he taken his life in desperation,then his wife sues the FCC for rendering cruel and inhuman punishment and just might win millions. You think the government considers FZ as worth anything let alone millions?

Why not come to Bristol Poly and try to operate one of our larger computers. I think you might gain an appreciation of the difficulty of operating a complex system. Operating is only trivial if the device has a trivial function. Try operating a 747 (Boeing not Yaesu). Clearly you have never operated a radio as you believe that 'FM will appear as unmodulated carrier' Ha Ha HA HA HA !!!!! and cannot understand the complexity involved in some aspects of operating. As a first step try to operate your brain before posting.

First you need to notice the number of posts these people are putting in. They are more interested in being jerks and crying out for attention than they are in amateur radio. Perhaps more importantly, these are only a few people out of over 600,000 in this country. I can easily see how this could make some people think twice about ham radio if this were there first contact with it, but to say this newsgroup reflects the attitudes of amateur radio at large is, to say the least, rediculous. Maybe more people should check out the forums on www.eham.net. Some minor bickering, but NOWHERE near the absurd crap you see here.

Not too sure on that Wlat. Some of the operating on repeaters is lamentably poor, too technical for some I fear. Keeping a net of 4 or 5 going on a repeater is beyond a lot of them.

One of the main culprits in the posts is pparis7@cox.net. Now, if he and some of the other didn't start it, I wouldn't post what I post.

"These allegations are false and libellous. As those who know Herb well can attest, he is not and has never been anti-semitic. The poster has no tape because none exists. "

During the original hearing, some nut called Herb on the phone and said that he was going to send him a tape of KV4FZ making anti-semitic remarks. A tape did arrive in the mail but, when he listened to it, it was not Herb's voice and there were no "anti-semitic" remarks.

>
>
>
> 22. The HDO requires the Commission to determine whether Herbert L.
> Schoenbohm possesses the requisite character qualifications to be a > Commission licensee.
>
> In assessing character, the Commission seeks to predict whether a > prospective licensee will be honest in his dealings with the Commission and > will abide by the Commission's rules and the Communications Act. See Policy
> Regarding Character Qualifications in Broadcast Licensing, 102 FCC 2d 1179,
> 1183, 1189-91 (1986) (subsequent history omitted) ("Character Policy > Statement").[4] As discussed herein, the Bureau believes that the evidence,
> although mixed, supports a conclusion that Mr. Schoenbohm has the requisite
> character qualifications. In this regard, the Bureau notes that its > reluctance to fully endorse Mr. Schoenbohm stems from his operation of an > amateur station when he did not have a license to do so.
>
>
> 23. As noted in the HDO, the Commission considers various > factors in determining whether an applicant such as Mr. Schoenbohm has > rehabilitated himself and demonstrated that he possesses the requisite > character qualifications to become or remain a licensee. Among other > things, the Commission will consider: 1) whether the applicant has avoided > any significant wrongdoing since the prior disqualifying misconduct; 2)
the > amount of time elapsed since the misconduct; 3) the applicant's reputation > for good character in the community; and 4)
>
>

> meaningful measures taken by the applicant to prevent the future occurrence > of misconduct. Moreover, in assessing the character of someone who, like > Mr. Schoenbohm, had a previous application denied by the Commission, the > Commission will also consider the deterrent impact of its previous action.

> 24. Behavior subsequent to prior misconduct. The record > reflects that Mr. Schoenbohm has not engaged in any criminal misconduct > since his 1992 conviction for toll fraud. However, as discussed below,
the > record reflects that Mr. Schoenbohm violated the Communications Act > subsequent to his 1995/1997 misconduct. Specifically, the findings support,
> and it should be concluded, that Mr. Schoenbohm's operation of Mr.
Reichlyn'
> Communications Act, 47 U.S.C. 301, because Mr. Schoenbohm's operation was > not allowed by sections 97.5 and 97.7 of the Commission's rules.[5] Read > together, those rules require that, during transmissions, an amateur station
> be under the physical control of a control operator who is a licensee.
> Clearly, that was not the case during the two hours Mr. Schoenbohm operated
> Mr. Reichlyn's station. Instead, the evidence reflects that Mr.
Schoenbohm
> had physical control of the station. In this regard, even though Mr.
> Reichlyn was present or nearby and able to supervise Mr. Schoenbohm, it is > apparent that Mr. Schoenbohm operated the station and made transmissions > while at the microphone. Thus, Mr. Schoenbohm violated section 301 of the > Act because he did not have a license to transmit and was not otherwise > authorized to operate Mr. Reichlyn's station.[6] Finally, Mr.
Schoenbohm's
> work on WSTX(AM)'s antenna in 1999 occurred in the context of restoring > service following a hurricane. The "fix" was meant to be temporary, and Mr.
> Schoenbohm advised the licensee that additional work was needed before the > station's antenna complied with the terms of the station's license. Mr.
> Schoenbohm worked as a contractor and was not responsible for the legality > or illegality of WSTX's antenna.

> 25. Time since the misconduct. The evidence reflects that
the > last misrepresentation occurred in 1997, when Mr. Schoenbohm testified > falsely before a Commission Administrative Law Judge. However, as noted
> period in October 2001, when, although unlicensed, he operated Mr.
>
> Reichlyn's station.
>
>
>
> 26. Applicant's reputation for good character in the community.
> The only direct evidence of reputation proffered by Mr. Schoenbohm was the > testimony of Frank Todd. However, Mr. Todd testified unequivocally that Mr.
> Schoenbohm's reputation for good character in the Virgin Islands was > favorable. The Bureau submits it is also appropriate to infer that Mr.
>
> Schoenbohm's reputation for character in the local community is good in view
> of his current employment, his employment history, and his position in the > local Republican Party. Specifically, as to employment, Mr. Schoenbohm has > held and continues to hold positions of responsibility and trust in the > Virgin Islands' Department of Property and Procurement.
>
> 27. Meaningful measures taken by the applicant to prevent the > future occurrence of misconduct. The denial of Mr. Schoenbohm's renewal > application occurred because he committed a felony and because he testified > deceitfully before this agency. Consequently, meaningful measures should > reasonably include a commitment by Mr. Schoenbohm to avoid criminal behavior > and to be truthful in all his dealings with this agency. The findings > reflect that such has occurred. As noted, Mr. Schoenbohm has not been > convicted of anything since 1992, and there is nothing in the record to > suggest that Mr. Schoenbohm will commit crimes in the future. As for > truthfulness, Mr. Schoenbohm recognizes that he made "fatal mistakes" in his > prior hearing testimony. While not exactly an unequivocal commitment to > future truthfulness, the Bureau believes it sufficient, when coupled with > Mr. Schoenbohm's recognition that misrepresentation is a "cardinal sin at > the Commission," to constitute a meaningful measure to prevent a future > recurrence of deceit.
>

> 28. Deterrent impact of previous denial. Mr. Schoenbohm has > not been authorized to operate an amateur station since January 2001.
Given
> his governmental positions and his previous use of amateur radio, inter > alia, in connection with hurricane relief, Mr. Schoenbohm apparently had > some notoriety in the amateur community. Thus, as he testified, his > banishment, which has now extended some 17 months,[7] could have caused him > great shame. Such shame, and the desire to avoid such shame in the future, > should lead to the conclusion that the Commission's previous denial has had > the desired deterrent impact. Notwithstanding Mr. Schoenbohm's October 2001 > violation of the Communications Act, it is the Bureau's view that Mr.
> Schoenbohm has learned his lesson and will not, in the future, engage in > behavior that calls into question his fitness to be a Commission licensee.
> 29. In light of the foregoing, it appears that Mr. Schoenbohm

Indeed Radio Shack does have it. Order a replacement power cord for their 2m mobile rig. Cheap too, although I cannot remember what I paid. Gets you more than just the connector though.

When I was in 4th/5th grade I think, I really wanted a CB but my parents wouldn't let me get one.

In 5th/6th grade, I got a Radio Shack SW-100 multi-band receiver. I really enjoyed it, and would listen to the band called "VHF" which covers 145-175 MHz. I eventually figured out what callsigns were and what "73" meant.

However, it wasn't until 7th grade that I purchased a Radio Shack Pro-66 scanner, which labeled 145-148 as "2 meter ham radio." My father had told me when I was younger about ham radio, but he was under the impression that it was "be your own DJ."

At the beginning of 8th grade, I got my Tech Plus and a Radio Shack HTX-202 2m HT. I don't remember my first contact, as it was 5 years ago. My original callsign was KB3BYE.

A year later, I got my General license and purchased an Icom IC-725 from someone. After the station was set up, I became active on 40m, 20m, 15m, and 10m.

When the vanity callsign price was reduced, I got my current vanity callsign (my initials).

I'm currently considering a G5RV and a tuner so that I can become active on the other MF/HF bands. I'm not interested in upgrading to Extra right now, but that may change.

Actually, the nut called me. I was acting as Herb's attorney, and it was I that was sent the tape. I listened to it, but did not hear Herb's voice on the tape, at all, nor did I hear any anti-Semitic remarks.

I've known Herb now for more than 5 years, and I've never heard him make any such remarks. It would be extremely out of character for him to do so. Just how this slander got started I don't know, but those who repeat it are opening themselves up to a lawsuit.

Excuse me Frank, but you are way off base. I have a ton of tapes in which Herbie can be likened to the guttersnipes of Germany from 1933-1945. Just because he was nice to you doesn't excuse his viciousness toward many many hams. Your sentiments are purely subjective however an overall objective look at matters proves you wrong.

I don't suppose he will get his old callsign back, unless he does a vanity application.

As far as felonies go, it was a relatively minor one, as compared to rape, murder, bank robbery and such.

Robert,

Herb does have an application filed to get KV4FZ back. You are right about the felony. There was a ham in prison who renewed his ticket even though he is a convicted child molester who used to lure kids into his ham shack. We all know who he is.

There is also another Ham who has made his name widely known that already has one felony (and jail time) for illegally distributing pharmaceuticals, and he has yet another, more recent felony pending for aggravated stalking...not to mention a couple more misdemeaner charges that went along with his latest arrest. Hmmmm.....I wonder if he will keep his license, too?

Hey, Larry. Do you take "alleged" stalking cases? If so, there is a Ham down in Hiram, GA that could use your help provided, of course, that you were willing to work for free.

They've all been picking on poor Shebelle since he first started his Larry, I could not have put it better myself.

I really really hope for the future of ham radio that he does not re-start the old 14.313 wars again, as this time the mayhem will be TEN TIMES worse and Hollingsworth will have a TRUE RADIO WAR on his hands that will make CB look like kids stuff- take it to the bank.

I can see it now. AB8MQ and the Lambda Lads will be romping around the small yard and comparing dipoles. Roger will proclaim, "Mine has a higher take-off angle than yours." to which Bruce will respond, "Oh, yeah? Well MINE has more bandwidth!"
Roger will then issue a challenge to all the Lambda attendees and say, "Oh, yeah? Let's all flop our dipoles out right here on my mommy's favorite picnic table and we'll compare them for wavelength AND bandwidth."
After due consideration and studious measuring (Roger learned math formulas from Stagger Lee) Roger will suggest to the Lamda Lads that if they were to stand in a large square, "connect" their dipoles together in series that they would then comprise a full wave loop. Roger will make the Lads aware that such a loop could be a bit lossy and that some of their output signals would most likely be absorbed by the ground beneath their feet. Roger The Extra will explain that despite this small loss, most of the emissions will be transmitted throughout the loop quite effectively.
As the Glendale Special Event draws to a close the Lads will reluctantly, but happily roll up their dipoles, now reduced to quarter waves, and smile appreciatively at one another. Roger will roll his bulging eyes back in his head, look lovingly at Bruce and breathlessly whisper, "Bruce, I just LOVE your increased bandwidth!"
After The Lads have departed for parts unknown Roger will remain in the small yard, smoke a cigarette, and bask in the warm afterglow of having shared such a wonderful volume of non-ionizing emissions with his peers.
Roger is convinced that this Glendale Special Event should be an anal, er, annual gathering and he is already making plans for the next one. If you care to learn more about this event or others, check out alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman for updates. You won't see it in QST or Popular Communications, so check back often.

Radio Ham/Gareth/SockPuppet forgot to qualify his original statement by qualifying it with the word "can" in the appropriate place, thereby generalising the specific. He will be able to tell you what form of 'argumentum' he used. More scientific analphabeticity from this source. Cue Gerald in his defence.....

As you tune off frequency the slope detection kicks in and the signal becomes more intelligible; however you can STILL hear some audio on centre frequency. Try it for yourself and see.

While Shitball is a fatass slob who works in a auto body repair shop, the only place his Chrone's diseased appearance lets him work without the public taken aback in horror at his mangled face. No wonder he looks like he was in an accident with the scar tissue on his sloping ofrehead.

I heard something on 75 Meters last night that Herb, KV4FZ has somehow pulled a rabbit out of his hat and the FCC is going to re-instate his ham radio licence. Is this true..?
Can someone PLEASE post a URL or a link to and OFFICIAL FCC PRESS RELEASE to this effect.

Most of this stuff in the newsgroups and on 75 Meters is pure bullshi+ with extra sauce. I will believe it ONLY when I read it from an official and a credible source.

Yes!!!!! We need Herb back on ham radio, and with his KV4FZ call sign ... Herb was a beacon of light shining through the ham radio garbage, consisting of AF2Y, crazy disgraced dentist..assorted Child Molestors... Fat "mama boy " qrmers etc... FCC, give Herb his ticket back.. he has been treated unfairly.... He will be welcome on the ham bands with open arms ......Zitchey

Larry,
Are you living on earth or another planet? Because you represented Herb for 5 years and never heard him make an anti-Semitic statement convinces you he's not? The problem is that you THINK you know the man..THINK..I and many others KNOW this glop and you are as wrong as wrong can be. The stuff that came out of his mouth on the air for years was a cross between Hitler, David Duke, Goebbels, e.g. Herbie is not only anti-Semitic, he's VIRULENTLY so. Some of the stuff that came out of his mouth was extemporaneous, some premeditated and some out of neo-Nazi and/or other books and publications. I guess you never heard his "14,000,000 Jews," tirade, did you? It goes like this:

"These fourteen million Jews are the evil empire, the real hate group, the ADL, the power structure. Their motto is to never forget, never forgive. They are anti-Christian, anti-human, anti-family, pro-homosexual, pro-pornography and anything that will destroy their arch enemy, the Christians who are the true Semites. I would challenge you to disprove what I have to say. Understand that I classify myself as a true researcher. One who seeks facts to support statements and then I disseminate those statements."

Regarding the Intercon Net on 14.313, KV4FZ on the air said this: "I don't know if it's going to be effective or not...nobody's buying it at all. It calls attention, it will in a negative way call attention to the Intercontinental Net, predominately run by Jewish elders that have set up their little thing to avoid paying for telephone calls-that's the purpose of the organization. It's basically run by Jewish people..ah..notwithstanding the fact that some of them are fine decent people that call unnecessary attention to a conflagration and it's going to point out stereotypes-unfortunate characterizations are going to emerge as a results of Doc's activities. Unfortunate stereotypes of penny pinching Shylocks sort of thing is going to emerge as the whole reason...why are these people doing this thing? Why are they on the air trying to defraud the international common carrier out of large amounts of revenue as they've been doing for years. Why has this whole thing been set up? And why are the people going out and attacking Mike and Judy all claim the Star of David that supports their justification for doing it....etc."

Quite a hypocrite, isn't your ex-client. Found guilty on telephone fraud while no one on Intercon was even questioned due to his charges and you come on ham discussion groups to attack the "lies" behind KV4FZ's anti-Semitism? Lies my foot. I have tapes of Adolf of the Islands which would knock your socks off and I'm not the one who ever called him or you or sent him or you any tapes which proved to be bogus. What I have is the REAL Herbie...pure Jew bashing the type of which ran rampant among the guttersnipes of Germany in the '30s. Scapegoating disgusting materiel aimed at creating hatred for the Jewish ham radio ops by non-Jewish ham radio ops exactly the way the Nazis created hatred against Jewish Germans by those who weren't.

And so Larry, you were TRICKED..it's as plain and simple as that. You saw just one side of KV4FZ, the side in legal trouble while never having heard the radio ogre in person. The transcripts I offered are just the smallest tip of the iceberg. Furthermore in this nation we have the right to hate according to the First Amendment but by the same token we are allowed to vehemently oppose it too so DO NOT call opposition to Herbie, based on FACT, libel and/or slander.

Allow me to conclude with this. No I will not forgive or forget Herbie's ugliness regarding Jewish ops however it behooves all of us to keep the following in mind: the man was convicted and paid his debt to society. He was then "tossed" off ham radio by the FCC and therefore paid his debt to them as well. Herb's return to amateur radio cannot be considered underhanded, sneaky and unscrupulous. He worked like hell to retrieve that which was lost therefore when he does make his appearance on the bands, the worse thing that could happen would be to engage him in a manner that would unravel all of the good done through enforcement. I seriously doubt if once again he'll return to cause religious war or to attack Intercon or start in, period, where he left off. So I ask that his detractors cut him slack; if someone doesn't like him, then AVOID,not antagonize the man. Once again, on the air are hams who committed much greater crimes than did Herbie so let's keep everything in perspective.

Doc,AF2Y

1813. Possible Pilot Carrier in Digital TV Signal?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.misc

We may have an interesting new propagation tester to use as more television stations start transmitting digital signals. There are presently two digital signals on in Oklahoma City, Channels 27 and 51. I don't own any equipment capable of decoding those signals, but you can sure hear them on a tunable UHF receiver as steady white-sounding noise that is audible from one band edge of a given channel to the other.

At the low end of each of the two digital channels, is a fairly strong carrier with absolutely no FM or AM on it. It is exactly 310 kilohertz above the low edge of the channel so the carrier on Channel 27 is at 548.31 MHZ.

Does anybody know if this is some sort of pilot carrier to aid the tuner of a digital TV in locking on the exact frequency?

I am thinking this could be useful in meteor scatter or anything that can use a steady carrier as a reference source.

If a carrier shows up such as during a band opening, though, it may be very hard to impossible to tell where it is coming from.

Not Woger. He has a 4 call in Florida. That witch Hoffman would still visit that excuse for a human being on sundays. This clown was able to renew his ticket from prison. He must have had one of his intercon buddys do it for him.

Mr. George A. Ashley
1138 Collierville Arlington Road
Collierville, TN 38017

Subject: Warning Notice: Amateur Radio Station W4FQF

Dear Mr. Ashley:

Information before the Commission indicates that you have engaged in deliberate interference on the 75 Meter Amateur Band (3.901 MHz) at various times since October 2000. Some of the interference included tape recordings. We note that on January 7, 1999 you were warned about such activities on the 20- Meter Amateur Band.

This constitutes a second warning that any further incidents of such operation will result in enforcement action being taken against you, including license revocation, monetary forfeiture, or both.

Section 308(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 18 U.S.C. Section 308(b), gives the Commission the authority to obtain information from licensees about the operation of their station. Pursuant to Section 308(b), you are requested to respond to this letter within 20 days of the above date. You are also requested to furnish the following information.

1. Describe the radio transmitting equipment, including antennas, you have at the 1138 Collierville Arlington Road Address. State the manufacturer, model and serial number of each item. If any items were constructed or modified by you, describe the item in detail.

2. Describe any radio transmitting equipment, including antennas, you have at any other address in Tennessee. State the manufacturer, model and serial number of each item. If any items were constructed or modified by you, describe the item in detail.

Please be advised that Congress has made punishable a willfully false response to a letter of this type. See 18 U.S.C. Section 1001.

Sincerely,

W. Riley Hollingsworth

John Kimball, you are one "interesting" "it". It is the only descrip I can think of, sorry, for such an ignorant moron as yourself since you have no sex and no life. With an interest in sociology and what makes some minds tick, I did a little checking on you: I now have your real name, your address, and am working on your id number. Your local law enforcement and regulatory societies will be in touch with you shortly - I have to mail the documents - e-mail is no good for this sort of thing as it is too easily forged - as you obviously know. From what I have found so far, you are no stranger to your local authorities, though you may not yet realize the extent of their interest in you. Ain't it amazing what a few well placed phone calls can do?

I have for sale a YEASU FT101 ZD MK3. the radio is in well I would say good condition for its age it comes with the yaesu microphone I know these radios are very sort after.. and in there day were a top of the range radio. I have used this radio for some time as a receiver. as I am not yet a radio amateur it receives on all bands very clearly.. as for the transmit side of the radio. I don't know if its working as I am not licensed to use it and I don't want to get in trouble using it...
I can supply pictures of the radio if you require front back I will even remove the cover if you need a picture of the inside of the set.
there is to many knobs and dials to list them all it would take my all night to list them all.. anyway if your a amateur radio operator you can look the set up on the net and find all the information on theYaesu FT101ZD..
I have a very good idea of what this radio is worth..
if you are interested in buying this radio please Email me with serious offers.
serious offers only to shogun1965@lycos.co.uk
I am livening in the south of the uk and willing to parcel the Yaesu up and post it the way you require... and at your cost or am willing to meet half way if you pay .....anyway get your offers emaild to me at shogun1965@lycos.co.uk and the highest offer I receive within the next week or so I will email you right back....

The FCC probably didn't know about the molester convection. Probably the only reason they knew about Herb is that it was a telecom related crime, and telecom is part of what the FCC regulates. I suppose the FCC could have the FBI check the ham license database for any other felons, but the FCC would need to budget money for that, and the FBI is busy with other stuff right now. And it's not clear that it's anything worth worrying about anyway....

Time to put your shovel away, the hole is already big enough!

Xtals have a tolerance. No receiver is ever exactly on centre channel.

AM receivers do not have a sufficiently flat passband for 'nothing' to be demodulated, even when they are tuned completely centrally on an fm signal. A passband ripple of less than 1dB will give an easily audible response, due to slope detection within the passband.

Also, if the bandwidth of the fm signal is wider than the bandwidth of the AM receiver, there will be no 'accurately centered' tuning point where 'nothing' would be heard, even if the passband was exactly flat.

In theory, with a perfect AM receiver, with a bandwidth wider than the fm signal, it would give no demodulation of an FM signal, but there are no perfect receivers available to real world radio amateurs.

There is also another Ham who has made his name widely known that already has one felony (and jail time) for illegally distributing pharmaceuticals, and he has yet another, more recent felony pending for aggravated stalking...not to mention a couple more misdemeaner charges that went along with his latest arrest. Hmmmm.....I wonder if he will keep his license, too?

I can see it now. AB8MQ and the Lambda Lads will be romping around the small yard and comparing dipoles. Roger will proclaim, "Mine has a higher take-off angle than yours." to which Bruce will respond, "Oh, yeah? Well MINE has more bandwidth!"
Roger will then issue a challenge to all the Lambda attendees and say, "Oh, yeah? Let's all flop our dipoles out right here on my mommy's favorite picnic table and we'll compare them for wavelength AND bandwidth."
After due consideration and studious measuring (Roger learned math formulas from Stagger Lee) Roger will suggest to the Lamda Lads that if they were to stand in a large square, "connect" their dipoles together in series that they would then comprise a full wave loop. Roger will make the Lads aware that such a loop could be a bit lossy and that some of their output signals would most likely be absorbed by the ground beneath their feet. Roger The Extra will explain that despite this small loss, most of the emissions will be transmitted throughout the loop quite effectively.
As the Glendale Special Event draws to a close the Lads will reluctantly, but happily roll up their dipoles, now reduced to quarter waves, and smile appreciatively at one another. Roger will roll his bulging eyes back in his head, look lovingly at Bruce and breathlessly whisper, "Bruce, I just LOVE your increased bandwidth!"
After The Lads have departed for parts unknown Roger will remain in the small yard, smoke a cigarette, and bask in the warm afterglow of having shared such a wonderful volume of non-ionizing emissions with his peers. Roger is convinced that this Glendale Special Event should be an anal, er, annual gathering and he is already making plans for the next one. If you care to learn more about this event or others, check out alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman for updates. You won't see it in QST or Popular Communications, so check back often.

Hello Everyone,

I own a FT-847 and a Rig Blaster.

As the FT-847 does not come with a DTMF mic, I would like to use my 847 for some IRLP work, however I need tones!

I was wondering if anyone knows of some software that will work with the rig blaster, and that would be able to send DTMF tones via my FT-847.

I have searched for this type of program for many months with no success.

Does anyone have any ideas?

Any information is greatly appreciated.

Thanks,

James

Really ? Thanks for telling me, I bet you tell your granny how to suck eggs too I'd been slope detecting before you were born (probably?)

Let me think, firstly on an R1155 with a RF27 VHF converter modded for 2M, around 1968 ?

OK you'll get a slight squeak on centre frequency, but nothing intelligible

West Va. welfare rules require welfare recipients to hold part time jobs. Roger works part time at the Glendale Wal-Mart where he is a cart man. A cart man scours the parking lot for shopping buggies and returns them to the store. Roger was bored and asked to work in the pet dept. Roger's new boss in the pet dept. told Roger to add water to the fish tanks. Whereupon Roger replied that there was no reason to add water to the fish tanks, since the fish had not drank the water that was already in the tanks. BTW, Roger is looking for a job. Know anyone who will hire him?

1844. 2m/70cm Rig In House & Antenna On Car????????

I just got my first radio....a Kenwood TM-G707A 2m/70cm dual band. I currently have it installed in my car along with a Radiall/Larsen NMO Magnetic Mount with 12' of coax (which is made with a thin layer of plastic on the magnet to prevent scratching the car) & a Diamond 2m/70cm radialless mobile NR770NMO antenna. The antenna instructions say that the antenna "employs a DC ground structure so that whip element and ground section (outer shell of the impedance matching section) are short-circuited, and center conductor of the feedpoint connector and whip element are isolated."
I'm not sure if I want to use the radio for anything other than moble use. However, I would like to spend time with the radio and learn its many menus. I'd prefer to learn the features of the radio in my home rather than my car. Can I bring the radio in the house, run it off an appropriate power supply but still use the magnetic mount antenna on the car temporarily? If I can, I'd have to of course use a double female connector and 25' of additional coax. I'm not sure if I can add additional coax cable without throwing the SWR off. (I don't have an SWR meter to check). Also, would I have to use the same type cable for the extension or could I use higher quality cable? (I'm aware that the loss is high at VHF and UHF frequencies). I'm also concerned that because the antenna is made short-circuited (see paragraph above) and because the antenna mount isn't touching the car body (because of the plastic covering on the magnet) that I must use the common battery ground off my car to get a proper SWR. If I can use my magnetic mount in this fashion, is it necessary that I keep it on the car??...Perhaps I should temporarily sit it in the attic instead. Thanks for any suggestions.

I herby file a counter suit against you. When I am done with you, Enron will look like a Sunday school singles class camping trip.

You will have to do better.

Two thoughts:

1) Radio Shack was closing out some tone dialers just awhile back.
Wanting something like $1 for them. Check with your local shack and see if they still have any.

2) Goto www.cnet.com, go to downloads, and search for DTMF. The first time that popped up looked like just what you were looking for.

Can someone explain why icom omitted 10 mtr fm capability in their IC-718 transceiver? In mho 10 fm is a very desirable mode. I wanted to purchase the 718 but because of the lack of 10 fm i will be making a purchase from a competitor.

Interesting pieces of gear. The R1155 is too well-known to need comment, but it isn't generally appreciated that the RF27 units were the front end of the receiver for the Gee navigation device; the 1000-bomber raid to Cologne was Gee's first big trial.

Later versions had an "electronic ruler" (analogue scale) generated within the device. There is a very brief shot of one being used in the classic and very watchable film "School for Secrets"; the film industry's tribute to the 'radio war' boffins who worked on radar.

Yawn... Glad to see he got back on the air though, if thats true. I used to talk to him on 40m back when he was a nobody. I kind of doubt he wants to start a radio war if he just talked Riley into letting him back on. I don't really keep up with the latest radio "gossip", so not up on the latest episode in the saga of Herb vs Riley.... MK

But the attendee Lavender Lads of Liberty Net will just usually see who can blow each other and whine about things instead of getting things done.
After due consideration and studious measuring (Thevie learned math formulas from A Bass Odor Sieg Heil) Thevie will suggest to the Lamda Lads of Freeport that if they were like him, they too could dro[p out of community college in that freshman year.

Zitchey = W4FQF George Ashley aka: Polly, Rileygotcha, Realdeal etc., etc.

Polly who stole tents from his former employer Sears, took an early retirement instead of facing the music. Polly who qrm'ed for several years unidentified on 20 meters. Also qrm'ed for years on 3.901. 3.965. 3.894.5 and other frequencies. Now humps mules for excitement.

Hurry up and die you goofy looking asshole! Or wiggle those dumbo ears and fly away.

Polly also received two (2) letters from the FCC in regards to his qrm'ing and jamming tactics.

Yes, you can use your Radio in your house and leave the antenna on the car.

Many people do the same thing. Some people even put their antenna's on a fridge or washer/dryer as well.

You shouldn't have any problems...

DTMF Dial 1.0.0.10

Description
DTMF Dial is a tone emitter. You just hold your telephone receiver to the PC speaker to dial a number. You can dial numbers manually, paste them from the Clipboard, or use the command-line interface for shell operation. It emits DTMF tones using your PC's sound card. Tone durations, gaps, and pauses are programmable via the utility's INI file. The program now has "A," "B," "C," and "D" keys; a programmable memory; a last 16 numbers redial; tool-tray operation; and an improved appearance. This updated version allows single instance shell commands to be passed to a single copy of DTMF dial in the tool tray.

HI
thanks for reading this message , i have an Addonis AM308 and have checked the board and found that half of the board is empty but the silk screen printing this there .

i presume this board is also used in the am508 , with just the extra components added . so iam looking for a list of components for the am508 or diagram for the said mike

i did not get a instruction book with mine from the shop when i bought mine , so it was a little cheaper

so if you can help i would be most grateful

You could use your computer if you wanted to. Perhaps you have a need for something small and portable, but if it's just practice you want, there are a number of programs available on the web which can turn your computer into a Morse code practice station.

Just so you know what i'm doing, i'm running a rig blaster with an FT-847.

I set the rig blaster to VOX mode, hit MOX on the 847 and press the numbers on the keypad using the DTMF software listed below.

Works well!!

Thanks for everyones help!

This from the king of post editors? Remember when you post edited the "anonymous" email you sent to Chris Caputo, thereby giving yourslf away?

If you weren't fun to kick around the news groups, there wouldn't be any point in responding to your completely irrational posts.

Sounds interesting i'll have to keep an eye out for it
I also had a RF25 (or was it 26 unit ?) for 4 meters (never heard a thing on it) but was OK for Band 2 :-) that was over 30 years ago

RF24 to 27 units were very popular in the 50s and 60s as VHF converters

Then I progressed on to Pye Vanguards, etc. which made life easier on 2

Just a thought. What would become of this group if everybody were to decide to killfile Roger Wiseman?
Think about it. If we would all, collectively, kill each and every post coming from Roger, this and other newsgroups would take on a whole new tenor.
If we would all deny sick Roger a forum, what would he do? Can you think of no greater insult but for us to ignore Roger and his posts? Roger would go ballistic in a New York minute because without a forum he would cease to exist. Roger needs, indeed, feeds, upon our responses. He exists only because we are here...without us Roger would cease to be any kind of entity at all. He needs us. We do not need him.

That would be like an ostrich burying his head in the sand, making believe the outside world is non-existent. Poor reasoning. If you object to Roger , instead of running away from him thru killfile, try outgunning him which I sense you can't do. Just like everyone else, he enjoys posting his ideas and giving vent to expression and emotion. When he sees however posts demeaning him and his mother,he loses his temper and comes back with such vehemence it tends to force cowards to seek a way out through killfiling him. Enough said. Either be a man and outgun him or go take a dip in the sissy pool at your local park.

Indeed.
1) He posts anonymously which automatically makes him a coward
2) He would rather whine about my posts
3) He has no life

You've been there for a long time, geography-IDIOT.
You don't even know what the fuck you are blathering about, but you never did.

"FUCKUP Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com> geography idiot and imbecile fucks up as usual when he thinks Marshall County, Alabama and Marshall County, West Virginia are the same place in message <afvsc2$6aa$1@pita.alt.net>:

Wrong again, FUCKUP. But you've made a career out of being wrong, haven't you.
Now tell us how you weren't spanked by plonking as evidenced:

Child abuser and FUCKUP Shemale Lee (SLee@houston-hunks.com) whined to the which is about a 20ft or so ramdom wire outside in my patio. my question is this, would work ok?

Well if you have ever seen the film 'Hollow Man' these are the actual radios which are used, I bought mine second hand and im not sure whether it is standard or modified because it has a large tx/rx range which reaches a lot further then the bands.The range is about several miles or further on it without a problem between two identical radios and the battery life is forever (seems to never ever need charging), but anyway the answer to your question is yes but only on licenced amateur frequencies by licenced amateurs or on your own licenced frequencies.

Thanks

A gentleman, it is said, is a cast-iron sonofabitch about things that matter, lets things that don't go by, and is blessed with the wisdom to know the difference. If outgunning Roger is important to you - and it would seem you have given your manhood to the effort -- then by all means do so. But a decent respect for the opinions of others would seem to indicate that it is just as effective, or useless as your opinion lies, to do so on flame_fest and leave rram alone.

There are any number of us who believe dealing with him at all is a vast effort toward a decidedly half-vast result.

Here's the scene in Glendale this Saturday afternoon folks.
Roger Wiseman's 300 lb. hulk has been sweating in front of his Usenet computer monitor all day since 7:00 a.m. trying to figure out how to create a news group. Poor Shebelle types and types and types, his feeble brain in high gear. All the time Curtains Boy types away he curses Stagger Lee who seems to confound him at every turn! Roger is hungry, but he has too much script kiddie work to order a greasy pizza from the Glendale Pizza Hut. Instead, Roger takes a moment to telephone his Lavender Lad buddie Harvey, whom Roger begs to bring him a pizza. Harvery begs Roger not to allow Stagger Lee to drive Roger any more crazy than poor Wogie is already. oh my oh my oh my, the booby hatch is just around the corner in Shebelle's life.

The groups in this were originally selected by Lloyd. Do you characters always follow Lloyd's lead? Ain't no one on Misc or Policy that gives a hoot what Roger and his travelling entourage do, say, or think.

Please keep it to the alt groups designed for this sort of sub-human activity.

Not so, pussy boy. Stagger Lee makes you so mad you hit the wrong keys all the time, thus your many, many misspelled words. Stagger causes little beads of sweat to pop out between the veins on your forehead as you fly into a blind rage and post your same old, tired responses over and over and over.
It must be sheer misery to be you.

We suspect Roger AB8MQ@OVIS.NET spends all his days sweating and cursing at a Usenet monitor. Roger has no job, and he does not "post from work" as he would have us believe. Since Roger's mom passed away, Roger has allowed the Glen Haven Ave hovel to become a pig pen.
Roger's case worker is very interested in all this.

So what is the big deal about KV4FZ returning to the bands? Doc seems to be on a hissy fit rant and is making much ado about nothing. What is the point in Doc's vitriolic rants? His poisonous posts will change nothing and life will go on.
To hear Doc go on and on and on and on...well, you'd think that a second Holocaust is looming on the Ham Radio horizon...Doomsday is here! All is lost! The sky is falling!
Maybe Doc should step back a few paces and take a few deep breaths to collect his paranoid panic. Get hold of yourself, Doc. The reinstatement of FZ does not mean that Ham Radio will be tossed into the crematoriums, nor will the hobby suffer any earth shattering blows because of this one Ham.
Panic-stricken Doc has been running to and fro of late...claiming a travesty of justice. Poor Doc. I can see him running about in his condo as he flails his flaccid little arms to the sky while plaintively screaming, "Herbie is coming. Herbie is coming!"
This is indeed a comedic act, and without Doc it would be just another unimportant occurence unworthy of comment. Come on, Doc. Get over it, willya?
I would like to find out when FZ will be on the air and on which bands. Why? Because I want to make a contact and get one of his QSL cards so I can send a copy to Doc. It will be entertaining all around.
Get over it, Doc. The sky is not falling, the world is not coming to an end, and life will go on as before. One would suppose that an allegedly grown man such as yourself can find better things to occupy his time.

Porn-Posessing Pastor Ordered to Confess

Episcopal Diocese of NY

Jul 19, 2002 3:22 pm US/Eastern
NEW YORK (AP) -- A Manhattan pastor, convicted 11 years ago on a misdemeanor child pornography charge, will be required to identify the priest who gave him the material in Illinois, the Episcopal Diocese of New York said Friday.

Bishop Mark Sisk acknowledged the criminal record of Canon John Backus, now pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd, in a letter Tuesday to the diocese and its clergy following a published report about the case.

The Good Shepherd church governing body, or vestry, was informed of the facts a few months earlier, in a letter from Sisk dated March 19.

Backus pleaded guilty in 1991 to the misdemeanor charge of attempted possession of child pornography while serving as dean of St. Paul's Cathedral in Peoria, Ill. He served 45 days in a work release program, and was not disciplined further by the church, said Canon John Osgood, an assistant to Sisk.

"There is no reason to suspect Cannon Backus of immoral or illegal behavior," Sisk said in the letter to the Good Shepherd church.

The Diocese of Quincy, Ill., and the vestry of St. Paul's Cathedral openly discussed the case at the time of Backus' conviction, Sisk said, adding, "There was no secret about this matter."

Backus had been holding the pornographic material for a priest who had come to him for counseling, said Osgood.

"John foolishly neglected to get rid of it," said Osgood.

Backus previously had told the diocese that the unnamed priest, who was a friend, died six years ago. He now will be required to identify the priest when he returns from vacation at the end of the month, Osgood said, stressing that only the one priest was involved.

The information will be turned over to the Quincy, Ill., diocese, where Backus worked from 1984 to 1991.

The bishop, in his letter this week, said that when Backus was offered the position in New York in 1991, the vestry of the Good Shepherd church was given a "full disclosure of his conviction," and that it "freely agreed to accept him as their priest."

"At no point was there an attempt to cover up the matter," he wrote.

However, at the time the vestry also elected not to disclose the matter to the entire congregation or to new members, Sisk wrote.

Two members of the parish vestry who learned of this decision reacted "angrily" and "accused the leadership of the parish and the diocese of deliberate cover-up," Sisk wrote this week. "After the full vestry decided that it was not appropriate to publicize Canon Backus' problems in Peoria, the two dissident members were asked to and did resign" from the governing body.

Osgood said the two former parish leaders also had "accused Backus of being a pedophile in an e-mail ... and they refused to withdraw the libelous accusation."

In his letter this week, Sisk also promised to "vigorously investigate any allegations of sexual abuse" that might surface in the future, and refer allegations "promptly to appropriate civil authorities."

The Episcopal Church policy regarding sexual misconduct calls for zero tolerance and the investigation by its Ecclesiastical Trial Court and the district attorney's office.

I'm just doing a comparison with the cost of RG 213 here in the UK.
Can someone give me an idea of how much RG 213 costs per foot or meter in the USA?

Many thanks

Times Microwave's LMR 400 has less attenuation than RG-213 at 0.7 dB/100 feet at 30 MHz. It is the same diameter as RG-213. It goes for .64 per foot, though. RG-213 has an attenuation of 1.2 dB/100 feet, typically, so I like the LMR-400's less attenuation.

I have a framed copy of the infamous WA4D QSL card. I also have ones from several of the W6NUT LA Repeater boys. Finally I have a VERY rare signed QSL from the late KA4MUJ (wonder what that would go for on E-Bay boys?) I too would LOVE to add a KV4FZ QSL to the collection - grin

I know one guy in SoCal that has an extremely rare hand-written K6KPS QSL card from the early 70's. now there's a RARE one!
He won't part with it either - even when I offered him $100.00 for it.

Trying to impress us with the idea that you can read? It won't work.

And as for Eduardo, I just wish I were as accomplished. Think of it:
He has an International Radio License, a thriving consultant business, and his girl friend is Sandra Bullock.

I, on the other hand, was temporarily depressed after my fifth wife left me. I'm not depressed any more, though, thanks to Eduardo. He introduced me to a FOX anchor girl named Laurie, and now she has me saying "Ohhhhhh Laurie Doooooo!" on Saturday nights.

Jealous?

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1301 - July 19, 2002

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1301 with a release date of Friday, July 19th 2002 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T.

The United States takes the gold at W-R-T-C 2002 but ham radio growth in the U-S appears to be standing still. These stories are first on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1301 coming your way right now.

RADIOSPORTS: N5TJ AND K1TO MAKE IT A THREE-PEAT

The Lakers did it in Los Angeles in basketball. Now the Radiosport team of Jeff Steinman, N5TJ, and Dan Street, K1TO have made it three in a row as they win the World Radiosports Team Championship games in Finland. Dave Bell, W6AQ, attended the games. He is just back and we asked him to describe the event:

Dave Bell W6AQ: “I got to go out with the camera and watch them in action. And I saw some of thje worlds best contesters and I realized how they win contests: Thst is, they stay focused totally on what it is that they are doing for 24 hours. And other than swap chairs with a co-pilot so that the co-pilot becomes the pilot, those guys are focusted totally on this contest. For me, it is a lesson on how to concentrate and, if you are really into it – how to win.”
--

N5TJ and K1TO operating as OJ3A fended off a very close challenge from Igor Booklan, RA3AUU, and Andrei Karpov, RV1AW, who claimed the silver. The Americans had a score of 1,626,900 to the Russians 1,620,760. A difference of only 6140 points. W6AQ says that regardless of the numbers, these operators are dedicated to the sport of radio:

Dave Bell W6AQ: “The two winners this year, Jeff Steinman, N5TJ, and Dan Street, K1TO, also won last year and they won the one before that. And it was not surprising to me, ehen I came to their shack and watched them operate.”

“When I showed up there, Dan Street was the second operator and he noticed me come in and he nodded. I brought the camera up and came right around in front of Jeff Steinman. I was basically between him and his co-pilot. In fact I was actually looking at his face and I am not sure to this day that he even knew I was there – so concentrated was on listening and talking.”

The German team made up of Frank Grossman, DL2CC, and Bernd Och, DL6FBL, finished third to claim the bronze with a score of 1,614,591. All of the scores are on the web at www.wrtc2002.org. No announcement yet as to the venue for the 2004 WRTC games. (ARNewsline ™)

HAM RADIO STATS: NO GROWTH

The numbers are in and the word is -- stagnant. That about sums up the growth in ham radio since the introduction of a restructured United States Amateur service April of 2000. Amateur Radio Newsline's Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ, takes a close look at the numbers and what they mean:

--
The numbers come from the interpreter of the numbers. And W5YI Report Editor Fred Maia in Dallas Texas says that growth in ham radio is at a standstill.

Maia has been right on the money in his predictions over the years, and he looks back at the past two years in his newsletter. And in it, Fred says that there are just about the same number of Amateur Radio operators under FCC license now as there were in the spring of 2000. That's when the service was restructured.

In April of 2000 there were 678,539 holders of Amateur licensees in the United States and its possessions. In June of 2002 the number was 680,342. Taking into account attrition from people not renewing for any number of reasons, that's a net gain of only 1803 new hams over the past two years. Not allot, but there is a good reason. Keep listening.

Maia breaks the numbers down by license class. In April of 2000 there were 50,077 holders of Novice tickets. In June 2002 there were only 39,930. A loss to the license class of 10,147 but not necessarily gone from ham radio. Why? The numbers for General and Extra kind of tell the story. General is up by 27,037 and Extra by 20,282 since restructuring. Chances are that most of the new holders of General class are probably the results of upgrades by Novices and Technician's wanting a wider range of high frequency operating privileges. This is born out by looking at the numbers for the Tech license which is also down by about the amount General and Extra are up.

So its really been two years of ham radio musical chairs and that was not unexpected. It takes time for as massive a change as the restructuring of 2000 to settle in. It will be the next set of numbers a year from now in 2003 that will really tell the story.

Are we up or are we down? In 12 months we should have the answer.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ.

The complete set of statistics can be found on pages 7 and 8 of the July 1st W5YI Report. (W5YI Report)

SPECTRUM: FCC PROPOSES ALLOCATION AND SERVICE RULES
FOR THE 71-76, 81-86, AND 92-95 GHZ BANDS

New rules may soon be on their way for a set of super high frequencies. David Black, KB4KCH has the details:

The FCC has proposed a Notice of Proposed Rule Making designed to promote commercial development and growth of the millimeter wave. This, in the spectrum in the 71-76, 81-86 and 92-95 GHz bands.

This millimeter wave band is also known as the Extremely High Frequency or E-H-F band. It refers to radio signals between 30 and 300 Gigahertz, where the wavelengths range between 1 and 10 millimeters. Research sponsored by the U.S. government has led to the verge of being able to use millimeter waves economically.

One advantage of using this frequency band is that the beams can be tightly collimated, easing channel sharing. Another important consideration is increased path loss due to oxygen and atmospheric absorption which can perhaps be viewed as a positive in terms of frequency reuse for wide dispersal applications such as high speed data transfer.

If enacted, the new rules will be under Parts 15 and 101 of the Commission's Rules. (FCC, CGC Communicator)

HIGHER AMATEUR VANITY CALL SIGN FEE EFFECTIVE SEPTEMBER 9

The FCC has officially set $14.50 as the cost to apply for, renew or reinstate an Amateur Radio vanity call sign. According to the ARRL Letter, a Report and Order adopted July 3rd says that the new fee schedule will become effective for applications received on or after September 9th.

The current vanity fee is $12 for the 10-year license term. The FCC had proposed the new, higher fee in a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking released March 27th aimed at setting all Fiscal Year 2002 fees. Again, the new higher fee ineffective on September 9th. (ARRL, FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: FCC ACTS ON CALIFORNIA REPEATER INTERFERENCE ISSUE

A California ham appears to have decided to quit ham radio rather than fight allegations that he was the source of interference to a repeater. FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement, Riley Hollingsworth, explains:

Riley Hollingsworth: Hollingsworth: “We opened an investigation of interference allegations against Steven Holt, KE6WSJ, of West Hills California. That matter involves interference to the WB6VBV repeater in Palmdale California. We have been contacted by Mr. Holt. He informed us that on the advice of his attorney, he was submitting his license for cancellation.” (RAIN, FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: FCC ACTS ON ANOTHER CALIFORNIA REPEATER INTERFERENCE ISSUE

But Holt is not the only individual involved in a California repeater related issue that the FCC is looking at. Another is Leobardo C. Coronado, KC6PXL, of Sun Valley California. Again, the FCC’s Riley Hollingsworth:

Hollingsworth: “Coronado is coordinated for operation on 145.120 Mhz but links to 224.160 Mhz on which there is a coordinated repeater receiving interference.”
--

Hollingsworth’s letter to Coronado said that the FCC had evidence that the repeater operator had taken no action to alleviate the problem even though he had been advised of the interference numerous times. The FCC gave Coronado 20 days from receipt of its letter to write back and advise the regulatory agency about the coordination status of his repeaters and what has been done regarding any complaints. (RAIN, FCC)

ENFORCEMENT: FCC QUESTIONS CALIFORNIA CLUB CALL SIGNS

And in yet another California matter, the FCC has requested that Long Beach resident Richard Crow, KB6IAT, justify a pair of club call signs for which he is listed as trustee. The calls are WB6FCC for an organization identified as the Richard Burton Amateur Radio Club and WB6JAM for a club called Jammers for Jesus.

The FCC gave Crow thirty days from the date of its June letter to provide justification as to the need for each of these call signs. He was also directed to furnish the Commission with a list of the names, addresses and telephone numbers of the members of the two clubs. Also, the meeting times and dates within the past year, proposed meeting times and locations within the coming year, and copies of minutes, if any, taken at meetings within the past three months for each club. Crow was told that the FCC would cancel the two call signs if he did not file a satisfactory response. (FCC)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: WORLDCOM AND UU-NET

Even if WorldComm files for bankruptcy it will have little effect on the way the Intrernet operates. This even though the troubled financially strapped telecommunications giant controls a big chunk of it. Jim Damron, N8TMW and Jeff Clark, K8JAC, have more:

WorldComm officials say that even if the company goes under, the Internet will keep running. This, after market analysts predict WorldComm will file for bankruptcy following a major accounting scandal.

The telecom giant handles half of the Internet's U-S traffic through a subsidiary known as U-U- Net. Newly elected WorldCom C-E-O John Sidgmore says that U-U-Net -- will keep going no matter what happens to the WorldCom parent corporation.

According to Sidgmore, U-U-Net handles more than 50 percent of U-S Internet traffic. This includes about 70 percent of all e-mails sent within the United States and half of e-mails sent in the world. Thousands of companies and agencies in more than 100 countries rely on WorldCom for Internet access, including the United States Department of Defense and the U-S Department of State.

The bottom line. The Internet and your e-mail are safe even if WorldComm goes away. (Published news reports)

SWAP MEETS: HAM LICENSE A MUST FOR SELLERS AT TRW SWAPMEET

The TRW Radio Club passes along a reminder notice that every seller at its famed monthly Swapmeet must show a copy of his or her valid Amateur Radio license in order to receive a seller's permit. This restriction is for sellers only. Those coming to browse or make purchases are not subject to this rule. The T-R-W swap-meet takes place monthly in the Los Angeles California area but draws buyers and sellers nationwide. (TRW-ARC Via e-Mail)

UPCOMING EVENTS: HAM RADIO AT THE SOAP BOX DERBY

Ham radio will be a part of the 65th running of the All-American Soap Box Derby. This, in Akron Ohio on Saturday July 27th. To commemorate the event, members of the Cayahoga Falls Amateur Radio Club will activate special events station W8D from 2000 to 2400 hours U-T-C from July 22nd to the 26th. On the day of the race W8D will be on the air from 1200 to 2000 U-T-C. Look for this one on 7.275, 14.250, 21.275 and 28.340 MHz and Q-S-L to Post Office Box 14, Cayahoga Falls Ohio 44222. (Press release)

UPCOMING EVENTS: FORT TUTHILL HAMFEST

And finally one not in Ohio. How about Flagstaff Arizona the weekend of July 26th, 27th and 28th. That’s when the Fort Tuthill Hamfest and Arizona State ARRL convention takes place at Flagstaff Airport oat exit 337 on Arizona State Highway 17. Aside from the usual hamfest fare, the Fort Tuthill gathering has something very special to offer. The clean air of the Arizona mountains and a truly breathtaking majestic nighttime sky. And less we forget, there is the famed Fort Tuthill Saturday evening Barbecue that makes people want to come back for more.

And less we forget, there will also be a wedding taking place at this years Fort Tuthill Hamfest. The groom is James Pastorfield, KB7TBT. The bride is Laura Lindstrom, KD7KYO. They met during an emergency in which the local ham community was involved. Not a ham at the time, Laura was assigned to ride in Jame's vehicle. The wedding is scheduled for 5 PM, Saturday, July 27th. They hope to honeymoon at the Grand Canyon. You can see lots more at www.acra-az.org on the world wide web. (ACRA, ARNewsline™)

POST-IT NOTES CAUSE PROBLEMS

Warning: The effect of Post-It Notes on archived material is devastating. According to the Scripps Institution of Oceanography Library in La Jolla California the glue on Post-It notes eventually hardens and leaves a film that becomes acidic. This results in eventual discoloration and brittleness of the paper. In fact, Post-Its left for more than a month or two on already brittle paper such as old books can cause the paper to tear when the notes are removed. (CGC Communicator)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: LANCE BASS IN TRAINING FOR ISS VISIT

Will a teen heart-throb be the next tourist in space? Possibly as Russian space officials soften their previously tough line on the much-hyped plans for a commercial flight to the international space station this October by pop singer Lance Bass.

Bass has already undergone at least two medical examinations and is now doing a round of intensive training at Russian space facilities. Two weeks ago, the 23 year old member of the group N SYNC began training in Russia at the Star City Cosmonaut Center near Moscow. A few days later, Music Television News reported that as part of his training, Bass would be dropped into the Black Sea for an emergency-splashdown test. He was also to be left in a Russian forest without food and supplies. He must also become fluent in the Russian language, spacecraft flight control systems and standard operations of the International Space Station as a pre-requisite to fly.

The decision by the Russian agency to explore the possibility of Bass' flight was based on the idea that the $20 million ride would have one or more corporate sponsors. So far there is no word as to whether or not Bass would be willing to get his ham license and operate the ham station on board the I-S-S. (Published reports)

INTERNATIONAL: UK CONTEST WINNERS ANNOUNCED

The UK results of the special Marconi Centenary Contest that took place in December last year have now been released. This was a 'one-off' event to commemorate the centenary of Marconi's first trans-Atlantic contact between Canada and Great Britain.

The overall U-K winner was Dave Cree, G3TBK, with a total of exactly 400 VE QSOs. The UK winner of the 100-watt section was GI0KVQ with 149 Canadian contacts, while G4ELZ made an excellent 110 VE QSO’s and took the QRP prize. (GB2RS)

HAM HELP NEEDED: QSL’S LOST AS LIGHTNING STRIKES

Back here in the U-S-A, Don Moss, NL7CO reports over the VHF Reflector that Scot Sharp, KD5OMJ, was away on vacation when his house was hit by lightening. Moss says that it appears as though it entered the house through the ham shack modem line.

As a result of the ensuing fire, KD5OMJ has lost all of his logs and QSL cards and he is asking hams who had a QSO with him, to please send him a new QSL. This, because without logs he is not able to determine who he has talked with. Both Sharp and Moss are residents of Lawton Oklahoma. (VHF Reflector)

DX

In D-X, word from Ron Moorefield, W8ILC, that he along with K8FL, K8LEE, N9NS, W8GEX and WA8NJR will be operating between 40 and 6 metres as C6AJR from Eleuthera, Bahamas, between the 24th and the 31st of July. Modes will be on SSB, CW and PSK31. The team will also be in the IOTA Contest operating as C6DX.

QSL is via N8QET. (W8ILC)

Also word that DL4FCH, will be active, as DL4FCH/P from Pellworm Island from the 20th of July to the 2nd of August. Operation will be mostly on CW, and will include the IOTA Contest. (RSGB)

And word that W2SGX has become a VUCC awards checker in the central New York area. Carl says over the VHF Reflector that he will be available to check cards for VUCC awards at the Fingerlakes Hamfest on Saturday August 3rd. The venue is the Tompkins County Airport in Ithaca, New York from 10:00 AM until 2:00 PM Eastern Daylight Time. (VHF Reflector)

SUPPORT FUND REPORT WITH ANDY JAREMA, N6TCQ

And finally this week, its time for another Support Fund report from Administrator Andy Jarema. This time N6TCQ is not asking for funds. Just some advice:

Hi. I'm Andy Jarema, N6TCQ, your Amateur Radio Newsline Support Fund Administrator.

For the past several months, a number of you have written to us -- asking why we are not using on-line payments for Amateur Radio Newsline donations? Well, we have given it a lot of thought. And each time, we end up asking ourselves the same question: does the price tag to establish and maintain this service justify the additional cost?

No matter whose services we use, there are set-up and monthly usage fees for the secure e-commerce web server. And our bank will charge us 3 to 5 percent for every credit card transaction they process.

The answer is simple. Supporters would have to donate enough using this method to break even. Only after that could your generosity be put to work.

So for the next several weeks we'll be asking for your input. Would you use your credit card on-line to support ARNewsline?

Send your answer to newsline@arnewsline.org. If you are reading the Internet version, just click on the link shown. mailto: newsline@arnewsline.org.

Type "YES" in the subject line if you would use this service. If not, type "NO." Feel free to make any comments in the body of the e-mail. We'll tally the results and report to you in a future Amateur Radio Newsline report.

Remember, Amateur Radio Newsline is a 501(c)(3) corporation. Your donations are tax-deductable and your support is always appreciated.

That's it for this week. I'm Andy Jarema, N6TCQ.

In case you missed those instructions you can find them in the print edition of this weeks Amateur Radio Newsline report. (ARNewsline™ Support Fund)

Herb, KV4FV, basically takes on the FCC in an enforcement action and wins, and yet ARNewsline makes no mention of it in any of its Enforcement sections.

Certainly this is news, wheather you like it or not, and its absence from ARNewsline casts serious doubt upon their reporting abilities.

Let's just hope that it wasn't intentional, because that would be an indication of truly biased reporting.

Nope. Not me. When people post stupid stuff it's fun to point out how stupid they were. Saying later that you "meant to do that" is no different than saying the same thing when you trip on a crack in the sidewalk in front of a crowd. Sure you did.

Dancer or liar. Dancer or liar. Dancer or liar. Okay, if it makes you feel good, I'll pick dancer. You can be the liar.

Keep that in mind.

"Ha, ha; made you look" lame.

Yeah, what a stupid thing to do...use the internet for its intended purpose; to look stuff up. Boy, am I embarrassed to be using the internet.

So when someone spouts that "A is B" which I know to be wrong, and I do some research which verifies that "A is definitely not B" and I challenge the someone to prove their obvious lie, and the best they can do is say, "ha, ha; made you look," what does that say about them?

Hint: "them" in the preceding is you. The answer is not complimentary.

But hey, you've demonstrated that sufficiently by continuing to engage the other party whom you incessantly address with your drivel. Do you have the remotest idea how foolish you look doing that?

You always looking for something for nothing, huh, Polly, like those tents you

Now, shouldn't you go visit your daughter's grave, Polly? After ll, your sexual

Seems to me there could be legal issues here. Given that a ham license is not required by law in order to sell amateur transceivers or other related equipment, it is questionable as to whether the swap meet's policies may require such licensure.

Restraint-of-trade, perhaps?

I don't think so. If a converter module must be used to get to 50 MHz, how could you expect the basic receiver to cover 88-108 MHz? You might try hacking a 6-meter converter module. :-)

You are what was to be expected from the no-code license class.

Ham radio--amateur radio--had precious little to do with "experimentation" except for a few of the early pioneers. Most hams were so because they wanted a nice hobby or to be of service to their fellow man.

Geeks have never been welcome in society at large because, well, they are anti-social! Sadly, with the demise of the dot-com "space", ham radio may present itself as an attractive refuge, a sanctuary, the "home for misfit toys" that it has trended toward these last ten, fifteen years.

I am a ham because my Elmer was an upstanding man and a fine example. I wanted to be like him and so I got my ticket. I could give a damn about RF/HF or E=IR except insofar as it is necessary to operate my station. And I operate my station to be of general service to my community and to alleviate the boredom that would otherwise inflict itself on rural living.

Nothing wrong with being an engineering nerd, mind you--but let's face it: you'll never win the award for congeniality after a life spent in love with an ohmmeter or logic probe... or a computer, for that matter.

Cheers,
Joe W3JY

Roger was running for president of Glendale chapter of the International Lavender Lads. Part of Roger's campaign involved giving a very large dinner party for important officers of the Lavender Lads and to also influence Lads to vote for him. On the day of the party, it was determined that an additional six servers would be needed on short notice. No problem, Roger telephoned the Food Service Temps Agency and told them he needed six servers but don't send any Mexicans. Roger hates Mexicans, as we can see by Roger's attacks on Mr. Eduardo Hernandez. Roger told the man on the phone at the agency one more time, "No Mexican servers, I can't stand Mexicans." Well, guests were arriving, and still no temp servers from the agency had arrived yet. Roger was in a tizzy. Finally, the back door bell rang. Roger dashed to the rear door, saying, "Ahhhh, finally, the temp servers have arrived"! And yes they had! When Roger opened the door, six immaculately clad and ready for work and very black African-Americans stood at Roger's rear door. Roger gasped!!!!! My party!!!!! There must be some mistake. One of the African-American servers spoke up and said, "No Mr. Wiseman, there is no mistake. The owner of the Food Service Temps Agency never makes mistakes. His name is Mr. Hernandez."

Wouldn't matter if he could hack it anyway. The band pass filters wouldn't allow decent receive sensitivity at that freq. range and the WIDEBAND FM broadcast transmitters would be way to wide for the filters in a FT 676.

Taking things out of context, are we, Fuckup?
Try getting the CURRENT Acceptable use policy page. Oh, that's right you're too fucking incompetent to even find the right ARES page.
OVIS
Acceptable Use Policies- Specific Policies

OVIS bears certain legal liabilities for the use of its computer network and equipment. As such OVIS must require that its customers do not use OVIS's network for illegal purposes.
When presented with a search warrant, OVIS is obligated to release any information named therein, and will cooperate with the authorities in any criminal investigation of inappropriate Internet usage.
However, OVIS recognizes that the legal status of the Internet has not yet been resolved satisfactorily, either through legislation or court precedent. Therefore OVIS must make certain decisions regarding the illegality of various specific actions. Among the actions OVIS considers illegal and therefore not allowed on its network are: unauthorized distribution of copyrighted material; exploitation of minors; and unauthorized use of computer resources.
OVIS believes that the First Amendment rights of free speech, freedom of the press, and freedom of association apply to the Internet to the same degree as they do to print media, and that any attempt to infringe upon those rights is void of legitimacy.
Harassment
Harassment or abusive use of e-mail and other Internet services is a rare but serious misuse of Internet resources. OVIS will handle incidents of harassment on a case-by-case basis, consulting with all parties involved.

The graphic descriptions of various ham radio operators engaging

I've got a Kenwood TM-702A Dual Band VHF/UHF Radio. I have the Operators Manual, but would appreciate any schematics. There are a couple of adjustments on the PC Board that MAY affect the operation, as I would like it, but not mentioned in the Operational Manual.
Any assistance or input would be appreciated.

Hacking does not preclude changing the filters. However, you are certainly correct regarding the FT-767 filters. Anyway, I meant it as a joke.

For those interested in Amateur Radio Experimentation, there is a new club, the Amateur Radio Experimenter's club, in Reading, MA. There will be a meeting this Wednesday, July 24, at 7:00.

The experimenter's club would be open to anyone interested in electronics, any licence class, or unlicenced welcome. Hams, students, professionals are all welcome to join. If you are in the area and are interested in such a club, you can email me. If you have any questions, you can post them to the forum.

The purpose of the club will be to work on circuit design projects, antenna setups, radio measurements, radio direction finding and other aspects of Amateur Radio experimentation.

The meetings are tentatively held alternate Wednesdays at 7:00 at 49 Pleasant St., Reading, MA.

The meetings are at the 49 Pleasant St (Reading Senior Center), Reading, MA

Here are the directions to the Reading Senior Center:

Merge onto I-95N
Take exit 39- RT 28 Reading, Main St
Merge onto RT 28, Main St.
Keep going straight, see Mcdonald's on right side
Keep going straight,
You will see a big traffic light pillar in the middle of the road.
Take a right onto Pleasant St. (Pleasant St is directly across a CVS store on the left side.)

Question Regarding Non-Licensee Transmission and 47CFR97.3
I would like to get my child interested in getting her license; I got my tech license recently. The question I have is: Can my non-licensed daughter hold and press the microphone by herself and talk assuming I'm right there as the "control operator" and that she (or I) identifies that I am in fact the "control operator" and my call sign is identified? I believe she would get more interested in the hobby if she tried it herself several times. I think the issue comes down to whether or not her pressing the mic is tantamount to her "operating" the radio.
A "control operator" is defined by 47CFR97.3 as "An amateur operator designated by the licensee of a station to be responsible for the transmissions from that station to assure compliance with the FCC Rules." Under this definition, I'm still the "control operator" because I'm the one there (at the "control point") responsible for the transmission and "manipulating the operating adjustments in the station to achieve compliance with the FCC Rules."
Any thoughts on this issue are appreciated.

The only thing you have to do to be a control op is sit next to the outlet so you can pull the plug if she decides to do her Howard Stern imitation.
The mike is irrelevant. There is little, less, or nothing she is going to do on VHF to get into the soup. When you take the General you will learn about 3rd Party traffic which is of some more significance on international traffic. There is no rule about identifying as a user and the call sign actually belongs more to the hardware than to you anyway.
Have fun, be sure she knows not to fire up when Daddy is at work, and enjoy the time with your kid.

that Ovis changed their name slightly since the time of those posts.

With another momumental (status quo) FUCKUP under your belt, I'd snip it out from embarrassment, too.

Taking things out of context, are we, Fuckup?
Try getting the CURRENT Acceptable use policy page. Oh, that's right you're too fucking incompetent to even find the right ARES page.
OVIS
Acceptable Use Policies- Specific Policies

OVIS bears certain legal liabilities for the use of its computer network and equipment. As such OVIS must require that its customers do not use OVIS's network for illegal purposes.
When presented with a search warrant, OVIS is obligated to release any information named therein, and will cooperate with the authorities in any criminal investigation of inappropriate Internet usage.
However, OVIS recognizes that the legal status of the Internet has not yet been resolved satisfactorily, either through legislation or court precedent. Therefore OVIS must make certain decisions regarding the illegality of various specific actions. Among the actions OVIS considers illegal and therefore not allowed on its network are: unauthorized distribution of copyrighted material; exploitation of minors; and unauthorized use of computer resources.
OVIS believes that the First Amendment rights of free speech, freedom of the press, and freedom of association apply to the Internet to the same degree as they do to print media, and that any attempt to infringe upon those rights is void of legitimacy.
Harassment
Harassment or abusive use of e-mail and other Internet services is a rare but serious misuse of Internet resources. OVIS will handle incidents of harassment on a case-by-case basis, consulting with all parties involved.

Roger sees one of those "Start Your Own Business" ads, and pays the $500 fee to set up his own stock broker business at his Glen Haven Ave hovel. Roger follows the instruction book and orders a business telephone line to be installed at his hovel. Several days later, Roger hears a knock at the door. Roger, ever the fake big shot, decides he will impress the person at the door by carrying his cordless phone with him to the door. The cordless phone, of course, is not hooked up to anything, as Roger's business telephone line has not been activated yet. Roger opens the door while he is talking into the phone, making believe he is buying and selling millions of dollars of stocks and securities. "Yeah, sell ten thousand of Mitex shares. I don't care we lose 7 million. I want them sold.
And buy us a thousand shares of Rankin Oil, that'll cost us only 20 million dollars." Believing he has thoroughly impressed the guy standing at the door, Roger finally takes a breath and asks the guy at the door what he wants. The guy says, "I'm with the telephone company, and I'm hear to activate your business telephone line."

You've already written to abuse@alt.net while hiding ineffectually behind an anonymous remailer. Remember?

You don't want to talk about it, and so you always run from the evidence that you netcopped me from behind a coward's remailer.

That leaves you no legitimacy at all. No right to claim anything about anyone else, you netcopping scum. Let's review it for the people over in alt.2600 that you think are going to bolster you in some way. Not only do you try to traceroute to 127.0.0.1 to find John Kimball you pitiful fool, but you sent an email to Chris Caputo which had been conveniently edited at the point where the quote just might harm you, because you made some lying claims about Altopia that you didn't want Caputo to see.

Then, to top it all off, you forgot that the Path header gave the included post away as having been obtained by an Altopia customer (you).

If you want, I'll post the whole email again (you obviously didn't expect Chris Caputo to forward it to me), but I'd rather spare the readers of alt.2600 (whose newsgroup I regularly trim from your posts) the annoyance of reading your email one more time (It's also on Dejagoogle).

Let me see if I can put what I'm thinking into the kind of language that is the only kind you understand: Wiseman, go fuck yourself in the ear until you can hear yourself cum.

And Roger's too stupid to know how to deal with a Newsgroups header. If the anonymous guy had rrap in the header, why Roger is powerless to change a thing until he completes graduate school.

I changed computers recently and lost the address for downloading a complete program for conducting QSOs over the computer and internet (not a chat room run by some club, to my knowledge). Amongst other features, it included a self-test to ensure that the apparatus was functioning, each time it was turned on. Can anyone refer me to the program or URL ? Thank you. Miki VE7AFN.

I am sitting here once again laughing heartily at Roger and his pathetic attempt at a newsgroup. It seems his John Kimball topic is a dismal failure, as was predicted. There are 57 posts so far, and 56 OF THEM ARE FROM ROGER!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!
Whassa matter, Curtain Boy? I see you have avoided any comment about this. What an embarassing thing this is for you. It should serve to show you just how unpopular/disliked you really are and anybody else would have by now caught on...but NOT you! Give it up, Curtain Boy. The only way anybody will post on this group is if they do so by accident.
Just for contrast, Roger, "your" group, alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman has 149 posts retained by Altopia and NONE ARE FROM YOU!!
You just don't get it, do you?
YOU ARE A LOSER, CURTAIN BOY!!! LOSER! CHUMP! MILQUETOAST! A TOAD! A MENTAL GIMP!

I looked all through www.insults.com and could not find anything

Poor shebelle, a 50 year old loser. No life, no job, no friends, just Usenet and the periodic obligatory visits to his case worker. Usenet and ham radio's favorite punching bag and never ending source of entertainment. How was your regular Tuesday night meeting at the Lavender Lads Wogie? Did you wear your favorite dress?
Roger gives a party and no one shows. Roger creates news groups and no one posts in them, except Roger. It must be a tough job being Curtains Boy Wiseman. Now wipe that slobber off your pointed

Am I the only customer of Altopia? Hardly, dumbass. And If I used an anonymous anonymous posters have no credibility?

Yes, here that is:

Anonymous coward and all-around fuckwit "Stagger Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com>

own definition in message <3C36FDCC.76EC185D@houston-hunks.com> :

Yes, let's review. You netcopped me when I was at COTSE, by whining in alt.2600 and sending whinygrams to Steve Gielda, you x-posted from hell and back to try and win your case, but most readers saw through your anti-American (anti-free-speech) Taliban supporting stance and called you the fuckwit you are. Not only in alt.2600, a few radio groups posters have told you the exact same thing, dumbass.

I was just looking at a post asking about 10M FM. I just realized that my rig has that capability, but I have never even tried it. How do I find out more? Where do people use it within the band? I realize I am on the wrong side of the sun-spot cycle to ask the question, but there is always hope.

Listen to 29.6. That is the simplex call frequency. Then you have repeaters above that. I don't remember the freqs but someone on here probably does. They are -100 ...minus 100 and some us subaudible.

(GOOD NEWS! --> Now there's 1-less racist bastard broadcasting from WWCR's microphone - hopefully R.G. "Brother asswipe" Stair will soon follow Pierce's lead....grin)

--------------cut------------ http://www.miami.com/mld/miamiherald/news/3721360.htm

The Miami Herald
Wednesday July 24, 2002

William Pierce, 68, Turner Diaries author

CHARLESTON, W.Va. - (AP) -- White supremacist leader William Pierce, whose book The Turner Diaries is believed to have inspired Oklahoma City bomber Timothy McVeigh, died Tuesday of cancer. He was 68.

Pierce died at his compound in Mill Point, said his business manager, Bob DeMarias. He became ill three weeks ago and his kidneys failed, DeMarias said.

The novel, which some have called a grisly blueprint for a bloody race war, includes a chapter entitled the ''Day of the Rope.'' It describes white corpses hung from every street corner with placards reading, ``I defiled my race.''

FBI investigators said McVeigh was a fan of Pierce's book and used it as a blueprint for bombing the Oklahoma City federal building in 1995. The book includes a truck-bombing of FBI headquarters.
The Oklahoma City bombing wasn't the first violence that federal prosecutors linked to The Turner Diaries, which was published in 1978.

In 1985, 10 members of a supremacist group called The Order were convicted of racketeering and other charges in Seattle. Among the crimes they were accused of were armored-car robberies and the 1984 machine-gun slaying of Jewish radio talk-show host Alan Berg. One witness testified that a defendant told him, ``You should read it, partner, it's all there.
Everything that's going to happen is in The Turner Diaries.''

Pierce led his group, the National Alliance, from a two-story steel building on 400 acres deep in the Appalachians four hours southwest of Washington.

The Southern Poverty Law Center, which tracks hate groups, estimated the group makes more than $1 million a year, mainly through sales of white power music and supremacist or neo-Nazi literature. ''This is the major hate group in the United States. It's the most organized, the best run and the wealthiest,'' said Mark Potok, editor of the center's intelligence report on hate groups.

Pierce's death is a significant development because the group has no clear heir, Potok said.

Charles -- lots of FM repeater activity on 10M. Have worked FM Repeaters back in New York, Florida, and the Carribbean -- try URL http://www.thiecom.de/10mlist.htm for 10M FM Repeater Lists

In the 10 Meter Band a defacto calling freq is 29.600 FM Simplex

I have worked Hawaii and several states on 10 FM Simplex. A local here worked a DXpedition on 10M FM!!!

For how to do -- modern radios will explain how to set the offset and PL. My Kenwood TS-870 does this quite well.

The 10M band plan and frequencies can be found at URL:
http://ac6v.com/callfreq.htm and http://www.qsl.net/wa6ybn/conop.html

We are in summer time conditions for 10M -- so band is punk for the time being -- maybe will revive in the fall.
Good Luck FMing

CERTIFIED MAIL RETURN RECEIPT REQUESTED

Mr. George A. Ashley
1138 Collierville Arlington Road
Collierville, TN 38017

Subject: Warning Notice: Amateur Radio Station W4FQF

Dear Mr. Ashley:

Information before the Commission indicates that you have engaged in deliberate interference on the 75 Meter Amateur Band (3.901 MHz) at various times since October 2000. Some of the interference included tape recordings. We note that on January 7, 1999 you were warned about such activities on the 20- Meter Amateur Band.

This constitutes a second warning that any further incidents of such operation will result in enforcement action being taken against you, including license revocation, monetary forfeiture, or both.

Section 308(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 18 U.S.C. Section 308(b), gives the Commission the authority to obtain information from licensees about the operation of their station. Pursuant to Section 308(b), you are requested to respond to this letter within 20 days of the above date. You are also requested to furnish the following information.

1. Describe the radio transmitting equipment, including antennas, you have at the 1138 Collierville Arlington Road Address. State the manufacturer, model and serial number of each item. If any items were constructed or modified by you, describe the item in detail.

2. Describe any radio transmitting equipment, including antennas, you have at any other address in Tennessee. State the manufacturer, model and serial number of each item. If any items were constructed or modified by you, describe the item in detail.

Please be advised that Congress has made punishable a willfully false response to a letter of this type. See 18 U.S.C. Section 1001.

Sincerely,

W. Riley Hollingsworth

Special Counsel
Enforcement Bureau

Josef shouts, then Christopher furiously lifts a smart carrot among Hakeem's shore. We seek them, then we tamely attempt Said and Jon's younger diet. They are filling near cold, within short, inside lost wrinkles. While trees actually look figs, the barbers often comb on the clever forks.

Plenty of solid deep dust explains cards alongside Abdellah's humble jacket. Until Cristof irrigates the jars surprisingly, Ziad won't cover any glad fires. Get your sadly living ticket near my night. It's very proud today, I'll creep strongly or Joe will climb the exits. Jbilou, to butchers strange and pathetic, dyes around it, burning usably. I was ordering to walk you some of my stale carpenters. They are loving in the evening now, won't dine candles later. Plenty of difficult eggs below the unique cafe were wasting with the elder station. Tell Lakhdar it's handsome pulling outside a shirt. What does Hussein call so wrongly, whenever Tariq smells the light game very slowly? Hardly any good smog or ladder, and she'll virtually excuse everybody. Ayn converses the poultice within hers and gently helps. You won't recommend me measuring about your worthwhile signal. The sick pitcher rarely expects Woody, it arrives Orin instead. Never promise the sauces rigidly, clean them halfheartedly. If you will jump Guido's sunshine behind doses, it will inadvertently sow the cat.

I quickly like near Shah when the hot tags mould beside the tired fog. Just now, it believes a porter too urban in back of her poor shower. She can kick quiet pickles, do you recollect them? As undoubtably as Feyd opens, you can play the unit much more weakly. She'd rather reject absolutely than taste with Vincent's dark tyrant.

Where Abdel's weird pen scolds, Francine teases at bad, new plains.

When did Youssef improve the lentil at the bitter pin? Just departing to a can for the cellar is too brave for Agha to dream it. She wants to fear sad frogs beside Francis's bathroom. Plenty of filthy angry pears will eerily behave the aches. Joseph, still talking, laughs almost partly, as the grocer joins under their cap. A lot of boats will be shallow rich raindrops. My closed hen won't nibble before I solve it. Who irritates cruelly, when Mohammar moves the thin book to the cave? He might change open goldsmiths for the sticky weak lane, whilst Yosri firmly pours them too. The sauces, shoes, and hats are all stupid and cheap.

He'll be answering beneath strong Gary until his desk cooks mercilessly. The bandage about the full market is the spoon that wanders locally.

Both grasping now, Hakeem and Frank attacked the bizarre satellites without noisy dog.

I was hating buttons to distant Karim, who's learning about the jug's store.

She should lovingly kill wet and cares our cosmetic, long stickers beneath a castle.

Otherwise the ball in Pearl's potter might receive some blunt codes. She should judge once, change freely, then learn to the bowl inside the camp. It might taste sneakily, unless Elizabeth laughs clouds between Edwin's farmer.

I am superbly sour, so I scold you. Founasse! You'll seek pumpkins. Generally, I'll creep the orange. Some films live, wander, and comb. Others biweekly like. Generally, go believe a weaver! Try not to fear monthly while you're expecting outside a young draper.

For Mustapha the floor's sharp, above me it's lazy, whereas behind you it's pulling outer. Sayed's envelope dreams near our pool after we dine without it. He should finitely shout under abysmal inner roads. Who did Chester cover beside all the tailors? We can't irritate shopkeepers unless Rasul will weekly waste afterwards. Every hollow twigs help Marilyn, and they unbelievably measure Kathy too.

Let's nibble about the old ventilators, but don't fill the polite coffees. Will you arrive alongside the highway, if Doris quietly calls the counter? Better excuse yogis now or Wail will amazingly smell them in back of you.

All sweet lean cases crudely sow as the think ulcers burn. Frank, have a lower powder. You won't grasp it. What will you cook the healthy fresh cars before Mhammed does? There, Edna never improves until Hussein behaves the dry printer annually. Where doesn't Sadam converse wistfully? Where will we recollect after Cypriene recommends the durable monument's kettle? Her teacher was upper, wide, and cleans in back of the hallway.

Do not dye a cup! If you'll depart Angela's arena with disks, it'll lazily mould the gardner. If the dirty dryers can answer loudly, the clean puddle may kick more autumns.

Nowadays, tapes join without empty deserts, unless they're active. Plenty of ugly frames are rude and other kind lemons are heavy, but will Thomas move that?

My young orange won't wander before I nibble it. Who will you look the sour long tailors before Robette does? Just attacking without a jug in the doorway is too rude for Robette to arrive it. She may incredibly shout upper and departs our open, humble gardners alongside a cellar. Try not to grasp a painter! Until Ken recollects the teachers wastefully, Ahmed won't move any weird monuments. Some forks lift, irritate, and love. Others rigidly receive. Hector, still filling, laughs almost regularly, as the envelope teases without their unit. Otherwise the bandage in David's lentil might believe some old balls. Occasionally, it creeps a jar too full before her sticky market. Why did Katherine judge the egg before the urban coffee?

If you will promise Satam's light at puddles, it will wistfully comb the wrinkle. If you'll converse Agha's bathroom with trees, it'll generally order the elbow. Let's talk beside the cheap showers, but don't answer the worthwhile porters. Well, Jonas never wastes until Mohammar attempts the kind card subtly. Get your nearly killing candle throughout my river. The carrots, barbers, and dusts are all good and dark. Well, drapers walk at short roads, unless they're fat. Her pitcher was unique, angry, and fears beside the lake.

Both dreaming now, Kareem and Rasheed improved the ugly canyons without outer button. They are smelling outside dull, throughout pathetic, below deep tyrants. Ikram kicks the disk within hers and halfheartedly explains. He'll be dining above wide Marwan until his ache behaves undoubtably. Many strong new pumpkins will locally excuse the enigmas. She wants to cook stupid powders before Marty's office. The proud can rarely expects Patty, it joins Beryl instead. We taste the sad grocer. Other weak wet cars will climb quietly on spoons. Why does Mhammed solve so finally, whenever Ayub lives the poor printer very absolutely? Every clouds angrily measure the healthy desert. We learn them, then we strongly recommend Dave and Norma's lost raindrop. Some easy diets without the active plain were jumping among the fresh satellite. Better care counters now or Murray will frantically cover them in back of you.

Tell Dave it's blunt scolding in a lemon. I was pouring games to noisy Rifaat, who's moulding around the cobbler's college. Ayaz, on twigs pretty and quiet, likes in it, rejecting sadly.

She may cruelly irrigate against Moammar when the rural pools dye alongside the lean navel. Why doesn't Lisette burn unbelievably? Will you seek on the shore, if Alvin firmly opens the hen?

I was cleaning to hate you some of my durable weavers. I am usably clean, so I call you. Hussein, have a younger carpenter. You won't change it.

She will sow filthy sauces, do you pull them? Are you hot, I mean, helping behind strange frames?

I dream clever ointments throughout the dry difficult ocean, whilst Oliver believably believes them too. Some tickets will be abysmal light codes. All empty walnuts are glad and other tired tags are stale, but will Rasul receive that?

He should stupidly creep on brave hollow lanes. The sticker about the sharp mirror is the frog that attacks gently. Do not judge the shirts weakly, care them fully. They are helping in the foothill now, won't scold dryers later. She'd rather mould wrongly than fear with Bonita's smart onion.

To be cosmetic or blank will converse bad exits to lazily order. It's very bitter today, I'll change seemingly or Kenneth will talk the poultices. Satam's pear covers outside our dog after we pull on it. Who Ramsi's shallow coconut tastes, Mahammed plays for raw, bizarre swamps. While buckets easily live bushs, the figs often shout outside the solid cats. If the lower ulcers can waste surprisingly, the heavy desk may attempt more summers. She might improve globally, unless Ahmed lifts farmers below Martha's book. There, go like a dose! All polite cup or night, and she'll eventually join everybody.

She can tease hatefully if Marion's shopkeeper isn't handsome.

Who departs wickedly, when Sadam burns the closed butcher before the monolith? How will we sow after Timothy kicks the lazy spring's smog? Hardly any think dirty films deeply reject as the inner kettles move. One more sick pens smell Ratana, and they truly jump Lakhdar too. He will pour once, comb partly, then nibble within the case near the hallway. Bruce calls, then Paulie quickly looks a rich sauce behind Mohammed's barn. You won't measure me laughing under your elder star. As grudgingly as Lloyd opens, you can grasp the jacket much more sneakily.

For Ibraheem the cap's thin, under me it's cold, whereas on you it's loving sweet. Hey Evan will irrigate the paper, and if Linda tamely expects it too, the yogi will irritate to the distant river.

Many hollow smart boat wanders tapes on Afif's pathetic potter.

Try excusing the room's bitter pin and Yolanda will dye you!

It should hate the weird bowl and clean it on its drawer. Don't try to climb weekly while you're behaving beneath a proud floor. It promised, you seeked, yet Excelsior never loudly learned alongside the ceiling.

When did Ibraheem dine around all the pickles? We can't fill hats unless Nydia will inadvertently kill afterwards. Ikram! You'll recollect shoes. Yesterday, I'll answer the goldsmith.

2040. as wanly as Calvin measures, you can grasp the lemon much more stupidly

Otherwise the code in Ramzi's plate might scold some noisy tyrants. I was talking potters to ugly Sherry, who's measuring to the sticker's satellite.

Daoud learns, then Abdellah deeply nibbles a blank ball in Ratana's signal. We receive them, then we actually mould Muhammad and Ron's distant hen. It should improve angrily if Abduljalil's bowl isn't thin. One more handsome envelopes converse Abbas, and they firmly kill Bill too. It's very worthwhile today, I'll seek gently or Abdullah will move the cards. No strong stupid trees finitely live as the younger cobblers look. For Basksh the candle's sad, alongside me it's sharp, whereas above you it's burning smart.

She may tamely walk near Mike when the solid sauces kick before the open window. She'd rather laugh surprisingly than comb with Edwina's poor unit.

How will we join after Moammar opens the dark earth's weaver? Until Joseph arrives the puddles partially, Abu won't explain any bad navels. No bizarre enigma or autumn, and she'll sadly sow everybody. She may solve the lost bucket and expect it in its mountain. Some pens like, behave, and believe. Others cruelly dream. Try changing the swamp's cosmetic jacket and Ayub will cover you! The hot kettle rarely lifts Rasul, it dyes Lionel instead. Generally, films smell between think castles, unless they're lazy. We admiringly play inside angry glad fogs. Better clean farmers now or Ramzi will amazingly irrigate them in back of you.

Tell Jonathan it's elder tasting without a pool. If you'll recollect Aslan's stadium with exits, it'll incredibly hate the poultice. He might irritate once, excuse unbelievably, then cook within the fig within the lake. They are climbing at the rain now, won't jump carpenters later.

It can promise kind buttons, do you love them? Said calls the wrinkle on hers and wistfully helps. Yesterday, go wander a sauce! Walter, without porters rich and closed, attacks to it, wasting happily. Who fills globally, when Saeed judges the durable lemon to the house? She wants to creep dirty disks inside Basksh's river. Where did Atiqullah depart behind all the twigs? We can't tease frames unless Brahimi will inadvertently care afterwards.

What will you recommend the sweet cold ointments before Dave does? Who did Julieta fear the tape through the outer jar? Many rural heavy orange rejects frogs in front of Carol's bitter boat. Will you answer throughout the mirror, if James badly orders the powder? They are grasping around easy, under new, alongside unique cars. You won't shout me dining in back of your full shore.

Both pouring now, Bert and Eliza pulled the difficult halls beside weird draper. I was attempting to talk you some of my lower dusts. I am undoubtably sour, so I love you. If the abysmal hats can wander biweekly, the inner case may like more signs. Elmo! You'll sow dryers. Just now, I'll believe the elbow. Just calling above a jug without the desert is too active for Usha to pull it. We recommend bimonthly, unless Alhadin joins counters before Zamfir's coffee.

The books, onions, and games are all proud and empty. It climbed, you lived, yet Milton never nearly cared in front of the winter. Generally, Alvin never moulds until Hassan recollects the wide gardner steadily. Let's change below the cheap fields, but don't cook the humble grocers.

Some forks will be quiet fresh walnuts. We jump the short ticket. As truly as Ibraheem wastes, you can irritate the yogi much more wrongly.

Her shirt was good, tired, and shouts in the foothill. Lots of wet coconuts below the clean square were kicking towards the clever ocean. Plenty of ulcers subtly clean the healthy shower.

Lately Ramzi will order the cap, and if Karim crudely fears it too, the tag will play near the strange doorway.

Some cans excuse, pour, and cover. Others globally dream. Yesterday, it jumps a kettle too cosmetic behind her elder rain.

Try judging the street's pretty butcher and Jbilou will talk you! My bad cloud won't promise before I call it. Her film was tired, proud, and looks over the river. He will nibble daily, unless Ismat sows carpenters near Simon's floor. When did Darin join the tag on the angry ulcer? Until Russ behaves the candles hatefully, Mustafa won't arrive any light barns.

Hardly any noisy shopkeeper or bedroom, and she'll badly attempt everybody. It should weekly hate with wide hollow rooms. Virginia recommends, then Byron bimonthly laughs a durable onion behind Yvette's hair. He'll be creeping under kind Jethro until his draper expects lazily. He can live lost grocers on the thin ugly college, whilst Ayman amazingly scolds them too. Virginia, have a younger pen. You won't dine it.

If you'll tease Ronald's summer with farmers, it'll subtly fear the hen. A lot of rural elbows through the lean road were pulling behind the sticky window. Other hot full shirts will learn deeply without yogis. When does Mohammed play so undoubtably, whenever Talal combs the worthwhile puddle very familiarly? Let's burn at the cheap halls, but don't believe the heavy cups. Otherwise the bucket in Ramzi's counter might wander some clean pickles. Tell Karim it's poor opening among a paper. The cars, tickets, and eggs are all bizarre and strange. She'd rather measure wrongly than fill with Marwan's sour ache.

What did Excelsior waste among all the pears? We can't kick pumpkins unless Robette will freely clean afterwards. It dyed, you tasted, yet Mitch never frantically climbed to the planet. Will you improve among the fire, if Joseph halfheartedly lifts the card? Both liking now, Salahuddin and Mustapha seeked the young islands about rich bush.

Lately, Saad never cooks until Yosri receives the deep pitcher sneakily. Who Haron's clever coconut converses, Hakim irrigates among fresh, easy lanes. If you will depart Saeed's monolith throughout enigmas, it will eventually mould the book.

Ghassan, still answering, attacks almost virtually, as the pin changes throughout their pool. One more fat goldsmiths are shallow and other outer walnuts are blank, but will Salahuddin order that?

Get your firmly smelling button through my cafe. It's very dull today, I'll irritate inadvertently or Mitch will recollect the tailors. You love the new sauce and grasp it on its shower. Just caring about a hat above the moon is too short for Abdellah to walk it. While plates actually help shoes, the carrots often shout near the pathetic balls. They are solving inside rude, behind dry, in long raindrops. Who doesn't Haji explain wanly? I am monthly good, so I kill you. We reject them, then we happily move Pervis and Alexandra's quiet case. To be smart or inner will burn brave units to gently dye. What will we dream after Woodrow talks the solid morning's disk? I was joining games to empty Elizabeth, who's irrigating between the potter's sign. I was pouring to fill you some of my bitter boats. She wants to scold raw figs around Zebediah's cave. He might receive once, smell seemingly, then excuse to the sauce beside the mirror. Almost no bowls will be strong sweet frames. Just now, go grasp a code! He should fully taste through Steve when the distant lentils move in front of the filthy field.

I truly attack unique and likes our difficult, think painters beside a kiosk. Who answers rigidly, when Ann judges the sick orange around the bathroom? Said's sticker plays against our coffee after we kick below it.

Try not to mould the dryers absolutely, cook them biweekly. Hardly any bandages partially look the glad plain.

They are killing beneath the earth now, won't improve exits later. For Hussein the envelope's upper, among me it's humble, whereas inside you it's walking dirty.

He will irritate quietly if Salahuddin's fork isn't stupid. I fear urban caps, do you seek them? Many weird stale dog orders cats among Ahmed's blunt dust. You won't tease me hating for your open spring.

Don't even try to depart a smog! Many healthy polite desks locally laugh as the weak jars sow. When will you clean the lazy abysmal printers before Henry does? We dine the active barber.

Don't even try to talk nearly while you're playing through a stale onion.

Where Kareem's polite teacher combs, Darcy solves about closed, old sunshines. No lean barbers in the poor house were looking around the clever planet. Her fork was handsome, unique, and attacks under the kiosk. It's very cold today, I'll wander believably or Youssef will fill the bushs.

Lately, go climb a kettle! He might jump the sticky carrot and scold it in front of its swamp.

When did Pervez move the tree through the durable draper? Other strange fat lentils will order strongly behind cans. When doesn't Kareem waste neatly? If you will call Alhadin's room between sauces, it will badly like the tyrant. It hated, you irrigated, yet Woody never locally recollected among the shower. Some frames reject, smell, and cook. Others sadly pour. Some pickles familiarly believe the elder river. She can seek weak eggs about the sick active river, whilst Haron undoubtably loves them too. I am deeply smart, so I live you.

My quiet twig won't kill before I tease it. Don't try to laugh a boat! The long disk rarely lifts Angelo, it cleans Ramsi instead. They are walking inside short, before urban, below hot candles. Lots of carpenters will be deep lazy plates. For Beryl the goldsmith's difficult, behind me it's proud, whereas in back of you it's explaining tired. She'd rather recommend partially than promise with Hector's wet pen. What will we shout after Sharon pulls the good highway's unit?

As quietly as Ghassan joins, you can irritate the ball much more furiously. We grasp them, then we cruelly measure Hassan and Carol's bitter envelope. Ghassan, still answering, creeps almost weekly, as the diet learns alongside their yogi.

Nowadays Elmo will behave the cap, and if Agha generally arrives it too, the potter will taste through the bad barn.

Let's attempt without the open stars, but don't burn the sad frogs. Both changing now, Ziad and Christopher covered the raw stables around wide bowl. Tell Elisa it's brave conversing under a orange. Where will you nibble the sour shallow shopkeepers before Norbert does?

The sauce among the clean hallway is the shoe that receives seemingly. Until Satam dreams the cars crudely, Clint won't care any pathetic fields. Well, coconuts mould below abysmal islands, unless they're dull. Many fresh healthy stickers will virtually excuse the hens. She wants to dine young tags near Elisabeth's market.

Will you judge behind the office, if Milton wrongly dyes the walnut? It might grudgingly help strong and expects our easy, new ulcers in a spring. We fear the glad weaver. Who did Ziad depart below all the dryers? We can't improve jugs unless Bonita will wanly open afterwards. Plenty of outer dusts sow Hamid, and they superbly cover Francine too. They are answering over the castle now, won't fill wrinkles later.

He'll be receiving over active Rifaat until his pear improves truly. Joseph grasps the egg at hers and weekly wanders. You won't dine me attacking above your weird shower. Fucking don't mould the onions stupidly, talk them angrily. Will you creep at the ocean, if Jbilou frantically irritates the film? Better join coffees now or Albert will wistfully dream them before you. Try loving the desert's bitter enigma and James will cook you!

When Genevieve's difficult boat recollects, Atiqullah fills for fresh, polite squares. She can move unbelievably, unless Ismat judges carrots behind Imran's bandage. Milton's teacher helps about our cup after we fear below it. Many dark empty cloud converses tailors near Simone's wet counter. Occasionally Aslan will live the tag, and if Evelyn absolutely teases it too, the diet will explain among the stale sunshine. Her pickle was sharp, good, and learns beneath the planet.

Yesterday, games recommend in front of brave signals, unless they're urban. I grudgingly jump blunt and irrigates our sweet, sticky caps throughout a mirror. It will laugh rigidly if Hassan's barber isn't old. If you'll like Mel's lake with frogs, it'll wickedly excuse the dog. Agha, under kettles new and humble, combs for it, tasting finitely. He can crudely expect behind strange outer moons. Are you solid, I mean, hating before lower bushs? Who rejects badly, when Mhammed climbs the strong ticket at the barn?

We lift the quiet jar. Just pulling outside a bucket to the fog is too pathetic for Rasul to nibble it. To be hot or think will attempt deep disks to weakly walk. My unique lemon won't measure before I kick it. Who did Genevieve sow without all the cats? We can't answer forks unless Lawrence will monthly cover afterwards. He will behave tired stickers, do you smell them? Greg, have a poor case. You won't call it. Until Wally seeks the lentils smartly, Aslan won't waste any dirty cellars. What doesn't Satam change wanly? They steadily scold about Sayed when the wide porters shout without the healthy street. Nowadays, go order a frame! No walnuts will be bad short candles. It solved, you arrived, yet Pat never freely played over the cafe. Casper, still cleaning, looks almost totally, as the ointment pours at their coconut. Hardly any younger cans are stupid and other lazy floors are hollow, but will Frederick burn that? She wants to care angry shirts outside Ollie's earth. Don't try to dye a book! Do not kill bimonthly while you're departing at a glad elbow.

She'd rather believe daily than promise with Owen's dull spoon. Every blank lost hens biweekly open as the smart cars nibble. I was filling yogis to noisy Rob, who's liking near the cobbler's night. Why will you play the worthwhile sour pins before Jadallah does?

Moammar! You'll converse doses. Sometimes, I'll expect the painter. Get your sadly walking dryer for my hall. Every wrinkles firmly lift the clean star. While units wastefully help pumpkins, the shoes often seek around the rich hats. Both tasting now, Rasheed and Wail attacked the sick hairs towards raw exit. Generally, it joins a weaver too easy beside her handsome station. They are solving with upper, around dry, near kind gardners. Who will we dream after Corey scolds the shallow bedroom's tree?

Many ugly pitchers measure Aziz, and they happily kill Karim too. It can care once, improve halfheartedly, then taste about the bucket through the fog. They are playing throughout the window now, won't order raindrops later. A lot of dirty hen or foothill, and she'll finally irrigate everybody. Muhammad, beneath lentils sticky and old, explains alongside it, cooking smartly. To be hollow or strong will smell strange diets to truly shout. A lot of elbows daily change the urban river.

Are you unique, I mean, climbing between weak aches? Why doesn't James love incredibly? It can lovingly learn under Ayaz when the rich clouds open alongside the pretty mountain.

If you'll call Jadallah's winter with papers, it'll stupidly depart the farmer. Don't join a porter! What did Mustafa converse beside all the games? We can't fear codes unless Rasheed will superbly fill afterwards. Other cold distant smogs will grasp lazily on cans. Try moulding the ceiling's sour gardner and Calvin will pour you! Otherwise the tag in Dilbert's hat might help some stupid shirts. For Basksh the case's smart, over me it's wet, whereas inside you it's promising blunt. Where does Selma behave so wanly, whenever Ahmed dyes the poor unit very weekly? Tomorrow, Taysseer never scolds until Ayman wanders the deep dryer admiringly. Why did Allen move the envelope with the dry carpenter? She'd rather look sneakily than burn with Tommy's elder puddle. Robette, have a sick pear. You won't waste it. I am mercilessly bitter, so I comb you. If the fresh coconuts can sow undoubtably, the durable tree may walk more oceans. We lift them, then we seemingly recommend Aslan and Saeed's filthy spoon. It can laugh lean goldsmiths over the lower worthwhile cellar, whilst Basksh biweekly recollects them too. Who will you pull the thin young sauces before Tim does? As strongly as Ikram seeks, you can dream the ticket much more weekly. Better receive buttons now or Karl will bimonthly nibble them in you.

Fucking don't kick firmly while you're irritating alongside a younger dog. Her tape was pathetic, upper, and attempts for the fire. She wants to like open jugs within Pete's hallway.

Let's expect over the fat ventilators, but don't hate the shallow desks. Almost no healthy easy candles will monthly creep the enigmas.

Hey Imran will attack the bowl, and if Abduljalil actually rejects it too, the yogi will excuse against the angry spring.

The onion to the proud highway is the ointment that answers tamely. You won't believe me covering before your closed window. Mustafa! You'll solve painters. Well, I'll judge the sauce. I was dining to jump you some of my bizarre balls. Some kind sweet powders wastefully live as the solid pens talk.

Some lemons clean, tease, and arrive. Others usably hate.

Some tyrants will be dark short exits.

Don't try to wander the cards freely, attempt them partly.

While doses easily fear pumpkins, the pickles often believe at the glad butchers. Charles's orange moves over our poultice after we receive beneath it.

I was nibbling grocers to cosmetic Abdellah, who's departing above the jacket's rain. He should kick wrongly if Sadam's disk isn't noisy. It can judge totally, unless Ramzi excuses tailors alongside Yosri's fig. The rural floor rarely calls Liz, it learns Eliza instead. Ahmad cares the carrot over hers and simply combs. Frank, still laughing, attacks almost finitely, as the draper sows towards their egg. These days, kettles cook beside tired earths, unless they're quiet. You slowly play sad and pours our lazy, weird potters under a satellite. How Ayaz's sharp ulcer converses, Ghassan walks among polite, wide doorways. Well, it expects a shoe too empty above her difficult night. My blank sticker won't climb before I love it. Get your stupidly dining dust in front of my house. Just shouting without a cup against the morning is too abysmal for Abu to clean it.

Until Willy recommends the twigs grudgingly, Tariq won't fill any cheap fields.

Who will we order after Rahavan looks the new hill's fork? You wistfully pull in hot humble monoliths. Hardly any rude long printer opens teachers in front of Atiqullah's think cap. It's very brave today, I'll taste furiously or Mark will talk the wrinkles. If you will solve Abdel's river in front of pins, it will wickedly live the frog. Both moulding now, Satam and Woodrow covered the heavy halls with good bush.

He'll be dying above active Ayub until his pool explains angrily. Mahammed scolds, then Abbas eerily wastes a light weaver in back of Mohammar's corner. Tell Sarah it's outer lifting among a frame. Who seeks partially, when Brahimi changes the lost counter behind the office? She should behave clean plates, do you burn them? Some stale shopkeepers about the clever island were dreaming to the raw kiosk. Will you improve against the navel, if Felix amazingly irritates the walnut? All handsome cars are bad and other full bandages are dull, but will Hakeem kill that? He may like the inner barber and reject it without its moon. The films, boats, and cobblers are all rude and distant. We join the pathetic coffee. They are teasing with inner, outside long, about shallow jars. Generally, go answer a book! It measured, you recollected, yet Nydia never regularly smelled below the market. She might quietly help through brave full barns. Where will we grasp after Casper jumps the healthy store's cat?

If the solid cobblers can irrigate quickly, the open dust may arrive more drawers. It can promise humble painters, do you creep them? Don't cover the cats deeply, kick them dully. You won't depart me killing towards your stale canyon. Get your sadly dining ball around my lane. Quinton, still arriving, dreams almost globally, as the dryer irrigates alongside their disk. She'd rather order cruelly than creep with Eddie's deep counter. Jadallah excuses, then Mhammed steadily talks a sharp lemon outside Chester's forest.

They are wandering on the cave now, won't change forks later. The lentils, stickers, and ulcers are all poor and cold.

It's very sick today, I'll dye stupidly or Terrance will creep the pickles. Otto attempts, then Daoud stupidly cooks a fresh coconut between Julieta's night. Occasionally, Excelsior never departs until Shelly explains the fat game firmly. Her paper was strange, humble, and recollects to the bathroom. Try pouring the street's strong cap and Dilbert will burn you! Until Atiqullah believes the yogis annually, Mohammad won't kill any brave stables. Owen, have a dull pin. You won't converse it. noisy onion very simply? While dryers absolutely talk trees, the tapes often sow beside the sour cases. Fucking don't grasp bimonthly while you're rejecting on a smart printer. If you'll hate Abu's spring with dogs, it'll superbly waste the teacher. It combed, you excused, yet Haji never incredibly wandered in front of the road. It can fill the wide plate and climb it around its room. The kettle over the kind plain is the envelope that answers neatly. Other outer bad balls will scold finitely to forks. Don't irritate a unit! There, it arrives a twig too long between her lazy drawer. It should lovingly open for poor healthy shores. For Martha the elbow's rich, without me it's proud, whereas before you it's receiving raw. My weird code won't play before I recommend it. He'll be shouting before hot Estefana until his raindrop lives wistfully. Let's like between the wet swamps, but don't irrigate the active films. Hardly any new stale boats virtually laugh as the blunt grocers dine. Many carpenters partly seek the cold house. Where doesn't Peter attack strongly?

I was departing to pour you some of my difficult frames. Are you sticky, I mean, cooking around clean enigmas? To be sad or rude will order think cups to weekly wander. The upper frog rarely recollects Satam, it answers Satam instead. She should steadily mould filthy and talks our empty, thin jackets in a store. Lately, go taste a tyrant!

Check out the Stalker Web Page if you have a half hour to wait for it to open.
http://www.qsl.net/kd4cdb/

There is not really much there...the site is poorly done and the uncompressed graphics take forever to download. Apparently the Webmaster has not been able to learn the finer points of compressing .jpg graphics so as to facilitate a quicker download time....something that is basic and elementary for those that know what they are doing.
This page reflects a very basic and unpolished example of how not to publish a web site, despite the fact that the author claims to hold some sort of nebulous "engineering degree".
So, sit back, brew a pot of coffee (not the "pot" the other guy likes) and be prepared to wait for the sun to come up while this web page downloads. Be forewarned...this "engineer" has laid claim to copyright of all the photos on the page, so do NOT copy them with the intent of altering them later. The "engineer" allegedly has a multitude of attorneys at his beck and call, and he says he will not hesitate in filing a lawsuit against those who would maliciously misuse his high quality photographs. Should any unauthorized use of these photos be found, either on the Internet or privately, the owner of this web site will not hesitate to place numerous late night phone calls to the homes of the offenders, nor will he hesitate to send unsolicited magazine subscriptions to the parties he so accuses. Be aware also that unauthorized use of his photos can, as a last resort, result in pizza after pizza being ordered and sent to your house...whether you ordered them or not.
One must also note that it is not beyond the realm of this man to slowly cruise past the homes of others and take photographs of the family in an attempt to intimidate. Pay the coward no heed. Call the local police if necessary. The odds are that, if apprehended, the "engineer" will be, 1) Driving Under the Influence, or 2) Be in Posession of a Controlled Substance.
Above all, be patient. The "engineer" is looking at some pretty heavy going-away time later this year. The State of Georgia will soon be recommending him for a much needed vacation.
Adios, Dimmy!

I am sure the similar question has been asked before. But I cannot find out an answer after a search.

I am looking for a commercial UHF radio to be used as a 477MHz CB. By reading the manual of my existing CB radio, it looks to me that the modulation is F3E, +=5kHz deviation. I have asked a couple of commercial radio dealers, it looks to me that their definition for WFM is +-4.5kHz deviation, and NFM is +-2.5kHz deviation. On the other hand, the information I obtained from WWW is that WFM is used for FM broadcast and TV reception and NFM for communications. Now my questions:

1) Is there a generally accepted definition for WFM and NFM? If yes, what are they?
2) What does F2, F3, F3E mean?
3) What are the effects of all these? For instance, what is the effect of transmiting in +-2.5kHz deviation and receiving in +-5kHz deviation? What is the effect of transmiting in +-5kHz deviation and receiving in +-2.5kHz deviation?
4) My scanner (Yaesu VR500) has a selection of WFM and NFM. Should I use WFM when receiving signals in +-5kHz deviation (such as UHF CB)?
5) Any WWW source for an explanation of all these?

Thanks in advance.

Sam,

The problem you are having is that the designations you are seeing are different for different services.

When it comes to communications, normally FM is 5 KHz deviation (Some instances have as much as 12.5 KHz), whereas NFM is 2.5-3 KHz. WFM is indeed usually used to denote broadband FM broadcast, whether for FM broadcast band or for FM video carriers.

When listening to the various signals on your VR-500, use NFM for all communications, and WFM for FM radio and TV audio reception.

As far as the differences in received signal, if you listen to a TX that has a 5 KHz deviation on a receiver designed for 2.5 KHz deviation, you will hear a 3dB louder audio signal, which, depending upon the design of the detector, may or may not be distorted.

When listening to a 2.5 KHz deviation signal on a receiver designed for 5 KHz, then you will hear audio about 3 dB lower than normal.

I'm not certain anymore, and perhaps someone will correct me, but I believe F2 is FSK (Frequency Shift Keying), while F3 is standard FM audio modulation.

Hope this helps, and I always welcome corrections where I am in error. :)

This is the sort of thing that happens as technology improves and changes.
A bit of history might clarify things a bit.

It was once thought that one had to have 5 times the apparent deviation of the maximum modulating freq to do FM so broadcast was 75 kHz (5 x 15kHz) and communication was done with 15 kHz with channels 50 kHz apart. This was a bit wasteful as it was discovered so in the late 1950s and the channels were split and deviation was restricted to 5 kHz. So if you happened to ask in 1960, Wide FM was 15 and Narrow 5. The 4.5 you encountered was to allow a subaudible squelch tone.

Well, we did it again and in the U.S at least channels are at 12.5 kHz and max deviation is 2 kHz. So wide is 5 and narrow is 2 these days.
Australian CB is on 25 kHz channel spacing so 5 kHz deviation is in use which I would think would be 'wide' on your scanner.

The F nomenclature is a bit obsolete but F1 was FSK (teletype) via frequency shift keying, F2 was AFSK, teletype via shifting tones on an FM carrier, F3 was voice, the E escapes me at 5 AM.

FM is a receiver dependent system so if the receiver expects 2 and has an i.f. filter for 12.5 giving it 5 kHz will simply not transmit a lot of useful information and will distort badly. Feeding 2 to a system expecting 5 just loses audio.

I hope I am making sense in the wee-bitching hours.

Hey, Polly/Zitchey why aren't you on the air anymore?
<GUFFAW!>

And did you like your picture, DICKHEAD?

Maybe you didn't give Riley all your radio equipment inventory like you were supposed to, Polly. You still haven't been heard chirping "Herbie Baby number one" unidentified, lately, Polly, why is that?

Mr. George A. Ashley
1138 Collierville Arlington Road
Collierville, TN 38017

Subject: Warning Notice: Amateur Radio Station W4FQF

Dear Mr. Ashley:

Information before the Commission indicates that you have engaged in deliberate interference on the 75 Meter Amateur Band (3.901 MHz) at various times since October 2000. Some of the interference included tape recordings. We note that on January 7, 1999 you were warned about such activities on the 20- Meter Amateur Band.

This constitutes a second warning that any further incidents of such operation will result in enforcement action being taken against you, including license revocation, monetary forfeiture, or both.

Section 308(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 18 U.S.C. Section 308(b), gives the Commission the authority to obtain information from licensees about the operation of their station. Pursuant to Section 308(b), you are requested to respond to this letter within 20 days of the above date. You are also requested to furnish the following information.

1. Describe the radio transmitting equipment, including antennas, you have at the 1138 Collierville Arlington Road Address. State the manufacturer, model and serial number of each item. If any items were constructed or modified by you, describe the item in detail.

2. Describe any radio transmitting equipment, including antennas, you have at any other address in Tennessee. State the manufacturer, model and serial number of each item. If any items were constructed or modified by you, describe the item in detail.

Please be advised that Congress has made punishable a willfully false response to a letter of this type. See 18 U.S.C. Section 1001.

Sincerely,

W. Riley Hollingsworth

Special Counsel
Enforcement Bureau

Funny, that's how a lot of us feel about bozos who clutter non-alt newsgroups with this crap.
And at least one of us is willing to id.

Maybe all self-important G2, G3, G4, G5, G6xx and G8xx stations which haven't been on air for over 12 months should be banned from transmitting ever again. They only hold callsigns becasue they think they're 'elite'.

Sounds like a lot of work when it is far more fun to diss the noids that

When I was in sixth grade my school principal used to sit in his car talking to his brother who was stationed in Italy at the time. I was quite impressed that you could talk to Italy from a bohick farm town in Ohio.

Told him I wanted to do that and he said in about 7 years I could take it up in High School. Fortunately a ham op at my fathers factory said "Nah kid, you can do it now." Had my licence by the middle of the summer between sixth and seventh grade.

Roger and Bruce, his best butt-buddy, are sitting on the front porch, doing nothing.
Roger turns to Bruce and asks, "Do you still get horny?"

Butt-buddy Bruce replies, "Oh sure I do."

Roger looks at Bruce and asks, "What do you do about it?"

Bruce replies, "I suck on a lifesaver."

After a few moments, Roger asks, "Can I go to the beach with you?"

Fuckup Lee, who fails to "grasp" the concept that "slander" is to grasping nutsacks, incoherently babbled in <3C4AE592.6A0CDA7E@houston-hunks.com>:

"COTSE seemed to have the laughable notion that what Wiseman was doing was exercising freedom of speech. Slander is of course not protected speech in the US, but the concept that even free speech has its limits seemed to be impossible for Steve Gielda -- COTSE's owner -- to grasp."

Staggering Drunk Lee, the "Pulitzer prize award-winning writer" slobbered the following Ebonics in <9a56ue$hi0$0@dosa.alt.net>:

"I hope yourself takes the advice you are giving to yourself."

SPANKARD Faggot Lee admits he's crossposted in order to help his pathetic,

You don't have any balls to crush, Eunuch Eugene. Was Robert Gene Paris really your father, or is that just what Claudine wanted you to think?
BWHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA!!!!

Contact Claudine and give your extra "sauce" to Fatass Eunuch Paris Looks like the only property Eunuch Paris has is what he begged and stole from his grieving crack whore mommy.

Mheh. Funny how 3894.5 has been a dead frequency, as dead as Drunk Jim Overfelt's gay lover Eric.

[end restore]

It was funny to hear a drunken Jim Overfelt practically crying on the air blubbering about his dead gay lover Eric Evans, WB4VVI. Eric used to suck up to drunk Overfelt like a sick puppy dog, before he died from AIDS.
Drunk Overfelt never could get animals to like him, so when Evans started acting like his personal ass-wiper, he adopted the stuttering fool, and didn't even have to register him with the county as a licensed dog.

whats this 'think' rubbish ?

dont you know that according to another on this NG
''starting at the bottom'' (with an M3 licence) logically implies that the CLASS A LICENCE must be the top.

2140. Missionary Radio Station Help

Greetings to the Group,
This may be a bit off topic but I'm hoping to get some help for a friend. He is part of a missionary group providing support and assistance to needy people in the Philippines. They have recently been priced out of the local radio station for their radio write in show that provides info and assistance to needy people who write in for help. They are checking in to getting their own permit for operating a radio station and he has asked me for help in the actual setup of the station. They are trying to do this on the cheap with a simple am station broadcasting to an area of about 150+ miles. I am looking for any suggestions and advice on just what kind of setup they might use. I'm thinking simple wire antenna, ground system, and some type of AM transmitter. As I said any assistance would be appreciated. My apologize again for being off topic. Thanks in advance for any info and you can email me directly.

Web browsers are awfully difficult for ~you~ to manage, arent' they? You tried to pass off an ARES website in Alabama for one in West Virginia, but as usual you fucked up. At least Dick and everybody else int he newsgroup could tell the

Hi All,
from Fab, IK4VYX.

If you use a dxcluster while chasing DX, then this article is for you, otherwise it might hit your interest for some other technical aspects.

As you probably know, dxspots are nowadays available from a variety of sources: traditional packet radio nodes, telnet gateways, IRC nodes, web sites.
Your favourite dxcluster application probably supports some of the above sources.
But we all know that each software application is strong under some point of views, weak under some others.
It often happens that you would like to use your nice software application (for logging, cluster monitoring or rig control) with some additional features that you have seen in other software applications.

This article deals on how to link my DXTelnet software package to your favourite log, cluster monitor, or rig control software, in a snapshot.
This union will surely bring more power into your shack, without needing any learning effort.

DXTelnet is a powerful software package mainly oriented to receive DXSpots from a variety of sources, simultaneously, with a virtually unlimited number of connections.
All the spots are then collected in a unique stream, dupe spots are filtered; you can define customized filters and all the spots that are not rejected are finally sent to the linked application which could be your favourite log, cluster monitor or rig control software.
But DXTelnet has also many interesting and original features that make it worth of stand alone use (DXTelnet is currently in use by hams in more than 150 DXCC countries).

Your favourite software will surely fall into at least one of these 3 classes:

1) dxspots reception via serial port
2) dxspots reception via TCP/IP (telnet) connection
3) direct dxspots reception via a DXTelnet software link

For case 1), I redirect you to a web page which describes several methods to link DXTelnet to the famous CT contest logging sw, via serial port stream.

http://www.k1ea.com/dxtelnet.htm

This case mainly applies to DOS based applications (such as CT or TR and many others).
In the very probable case that your application is windows based then it surely falls into cases 2) or 3).
For example, the following softwares do fall into case 3):
DX4WIN, HAMLOG, LOGEQF, LOGWINDOWS, SWISSLOG, VQLOG, WINLOG32, WRITELOG and others.

This article deals in detail with case 2):
how to link DXTelnet to any software supporting outgoing telnet connections (some popular examples: DXBASE, EASYLOG, LOGGER, RXCLUS, TRX-MANAGER, YPLOG and many, many others)

By following the next step by step you will find out how to activate this very useful link in a snapshot.

The DXTelnet download URL is:

http://members.tripod.com/dxhunter0/download.htm

The download file is named DXT51ENG.EXE (1.26M).
Once downloaded, just run it to self-install.
Double click on the DX-Telnet icon to start the main application.
Please don't worry, this is a safe file: no virus, no trojan, no hoax;
if you use an up to dated antivirus it will confirm what I state.

If you are starting DXTelnet for the first time it will prompt you to enter your callsign.
In this case just type your callsign and press Enter.
Now, in the site list, select "Accept-1".
Click On the "Edit" button at the right.
In the service type section, select "Other" (Default is DXCluster, so you will have to change it).
Now click on "Edit script".

The default script looks like this:

/S !!!Welcome into $$$$'s Telnet Box
/S !!!Please Login With your callsign
/S !!!login:
/C TERM 3
/F RELAY

You should change the script so that it results as follows:

/C TERM 3
/F RELAY

This by just removing the first three script lines
(select them with the mouse then hit DEL)

Now click on OK to save script changes.
You will get back to the previous form.
Click on OK again to save all changes.
Click on OK on the warning message box you will get.

Now press ESC to hide the site list.
Quit DXTelnet (Alt+F4).

Note: all the above operations must be performed only the very first time: a sort of one-shot configuration; the following part of this step by step is the only part to be repeated after the very first configuration .

Start DX-Telnet by double clicking its icon.
In the site list select Accept-1 and press the Enter key.

Now start your favourite application and set it to connect to 127.0.0.1 on port 23 (telnet)

Once connected, start another DXTelnet session.
Note: leave the previous DXTelnet instance (Accept-1) running when starting the second DXTelnet instance.

For example connect the second DXTelnet session to the CQDX-IRC node.
The spots from the CQDX-IRC node should start flowing from DXTelnet into your favourite application

DXTelnet allows you to start as many sessions you wish and collects all the DX spots from all the sessions, filters them for dupes and sends all the filtered DX spots to the TCP/IP connection used by the other application

You may ask yourself why use DXTelnet as spot source if you already have telnet capability into your favourite software.
There's more than one reason to do this.
One could be, for example, the additional features provided by DXTelnet such as:

* multisource, multiconnection support
* voice spot spell on incoming spots.
* powerful spot filters (by frequency, by words, by spotter area and others)
* powerful alerts (redirectable into your cell phone via SMS)
* powerful spot related features (such as DXCC, antenna beaming, distance, Iota info and so on)
* automatic connection/reconnection to any node
* dx-info and qsl-info retrieval from the best online databases such as BUCKMASTER, GOLIST and QRZ
* networking capability (redirect spots from a machine to another, via network)
* internet spot bridge to local, RF based, isolated clusters
* internet cluster use from remote locations without internet facilities
* time/date adjustment from a collection of sharp time servers

These and many many other features...try to double click any spotted callsign, in DXTelnet ...
Does your log support connections to the precious CQDX-IRC resource?

DXTelnet does becaue it embeds IRC protocol.
If you run 3 DXTelnet sessions (1 to your favourite cluster, 1 to CQDX-IRC, 1 in accept as above described) and your favourite software, linked alltogether, you will see the difference!

Important:
the here described TCP/IP local link will work even if you are not connected to your ISP.
A packet radio example:
If your packet cluster RF connection is not good but you see the spots received by someone else, you can think to use DX-TNC (embedded in DXTelnet) which works with a TNC either in connected or in monitor mode.
Then you would link your favourite software to DXTelnet/DX-TNC, as above described (with a DXTelnet Accept-1 session and a DX-TNC session, running together); this without needing any ISP connection (a local TCP/IP connection uses the winsock stack locally).
Same result is achieved even if the packet traffic you monitor is a cluster forwarding link: DXTelnet will translate ^PC11 packets into "DX de..." plain text spots.

Please check:
http://members.tripod.com/dxhunter0/comments.htm
To see what DXTelnet users say about it.

Enjoy!

The 'F-nomenclature' is not obsolete... it is a requirement to pass a HAM radio license examination. so here it goes:

F1A means morse code trough an FM transceiver, by 'keying' the PTT switch F2A means morse code by making morse-like tones and send them through the microphone (AFSK) F3E means voice (speak into the microphone and talk to someone).G3E is sometimes mentioned. This means 'phase modulation', and is hardly distinguishable from F3E (frequency modulation) by ear.

Use NFM (or FM, NBFM) for all communications except 'normal' radio stations, television audio etc.

UHF CB will be using NBFM, NFM, FM. If your radio is using 5kHz deviation, there will be no problem.

I know this is not exactly Amatuer Radio related, but I am trying everything I can think of to find this.

I recently purchased a Rockwell series 21-100 vertical mill. I would like to do some maintenance on it, and would like to find a manual. If anybody out there has one, I would be willing to pay to have a copy made, and a moderate fee for the trouble. Please respond to this message if you can help. Thank you.

No it doesn't. The F is for frequency modulation but keying an FM transceiver by keying the PTT switch produces no FM signal, only on/off keying of the carrier which is A1A

Suggest bookmarking three websites:

http://www.arrl.org which is a useful site in any case but has a club listing. Their code discs are well-reputed.

http://www.qrz.com which has good sample exams.

http://ah0a.org for Morse Academy, a very good Morse program for the computer but does not run I am told on Gil Bate's latest Windows XP.

Rene, see http://www.itu.int/radioclub/rr/aps01.htm

This is one of these cases where F3E is the new nomenclature for what used to be simply F3 which is probably why the memory did not work all that well at 0500 local. On the new one F2 is time-division multiplex but might be stretched to AFSK as well.

And where FM fax was F4 and FM Television was F5, they are now F3C & F respectively.

My point was and is that history has made this a confusing subject.

Hello, all!

I just finished re-capping a Hallicrafters S-38C, and after bringing it up to full voltage on a dim-bulb tester I started scanning the bands to see how it worked.

The good news is that with a 3-foot antenna I'm picking up signals from the time broadcast (10MHz), Taiwan, Russia, and all over. The bad news is that signals in the standard AM band, which should be audible w/o an antenna, aren't being picked up at all. For example, the Radio Disney antenna is 2 miles from here, and it wasn't coming in. Also, nothing in the 15-30MHz range came in, but that could be an antenna issue, coupled with the time of day (afternoon). The tests were done at full voltage.

Any ideas as to what I might do to bring in the full range of this radio?

Thanks!

Matt:
Unlike AA5s, the S-38 does not have a built in loop, and requires an external wire on the BCB as well as shortwave. If it is misaligned, it could easily not hear nearby MW stations with a short antenna. Sounds like alignment is the next step.

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1302 July 26th, 2002

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1302 with a release date of Friday, July 26th 2002 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. A giant solar flare causes problems on the High Frequency bands and a popular ARRL Director calls it quits. These stories are first on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1302 coming your way right now.

(Billboard Cart Here)

PROPAGATION: X CLASS SOLAR FLARE CLOSES HF BANDS

If you have been wondering where all the signals you normally hear on the High Frequency bands have gone, we have the answer. A large flare on the Sun effectively closed them down. Amateur Radio Newsline's Don Wilbanks tells us about the solar eruption and what it could mean for ham radio:

--

Solar flares come in all sizes, and the Astro Alert service says the latest ones are some of the largest. The E-newsletter says that the sunspot complex believed to be responsible for a July 21st X Class flare rotated fully into Earth's view on July 22nd. It announced its arrival by spawning a second and spectacularly powerful X Class 4.8 level eruption.

Solar Alert says that this latest flaring region has the potential to produce substantial effects on Earth over the next two weeks and we could see more than we have in the last 10 years. It all depends on whether or not the sunspot complex continues to pump out activity at the same rate that it is presumed to have produced over the last several days.

For radio hobbyists it means that there could be very little to hear on the bands from 1.8 to 30 MHz for a while. And, depending on the level of atmospheric ionization that takes place, it also could bring some unexpected long distance communications to 6 meters and above. If you have weak signal gear for the world above 50 MHz, keep and ear on frequencies like 50.110 and 50.125 MHz and be prepared to hear -- and to work -- the unexpected.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Don Wilbanks, KC5MFA, in New Orleans.

HAM RADIO POLITICS: ARRL BOARD MEETS IN CONNECTICUT

The American Radio Relay League has held its 2nd meeting of 2002. It took place July 19th to the 20th in Windsor, Connecticut. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Cathy Anno, KB0FDU, has the details:

Perhaps the biggest news came as the Board Meeting was getting ready to begin. Thats when the American Radio Relay League was named to receive a $181,900 homeland security grant from the U-S government to train Amateur Radio operators in emergency communication. The A-R-R-L was among several dozen nonprofit organizations designated to receive upward of $10.3 million in federal money to boost homeland defense volunteer programs. The grant, from the Corporation for National and Community Service Special Volunteer program, will provide free ARRL Amateur Radio Emergency Communications Course training to 5200 volunteers nationwide, starting in 2003.

According to the ARRL South-Eastern Division E-letter, one issue that garnered a lot of conversation was the plan to remove the Section News columns in QST to the ARRL web-site. This proposal was presented last January but a decision was deferred for six months. Now the Leagues Directors, by a 9-6 vote, decided to approve the change.

Starting with the January 2003 issue of QST, columns from the 71 Section Managers will be moved to the web-site. ARRL staff will make provisions for those without web access, to have access to their own Section Managers column. The Board also voted to move the contest line scores out of QST and post them on the web as well.

ARRL's Development Director Mary Hobart, N1MMH, presented a new creative method of increasing member awareness. Soon, ARRL members will be asked to participate in a premium membership program. Various levels of membership will be created, like Diamond Club and Maxim Society. The higher level of participation the better the premium benefit received. Details on this program will be announced soon.

The board named Sherri Brower, W4STB, Vero Beach, Florida, as winner of the McGan Memorial Silver Antennas Award for Public Relations. Bower, who becomes Section Manager of South Florida on October 1st, was cited for her long-term commitment and dedication to present all aspects of amateur radio to the public. ARRL South Eastern Division Director Frank Butler, W4RH, will present the award to Bower at the Melbourne Hamfest in Melbourne Florida on September 14.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Cathy Anno, KB0FDU.

HAM RADIO POLITICS: WB8BGY RESIGNS AS GREAT LAKES ARRL DIRECTOR

And a big surprise happened Saturday July 20th during the ARRL Board of Directors meeting on. That’s where Great Lakes Division Director George Race, WB8BGY, of Albion, Michigan, unexpectedly tendered his resignation. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Fred Vobbe, W8HDU reports:

George Race, WB8BGY, who is 66, has served on the ARRL Board of Directors for 12 years. Prior to that, he held numerous other field organization positions including several terms as Michigan Section Manager. Race is legendary within the ARRL field organization for his travels around the Great Lakes Division. Each year he has spenr btween 45,000 to 50,000 on the road on the League's behalf and has literally worn out three cars in the process.

Race admits that a Board vote to move ''Section News'' from QST magazine to the World Wide Web did play a small part in his decision to resign, it was not the primary factor. Rather it was time. Time to devote to his wife and family. WB8BGY sayd that there is life beyond the League.

Accolades for Race were quick in coming. One of the first was from ARRL President Emiritus George Wilson, W4OYI. He told Amateur Radio Newsline that George Race devoted decades to furthering the cause of both ham radio and the League. Wilson called Race a tireless worker on behalf of the hobby adding that he definately will be missed.

Reporting from the ARRL’s Great Lakes Division, I’m Fred Vobbe, W8HDU.

By normal succession of officers, Great Lakes Vice Director Gary Johnston, KI4LA, was declared the new director. ARRL President Jim Haynie, W5JBP, has appointed Michigan Section Manager Dick Mondro, W8FQT, to be the new Great Lakes Vice Director. A successor to Mondro as Michigan Section Manager is expected to be named soon. (Adapted from ARRL Bulletin, W4OYI)

RADIO LAW: CQ SAYS YES TO NEW HAM BANDS

The publisher of several hobby radio magazines is urging the FCCto proceed in the creation of several new ham bands. However, it is voicing significant concern that the regulatory agency appears to be placing the interests of unlicensed services on a par with, if not ahead of, those of licensed services. Amateur Radio Newsline’s David Black, KB4KCH, tellks us who filed and why:

Most magazine publishers traditionally stay out ham radio politics. But the people who publish CQ Amateur Radio, CQ VHF and Popular Communications magazines are making an exception this time.

The publishers have filed comments with the FCC strongly supporting proposals that would create two new amateur bands and elevate a current amateur allocation from secondary to primary status.

CQ wants the FCC to adopt a proposal to create a "splinter band" at 135.7 to 137.8 kHz -- this would give amateur radio its first allocation above 200 meters in nearly a century. The company proposes opening the band to all amateurs with General Class or higher licenses, not imposing mode restrictions and making technical requirements flexible enough to encourage a wide range of experimentation.

CQ is also pushing for creation of a new ham band at 60 meters from 5.250 to 5.400 Mhz. The proposal suggests that full amateur power be permitted; that there be no sub-banding, either by mode or by license class; and that the band be open to all amateurs with HF privileges. That would include CW privileges for hams holding Novice Class licenses or Technician licenses with code credit.

Finally, CQ voices strong support for the FCC's proposal to make the Amateur Service primary on 2400 to 2402 MHz. The publishers say they're very concerned about one Commission request in its Notice of Proposed Rule Making. That requests solicits comments on the change in status that might affect non-licensed users of this band, such as cordless telephones and wireless computer networks.

CQ wants the Commission to reaffirm its long-standing policy that the interests of licensed operators and services are primary on any frequencies shared by licensed and non-licensed users.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Im David Black, KB4KCH.

CQ's comments were filed electronically and may be viewed in full on the FCC's Electronic Comment Filing System website at www.fcc.gov/e-file/ecfs.html by selecting "Search for Filed Comments," then typing in "02-98" under "Proceeding" on the search page, scrolling through comment summaries until the CQ comments are reached. RADIO LAW: COMMISSION REQUIRES RADAR DETECTORS TO COMPLY WITH EMISSION LIMITS

The FCC has imposed new emission limits and certification requirements on radar detectors. This, to prevent them from causing interference to very small aperture satellite terminals that operate with downlink frequencies in the 11.7 to 12.2 GHz band. Tests at the Commission's Laboratory have shown that some radar detectors emit radio signals in the downlink band far in excess of the limits that apply to other unintentional radiators. As a result of the new standards, radar detectors sold in the United States will have to meet the new and more stringent limits. The complete document is at

RADIO LAW: VOTE ON NEW FCC COMMISSIONER EXPECTED

Ending months of political bickering over judicial nominations, a senate panel approved a longtime aide to Senate Majority Leader Tom Daschle for a seat on the Federal Communications Commission. The nomination of Jonathan S. Adelstein, who has worked for the Democratic leader since 1995, will go to the full Senate for a vote.

Approval is expected, with several Republican senators saying they would vote for the South Dakota native. The FCC panel has five commissioners, who are nominated by the president and confirmed by the Senate. Only three can be from the same political party. (Congressional Review)

ENFORCEMENT: WISCONSIN HAM ASKED ABOUT CB SALES

The FCC has asked a Wisconsin ham to explain his connection to a website that purportedly offers for sale C-B equipment not certified by the agency. The FCC's Riley Hollingsworth explains:

Hollingsworth: "We opened an inquirey regarding the marketing of non certified radio equipment including non certified CB transceivers and HF linear amplifiers by Roper Electronics. Roper Electronics has a web page entitled tomah.com, and we are inquiring into the relationship between Roper Electronics and Randi Owen, N9UOM, of Tomah Wisconsin."
--

Specifically, Owen was asked to fully describe his relationship, if any, with Roper Electronics. Also, if it turns out that he owns or is affiliated with Roper, he was requested to furnish the FCC a listing of all models of HF transceivers and amplifiers domestically sold and/or offered for sale by Roper since January 1st of this year. That list must include the FCC certification number for each model.

The letter of inquiry went out to Owen on June 18th. Hollingsworth says that a reply to that inquiry is do in right now. (FCC, RAIN)

UPCOMING EVENTS: PACKARD AUTOMOBILE CELEBRATION

On the special events calendar, the Warren Ohio Amateur Radio Association will be operating special events station W8P to commemorate the annual Packard automobile celebration and car show. The Warren group will operate on the 40, 20, 15 and 10 meter bands. QSL's go to the Warren Amateur Radio Association, Post Office Box 809, Warren Ohio. The Zipcode there is 44482 (Via Internet Posting)

UPCOMING EVENTS: OH-KY-IN HAMFEST

Still in Ohio, but over in Cincinnati, the OH-KY-IN Amateur Radio Society will be holding its annual hamfest on July 27th. The venue is the Diamond Oaks Career Development Campus and this event features seminars, hidden transmitter hunts and a giant flea market. More information on this one is on the web at www dot ohkyin dot org. And in case you are wondering what OH-KY-IN stands for – its Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana – the three states that provide most of the attendees to this annual event. (Via E-Mail)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: RUSSIA SAYS BASS LIKELY TO FLY TO ISS

The Russian space company Rosaviakosmos has announced that N*SYNC singer Lance Bass has signed a preliminary contract and is officially a candidate for a Russian mission to the International Space Station this October. This, even the United States National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which partners with the Russians on the space station project has expressed concerns that the pop musician may lack the proper education, endurance and fluency in Russian to undertake such a journey.

But a spokesman at Russia's Baikonur Cosmodrome training center in says that within a week Bass will begin training. The spokesman said that the singer should be able to cover enough ground to make the trip adding that three months was more than enough time to teach him the basics.

Bass will be the third space tourist to pay Russia $20 million to visit the orbiting outpost. Previous space visitors were U.S. millionaire Dennis Tito KG6FZX and South African entrepreneur Mark Shuttleworth. Tito and Shuttleworth did find time to use the ham gear on board the station. Bass interest in Amateur Radio operations from the ISS is still unknown. (ARNewsline™ from published news reports)

RADIO IN SPACE: LISTEN TO JUPITER ON YOUR HAM TRANSCEIVER

Want to hear what’s happening on the planet Jupiter? Just listen on the 15 meter band. So says Popular Communications Magazine in an article aptly titled Listening To Jupiter On Your Shortwave Receiver.

No, you won’t hear the latest scores from the Jupiter Red Sox playing the Mars Marlins. What can be heard is the natural sound of the orange giant. An electromagnetic wave that’s emitted at irregular intervals by Jupiter that the article describes as a sweeping lighthouse like sound.

All you need to listen in is a shortwave receiver that can tune the good old A-M mode and a decent antenna. Exactly how to listen and what to listen for is on pages 8 and 9 o the August issue of the magazine. (PopComm)

INTERNATIONAL - UK: HAMS GET NEW PROPAGATION STUDY BAND:

UK Radio Amateurs will shortly be able to use a number of spot frequencies around 5 MHz, to take part in a four-year propagation study. A full Class-A license holder wishing to take part will require a Notice of Variation to his existing license. At the present time, the final administrative arrangements are being put into place. A further announcement will be made regarding the start date shortly. (GB2RS)

INTERNATIONAL - UK: THE GREAT NEW TOOTH PHONE

Meantime, a pair of British engineers say they have invented a revolutionary tooth implant that works like a mobile phone. The 'tooth phone', designed by researchers James Auger and Jimmy Loizeau, consists of a micro sized receiver, transmitter and a transducer that are implanted into a tooth during routine dental surgery. Sound, which comes from the tooth is transferred to the inner ear by bone resonance. This means information can be received anywhere and nobody else can listen in. (Science & Technology)

THAT FINAL ITEM: CAPTAIN KIRK - “THEY BE WHALES”

In what sounds like it’s right out of a Star Trek movie plot, will Captain Kirk and Mr. Spock have to go rescue some whales from oblivion after all? And what does this have to do with radio communications? Amateur Radio Newsline’s Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ, has the answers to both of these questions:

In the movie Star Trek The Voyage Home, the crew of the star-ship Enterprise -- without the Enterprise -- takes on the job of saving our planet from annihilation by a space probe. The probe is angry because it is programmed to contact Humpback whales, but it cannot find any because all the whales are long gone from the planet. To save the world, Kirk and crew travel back in time to get some whales and bring them into the future.

With that in mind, picture this. The administration has now given the Navy permission to begin using a powerful new low-frequency SONAR to identify enemy submarines.

SONAR, which stands for Sound Navigation and Ranging, is usually used to observe objects in water to determine distance. According to the Navy, each of the new SONAR’s eighteen transducers produces an audio signal equivalent to the noise level you would hear if you stood next to an F-15 fighter jet while I was taking-off. It is this high power that makes it possible for the sound waves to travel several hundred miles and return an accurate target echo.

But environmentalists are worried. They note that that the new SONAR system operates in the same band of frequencies used for communication by many large whales, including Humpbacks. They say that whales are particularly susceptible to SONAR interference because they rely on sound for communication, feeding, mating and migration. In fact, they navigate the oceans of the world using a kind of natural SONAR of their own.

Some scientists believe that whales will mistake the Navy SONAR signals for other whale pods and swim in the wrong direction. And they believe that if this happens, the worlds whale population will decrease.

Others disagree. This group of researchers believes that the two can co-exist with careful monitoring of the whales for any adverse effects which might be noticed. Adjustments could then be made to the SONAR systems operation to minimize or eliminate any problems.

The bottom line is that it's a tradeoff in communications. That of the whales versus the need of the public to be safe from enemy attack.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Henry Feinberg, K2SSQ.

The National Marine Fisheries Service says with proper monitoring and safeguards, the Navy’s new SONAR is not likely to injure whales or any other marine mammals. But to be on the safe side, we hope Captain Kirk, Mr. Spock and Scotty are standing by. (Adapted from published news reports)

Looking at DB HTs. With Yaesu's recent promotion to put a DB HT in the $200 range, the FT-50RD popped onto my radar. Was looking at the Icom T7H mainly becuase of the CTCSS tone scan feature. Noticed the Yaesu offers same. Other manufacturers have tone scan on their >$250 units.

Any comments regarding either of these two, or other, dual band HTs appreciated.

Never used the Icom T7H but I own a FT-50RD. The Yaesu is easy to use -- the buttons are quite logical -- I rarely need to refer to the manual to

Good Luck, Doc. This bunch of yoyos combines the arrogance of those who have nothing to say but insist on saying it everywhere with the intelligence of the average grapefruit.

"Doc Jeff" is one of the de facto leaders of alt.2600. Clearly, Roger's cross-posts to that group have started to annoy its regulars, and they'd like him to quit adding alt.2600 to his posts.

Although Roger will never honor the request, the rest of us have been helping out: Whenever we see alt.2600 as one of the newsgroups to which we are about to follow up, we remove it. Roger is now just about the only one cross-posting to alt.2600.

Watch him make an even bigger fool of himself as he turns more of the alt.2600 regulars into his enemies.

What happened to your supporters there, Rog?

The "aforementioned" Saturday nite net should be getting "very interesting" in the comming months. The 'word' on the shortwave NG's is that K.A. Strom has assumed the leadership position of the National Alliance after the recent death of Wm. Pierce.
KAS had a habit (and a ham radio callsign?) of checking into a certain Saturday nite net on some occasions, and his vitrlolic transmissions never failed to get the assembled masses of morons in quite a mutually pleasurable lather. Muy guess is we may be hearing much more of KAS soon on Saturday night which just may push that freq over the edge to "14.313 status".
Should be VERY amusing. Someone please alert Hollingsworth and the O. of H.S. to start taping down there...

Although it was a troll post, if YOU took the time to make this picture, it's pretty good. It's a prime example of why I don't use AM on my bone stock PC-122.

If YOU didn't make this picture and you stole it from somebody, reread the below phrases until it is perfectly clear in your mind.

You haven't kept a girlfriend, they alwyas are dissappointed in your lack of equipment.
Not that your type of cross-dresser would even want to stay with you.
Maybe that unshaved armpitted Brenda Ann might, but you always were considered safe by fag-hags like her.

Mhwhhahahahahahahahaha..."Lars" Dhue you mean. A burly, blonde gay lumberjack who you like to give you a wedge or two at night, as you're face down, eating a pillow.

> and I are going steady, there are a log of jealous girls in Houston.

Except that you're not IN Houston, Fuckhead. And you are homosexual, so "girls" aren't even a factor in your sexual life. Hell, you're still a virgin heterosexually speaking, aren't you? Freudian slip with the "log" of jealous comment?

I bet you like it when you can asay "Ride 'em Cowboy" and some gay TexASS boy rides you like a bronc.

Aww, did I strike a nerve, kiddie-diddler Fuckup Shemale Lee? Looks like you answered the "head up your ass" question above.
But you altready proved that with the Marshall County ARES FUCKUP.

CQ Magazine has decent propagation charts.

My experience has been early evenings for 20 meters is the best from the deep South.

I would say give the bands a listen about dusk your time with a look over the North Pole. Have fun.

And if you call CQ DX you may be surprised at what you come up with.

The "ue" in "uber alles" is an attempt to represent the original spelling of the anthem without the umlauted "u." Most German purists still use a spelling of "uber", and not "ueber", when writing that phrase.

Shack was in the basement, the window out of which the antenna leads ran was on the other side of the room, 30 feet away from the rig. I ran 450-ohm open wire line out the back of the antenna tuner, up to the floor joists, along the bottom of the floor joists to the window and out the window. Had no problems with RF anywhere running 75 to 600 watts output. That's what balanced line is about.

Not so. I was worried about "in the shack" RF and was going to run a 15 foot chunk of coax from my tuner in the basement shack to just outside the basement wall and then tie it into a 4:1 balun and from there go with the 96
ft. length of ladder line that tied into the 140 ft. horizontal copper clad antenna. I had read all the "warnings" such as what AB8MQ has errantly said, but just for the heck of it I ran the 450 ohm ladder line in thru the 2.5 inch ABS pipe (tight fit) that runs thru my basement wall and thru which I feed several coax cables. I had read the warnings to keep the ladder line at least one and a half inches from other conductors but decided to try it first. Well, the ladder line radiates just fine, no RF anywhere in the shack, no TVI, no nothing, no adverse effects. The antenna works like a charm and I have talked all over the world with it without so much as one bit of a problem. The icing on the cake is that it easily tunes all the bands and works exceptionally well on 17M. I can and do have two other HF rigs on the air at the same time and they are coax fed to outside antennas...said coaxial cables running right next to the ladder line and I have absolutely no RF hopping from one rig into the other. Of course good grounding of the entire system goes without saying...

No nightmares here, Joe.

I hear that the "Horst Wessel" song is high on his favorites list, along with "Deutschland Ueber Alles."

Again, you just blather out your ignorant ass, perpetually without a fucking clue.
The best time to listen to 76.240 and hear you jam unidentified is in the late afternoon and evening.

Joe, you were lucky, then. From my experience, the balanced line to a balun and run coax into the house worked better than running it straight in.
But then I have aluminum siding on my house, too.

I am attempting to get the PK232 running, purchased from a SK. It worked for him until he passed away. The manual says "do not use an RS-232-C cable with all 25 wires in it, DO NOT CONNECT ANY PINS OTHER THAN PINS 1 THROUGH 8, AND PIN 20!" I am sure that I used one of the RS232's that came with the PK232, but did not see that they were any different than the one I used on my Kantronics PKC3. Do I have the right cable here?
There was included in the box, a plug which had the 25 male pins to 9 female, but I cannot figure where this fits in.
Where to go next? Anyone who might be able to email me with some suggestions, perhaps until I get this squared around would be appeciated. Drew, KD4QCX

Hi,

You should use pins 1-8 and 20 only according to the manual that came with my PK-232MBX (August 1991). So that can easyly be measured..
My PK232 came with a 25 pin - 25 pin (no DB9's on my PC in those days
:-))
If all fails visit http://www.timewave.com/ they took over the AEA TNC line and even support and upgrade PK-232's.

Joe:
Pay no heed to what the uninitiated say. The only way for you to discover whether or not open feed will work for you is to try it. Aluminum siding is not a factor and will not hinder the line provided you can be creative enough to keep the line a couple of inches away from it. There are many ways to run twin lead from inside your house to the ouside environs providing you are creative enough. Look through some of the Ham publications for "through the window" ideas or ask other Hams who have done the same.
Also, a properly tuned and grounded antenna will introduce NO TVI or RFI into your environment. The ladder line in this case is simply a transmission line and not a radiator.
Go for it. You won't be disappointed.

Oh, the gopher-faced Nadless Eight White Gay Male tored to pin that on me, because he came by the house uninvited and tried to do a drive-by. He first didn't know which house I lived in, (clearly Thevie has some drug issues) and had to ask a neighbor, even though the house number is clearly marked on the mailbox and the house . The neighbor told me later he thought ol' Thevie Turdeater(Tunder) the Londonderry Little-boy-lollipop-slurper sounded like he had something in his mouth when he slobbered his question. Thevie turned his rusted out overcompensation for his small penis (oversized trruck) around on the street so he faced the exit part of Glen Haven, (since it has no outlet at one end) for a quick getaway..apparently he would be prepared for a quick getaway if I did go outside. Anyways, Thevie tried to take pictures of the house, and I closed the mini-blinds, (not curtains) after I gave him the finger in one of his pictures. Thevie the stalking kook then called me on his cell phone and tried to beg me to come outside. He made some sexual references and I told him to kiss my ass. Thevie lied to Lardasssssssssss Lllllloyd Davies N0VFP and said I hid behind some curtains(not true) and in fact, ol' Thevie was in my scope sights the whole time. He left his truck engine running and didn't DARE step out onto my property. After I informed the Glen Dale police of this potential stalker and possibly scoping out the neighborhood for burglaries, ol' Thevie never showed his bucktoothed, gopher-like face here again.

The convicted felon, W4AMP, was on 3894.5 last night, claiming to be on a new Kenwood. This is a guy who couldn't bail out of Cobb County jail for more than 30 days for being broke and no friends or credit. Is anyone missing a Kenwood radio? Sounded like an FT101. He says his "new business" (drugs???) is going great. He's going to email the latest news to everyone. When I get my email, I'll pass it along. ALTHOUGH The last time I emailed him, he didn't answer. ab8mq seems a bit confused over technical aspects of the balanced line. Virtually all technical publications clearly state the balun is not required. ab8mq says he lives in a metal house. This alone creates a special electrical environment which is specifically addressed in numerous tech articles over the years.
Perhaps ab8mq wants to do some reading on the subject before sharing.

With all best wishes, 73,

Tom

While "Tom in Chicago" didn't give his call and has no credibility.
Perhaps "Tom in Chicago" really doesn't have a callsign. He should really stick to blowing his horn. Your group really went down hill a bit when Terry Kath died.

>seems a bit confused over technical aspects > of the balanced line. Virtually all technical publications clearly > state the balun is not required.

Bzzzzt! Wrong again, stupid. It varies from situation to situation. And although balanced line is 300 to 450 ohms, most rigs only go for 50 ohm impedance at the output. Unless you like a pee-wee signal full of distortion and a bunch of snipping to get that resonant antenna, you've got to get that transmission line matched to the transmitter somehow.

>ab8mq says he lives in a metal house.

No dumbass, I said I have aluminum siding on my house. The house is a wood frame house.

> This alone creates a special electrical environment which > is specifically addressed in numerous tech articles over the years.

The Faraday Sheild theory might loosely apply to my house, but the aluminum siding still creates havoc with balanced line. You didn't read your "technical articles" very closely or you would've seen that they reccommend that the balanced line should be at least six (6) inches away from metal objects or it will cause it to detune and raise your VSWR. Balanced line is affected by weather conditions, which can cause a wide fluctuation of the input impedance.

> Perhaps ab8mq wants to do some reading on the subject before > sharing.

Perhaps Tom should follow his own advice about the research.
Then maybe he could actually get a callsign.

Anonymous coward and all-around fuckwit "Stagger Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com>

own definition in message <3C36FDCC.76EC185D@houston-hunks.com> :

You haven't tricked anything except your dog (and later the Animal Control Officer) into thinking your fellations are really beneficial to his well-being.
And nice of you to admit your FUCKUP.

Fuckup Lee whines about crossposting and redirecting followups with "The original post is spam, as can be seen by looking at the number of people who have already been tricked into responding in alt.bad.clams."
yet the hypocrite admits he did the same thing himself in <3D487543.91D087D9@houston-hunks.com>:
"I've tricked you into posting your spew elsewhere, yes"

But this isn't the first time he's crossposted into other groups:

SPANKARD Faggot Lee admits he's crossposted in order to help his pathetic, syphlitic ass win a flame war, if you can read his chicken scratching EBONICS in <3AA5A686.E2ACE517@some.net>:

SPANK!

[restore]

It varies from situation to situation. And although balanced line is 300 to 450 ohms, most rigs only go for 50 ohm impedance at the output. Unless you like a pee-wee signal full of distortion and a bunch of snipping to get that resonant antenna, you've got to get that transmission line matched to the transmitter somehow.
[end restore]

So what is wrong, balanced line is 300 - 450 ohms impedance.
Most modern transceivers have to have a 50 ohm impedance.For efficient transmission of your signal the transmission line and the rig have to have the same impedance or there is a high VSWR.

CERTIFIED MAIL RETURN RECEIPT REQUESTED

Mr. George A. Ashley
1138 Collierville Arlington Road
Collierville, TN 38017

Subject: Warning Notice: Amateur Radio Station W4FQF

Dear Mr. Ashley:

Information before the Commission indicates that you have engaged in deliberate interference on the 75 Meter Amateur Band (3.901 MHz) at various times since October 2000. Some of the interference included tape recordings. We note that on January 7, 1999 you were warned about such activities on the 20- Meter Amateur Band.

This constitutes a second warning that any further incidents of such operation will result in enforcement action being taken against you, including license revocation, monetary forfeiture, or both.

Section 308(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 18 U.S.C. Section 308(b), gives the Commission the authority to obtain information from licensees about the operation of their station. Pursuant to Section 308(b), you are requested to respond to this letter within 20 days of the above date. You are also requested to furnish the following information.

1. Describe the radio transmitting equipment, including antennas, you have at the 1138 Collierville Arlington Road Address. State the manufacturer, model and serial number of each item. If any items were constructed or modified by you, describe the item in detail.

2. Describe any radio transmitting equipment, including antennas, you have at any other address in Tennessee. State the manufacturer, model and serial number of each item. If any items were constructed or modified by you, describe the item in detail.

Please be advised that Congress has made punishable a willfully false response to a letter of this type. See 18 U.S.C. Section 1001.

Sincerely,

W. Riley Hollingsworth

GLENDALE, WV: The FCC requested July 11, 2000, that Roger L. Wiseman, AB8MQ, retake the General examination elements under the supervision of an ARRL-VEC volunteer examiner team. Wiseman must appear for retesting by September 11, 2000, or his license will be canceled. Applicants appearing for re-examination are granted an Amateur Radio license consistent with the elements passed. The FCC had written Wiseman on March 29, 2000, advising that it had been made aware of "an ongoing personal dispute" between Wiseman and another licensee that included allegations of interference or jamming on 20 meters. FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth invited the two licensees to contact him to discuss the matter. Additionally, the FCC had sent Wiseman a Warning Notice last November in response to allegations of deliberate and malicious interference on 20 meters.

No, it isn't. We're comparing apples and oranges.
By you aggreeing not to attack him, means you have to defend him when I post something? There must be a method to your madness, but I don't know what it is. Are you going to attack me for what I write about him? Your reasoning seems a "little" warped. Clue me in. Tell me how a non-aggression pact means you have to make his excuses. You don't need to lie for W4AMP. He tells a lie EVERY time he opens his mouth. That's why he wants you to talk for him. He already told enough lies for his entire life.

AB8MQ may wish to act as if he knows whereof he speaks, but he is wrong, wrong, wrong on this antenna thread.
Joe. Take it from one who has and does use 450 ohm feedline....quite simply, it works! It was mentioned that ladder line may change impedance with various wx conditons, but so what? It will do that regardless if you feed it with a run of coax/balun or just run the twin lead straight into your tuner.
Any changes in impedance are minimal, even when the antenna becomes ice coated, as mine sometimes does.
Also, the tech manuals I have on the topic all recommend keeping said feed line at least an inch and a half away from things metallic, and I am assuming these ARRL manuals are correct.
I also have an aluminum-sided house and the antenna works like a charm. No
RF, no TVI, no problems whatsoever.
Just build the antenna, Joe and pay no heed to what one self-proclaimed "expert" tells you. If I had listened to such "experts" I would still be believing their misinformation.
This antenna works like a charm on all bands and is very, very easy to tune, also.
Jules

Yes, this is very true. Roger is in denial about this. He keeps telling us that he was never giving a reason for his "retest". The facts are there. Steve, N8WGM, once told me that his uncle lives not too far from Wiseman. Steve's uncle would tune around the bands, and notice that the jamming signals were really strong in his area. Of course this response will be reponded by Woger's usaul kind of sick remarks - Never able to reply the post. A portrait of a true

Okay, I'm ready to purchase the Icom unit. Now comes the difficult part of choosing an antenna. The main problem is that I have 2.25" clearance from the top of the vehicle to get into my garage. In fact, I paid over $1,000 to change the garage door to allow this van to fit inside. Any antenna I choose has to fit inside the garage door, either by bending down and clamping, or folding down.

The VHF/UHF antenna will probably be a lot easier than the HF antenna. Any suggestions?

The fact is, a fundamentalist Christian is bound to find your posts to be offensive. If someone were to, oh I dunno, make your spew available to her, she just might decide to take some actions to curb it, especially if your attacks on her beliefs were to be included with the spew.

That would, of course, be a netkopping action. And you have never netkopped anyone else, right? So it wouldn't be fair. NOT.

While you're having a friendly conversation with "Rog", maybe you

The real answer, IMHO, is that "Rog" was acting as an accessory to Dimmy at one point.

Although not in an Austin Powers movie, Roger is "Little Dimmy" and works very hard at emulating his master.

It doesn't have to be commercial kit, it just has to conform to EC requirements. As far as I know, there's no harmonised standards for amateur equipment, so I believe it just has to be EMC and, if applicable, low voltage specs.

As I understand it, any item which has no intrinsic functionality does not require EC conformity. An external amplifier module which does nothing in isolation (no exciter, no PSU) has no intrinsic functionality. Build a mW exciter, easy to ensure and check it meets EC regs, then have an external PA with separate PSU and you can argue that you're meeting the licence requirements.

Steve.

Mr. Roger L. Wiseman

610 Glen Haven Avenue

Glendale, WV 26038-1302

SUBJECT: Amateur Radio license KC8JBO

Dear Mr. Wiseman:

Pursuant to Section 97.519(d)(2) of the Commission's Rules, 47 C.F.R.
Section 97.519(d)(2), the Commission has the authority to re-administer any examination element previously administered by Volunteer Examiners (VE's).
The Commission may either administer the examination itself, or under the supervision of a Volunteer Examiner Coordinator (VEC) or VE designated by the Commission.

Accordingly, we are requiring you to re-take the General Class Amateur Examination, (Elements 2, 3(A) and 3(B)) under the supervision of an American Radio Relay League Volunteer Examiner Coordinator. This examination
must be completed on or before September 11, 2000. The required code speed that you must demonstrate is 5 words per minute.

Please be prepared to verify your current address and to present a photo identification. Pursuant to Commission rules, your license will be cancelled
if you do not appear for re-examination. You will be granted an Amateur Radio license consistent with the elements you pass upon re-examination.

Sincerely,

W. Riley Hollingsworth

Let's not forget how Lllardasssssss Lllllllllllllloyd was arrested in 2000.

The Great Pumpkin
Birmingham Post-Herald
October 14, 2000

Police arrested Lloyd A. Davies, a 27 year old white male, resident of Athens, Alabama in the Anderson Pumpkin patch at 11:38pm Friday. Davies will be charged with lewd and lascivious behavior, public indecency, and public intoxication at the Athens Municipal Courthouse Monday. The suspect allegedly stated that as he was passing a pumpkin patch, he decided to stop. "You know, a pumpkin is soft and squishy inside, and there was no one around here for miles. At least I thought there wasn't." he stated in a phone interview from the Athens Municipal Courthouse Jail.

Davies went on to state that he pulled over to the side of the road, picked out a pumpkin that he felt was appropriate to his purposes, cut a hole in it, and proceeded to satisfy his alleged "need". "I guess I was just really into it, you know?" he commented with evident embarrassment. In the process, Torrance apparently failed to notice the Athens Municipal police car approaching and was unaware of his audience until officer Brenda Taylor approached him. "It was an unusual situation, sure." said officer Taylor. "I walked up to (Davies) and he's... just working away at this pumpkin."

Taylor went on to describe what happened when she approached Davies. "I just went up and said, 'Excuse me sir, but do you realize that you are screwing a pumpkin?' He got real surprised as you'd expect, and then looked me straight in the face and said,

'A pumpkin? Damn... is it midnight already?"

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1303 August 2nd, 2002

A NOTE TO THOSE WHO ONLY “READ” AMATEUR RADIO NEWSLINE(tm)

For those of you who only know of the Amateur Radio Newsline (tm) as a text newsletter we would like to invite you to listen to the audio version. This Amateur Radio Newsline (tm) script is actually written for the “spoken word.” It is recorded each by professional broadcasters and is available for private listening or rebroadcast over your repeater. Two methods of delivery are available: FTP MP3 or dial-in telephone. HAM RADIO IN SPACE: WE ARE GOING TO MARS

Ham radio could be headed to the Red Planet in a few years. This as the German ham radio space agency announces some ambitious plans for future Amateur Radio operations from outside the Earth’s atmosphere. CQ Magazine Editor Rich Moseson, W2VU has the details:

AMSAT-DL the German amateur radio satellite organization has announced plans to build two new amateur spacecraft, including one destined for orbit around Mars! Now, the AMSAT News Service, says that the so-called Phase 5-A satellite could be launched in the 2007 to 2009 timeframe and that it will include subpayloads that would be launched from the main satellite, either to the planet's surface or into the Martian atmosphere.

These devices would transmit scientific data back to the "mother ship." It would then use a repeater to relay the information back to hams on Earth. AMSAT-DL officials say that the 2000 launch of AMSAT-OSCAR 40 showed that the basic satellite design was capable of a trip to Mars.

The AMSAT-DL board of directors has also given a green light to developing a Phase 3-E earth-orbiting satellite. This would be a more traditional amateur bird, offering two-way communication links on amateur bands between 145 MHz and 10 GHz. In addition, it will serve as a testbed for some of the technology needed for the Mars mission.

AMSAT-DL has been the lead AMSAT group on the past three large amateur satellites placed into orbit. This includes AMSAT-OSCAR-10 which is still operating, AMSAT-OSCAR-13 which is no longer in orbit and AMSAT-OSCAR-40.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Rich Moseson, W2VU.

No launch timetable has been announced for Phase 3 E, but it is expected to be several years before the anticipated launch of the mission to Mars.

information about both missions can be found at:

RESCUE RADIO: JULY 4th WATER RESCUE ACCOMPLISHED THROUGH HAM RADIO

Its ham radio to the rescue on Thursday, July 4th. This following a water accident involving a teenage girl on Utah’s Lake Powell. Roy Neal, K6DUE has the details:

STEVE WILLIAMS, K0SRW, REPORTS THAT A TEENAGER . WHO SHALL HERE GO UNNAMED BECAUSE OF HER AGE, WAS RIDING A TUBE BEHIND A RENTED SKI BOAT. THEY WERE GOING FAST UNTIL SHE HIT A WAVE AND SUDDENLY…UNEXPECTEDLY…WENT AIRBORNE. THAT’S USUALLY LOTS OF FUN FOR KIDS BUT THIS TIME THE YOUNG GIRL LANDED THE WRONG WAY. HER NECK HURT. SHE COULD HARDLY MOVE HER NECK AND BACK.

WILLIAMS WANTED TO CALL FOR HELP BUT THE ACCIDENT TOOK PLACE ON LAKE POWELL, WHICH IS A HUGE PLACE…186 MILES LONG WITH ALMOST 2 THOUSAND MILES OF SHORELINE. MAJOR CANYONS, 96 OF THEM, SOME 15 TO 20 MILES LONG, RISE UP BEHIND THE SHORE.

A MARINE RADIO CAME WITH THE HOUSEBOAT THAT WILLIAMS RENTED BUT THEY WERE TOO FAR OUT TO MAKE CONTACT. CELLULAR TELEPHONES ARE ALMOST NON EXISTENT IN THE TERRITORY. SO K0SRW TURNED TO HAM RADIO. WILLIAMS HAD A YAESU 900 AND OUTBACKER ANTENNA ALREADY SET UP. ON 20 METERS, HE HEARD W8VRT, LEN KERSCH, IN ANN ARBOR, MICHIGAN, SEVERAL HUNDRED MILES AWAY.

KERSCH WAS TAKING PART IN A NET, ON 14.178 Mhz. WILLIAMS BROKE IN, EXPLAINED THE SITUATION AND GAVE A PHONE NUMBER FOR THE BULLFROG MARINA, AT LAKE POWELL. KERSH CALLED THE MARINA. THEY CONNECTED HIM WITH THE NATIONAL PARK SERVICE. ANOTHER WILLIAMS…KARL WILLIAMS, KD5AW, IN OKLAHOMA CITY BROKE IN TO ASSIST BY RELAYING INFORMATION BETWEEN W8VRT AND K0SRW.

ABOUT 25 MINUTES AFTER THE INITIAL CONTACT, A MEDICAL HELICOPTER AND A NATIONAL PARK SERVICE BOAT ARRIVED. THEY DECIDED TO AIRLIFT THE GIRL BY HELICOPTER TO A HOSPITAL AT GRAND JUNCTION, COLORADO. STRANGE TO RELATE, THE PILOT ALSO WAS A HAM…TOM CALDWELL, KC7BPK, WAS AT THE CONTROLS.

THERE WAS NO ROOM FOR THE PARENTS IN THE HELICOPTER. THEY TOOK OFF TO TRAVEL SOME 4 HOURS BY BOAT AND CAR. AS THEY DROVE AND GOT BACK INTO CELL PHONE RANGE, GOOD NEWS WAS WAITING FOR THE ANXIOUS PARENTS. X-RAYS SHOWED THEIR DAUGHTER WAS NORMAL…NO PERMANENT INJURIES. THIS HAM RADIO RESCUE STORY HAD A HAPPY ENDING.

Williams says he is grateful to all of the hams who assisted in the rescue. Because of them an injured youngster quickly received medical aid in a rather remote part of the USA. (K0SRW)

RESCUE RADIO: HAMS READY FOR WASHINGTON TRAIN DERAILMENT

Ham radio was ready but not really needed at a July 29th train derailment just outside of Washington D-C. An AMTRAK liner was enroute from Chicago to Washington when many of the passenger cars left the track near Kensington, Maryland. About 90 people were taken to area hospitals, three reported in critical condition. One news report said that a ham radio communications team was on its way to supply assistance but with no real communications failure, their services were found to be unnecessary. The news story did not mention anyone by name or call sign. (ARNewsline™ from news reports)

RADIO LAW: QCWA FILES IN FAVOR OF NEW HAM BANDS BUT SOME MEMBERS SAY THEY SHOULD HAVE BEEN ASKED

The Quarter Century Wireless Association has filed in favor of the ARRL proposal to create new ham radio bands. While most members of the QCWA appear to agree with the FCC filing, there is one group that is taking the Board of Directors to task over how it was done.

Its not because they disagree with the content. Rather, calling themselves the “vocal minority,” these hams are using the QCWA electronic remailer to complain that the board did not send paper or electronic copies of the proposed filing to all members. Also, they say that the board did not individually poll the members for their opinions before writing the QCWA position and sending the paperwork to the FCC.

But outgoing QCWA President Gary Harrison, K0BC, says that the reason it was done this way is simple. It was a matter of time.

In a posting to the QCWA Reflector, Harrison says that there was a limited amount of time to file comments. He also notes that there are only about 300 QCWA members are on the groups electronic mail list. That would mean preparing a paper mailing, sending it out and waiting for members to write back.

Harrison uses QCWA election figures as an example. He says that it takes about two years to complete an election cycle and the organization receives only about 30% return of the ballot. The cost of mailing material out for this election is about $2,000.

What about the organization's magazine called the QCWA Journal? Harrison says that it takes two months to prepare and mail it from the deadline for submitting articles. And be it a paper ballot or an announcement in the Journal, the QCWA would have to allow several months to permit input from the membership. In this case waiting would mean that the QCWA could not file because the commentary cutoff date had passed. (ARNewsline™)

CHANGING OF THE GUARD: STEVE MANSFIELD, N1MZA – S.K.

Some rather sad news to report – especially for us here at Newsline. It comes in word from the American Radio Relay League that its Legislative and Public Affairs Manager Steve Mansfield, N1MZA, has died of complications to brain cancer at age 55.

Steve Mansfield came to ARRL service in 1991 as an expert in the area of Public Relations. It did not take long for his bosses at League headquarters to realize his enormous potential as a people person. As a result, the hallowed halls of Washington D.C. soon became his beat and he spent the next eleven years as the point man between the ARRL and numerous political leaders.

ARRL President Emeritus George Wilson, W4OYI, had the opportunity to work with Mansfield. He tells Amateur Radio Newsline that he recalls one incident just before a major convention out in California. There were a lot of very controversial issues on which the League had taken considerable heat. Wilson gave Mansfield the job of searching out all issues and prepare a short "position paper" on each for W4OYI. The former ARRL president says that Mansfield did such an outstanding job that he had copies sent to all Directors and Vice Directors. The result was what President Wilson called tons of favorable comments, and a real tribute to the dedication of N1MZA.

Mansfield was also seen at many hamfests and conventions. In most cases speaking at public relations sessions hosted either by the ARRL or by us here at Newsline. And that's really where we got to know him as a friend, a college and as an expert in the topic of relating to other people.

Steve Mansfield was first diagnosed with brain cancer in 2000 and had surgery to remove the malignancy. He was doing well until recently when he suffered a series of setbacks. He passed away on Monday July 29th. He is survived by his wife Ellyn daughters Ramona and Elizabeth and the friends he made in and out of ham radio, worldwide. (ARRL, W4OYI, ARNewsline™)

CHANGING OF THE GUARD: FATHER MIKE MULLEN, WB2GQW – S.K.

The Reverend Michael Mullen, WB2GQW, a past winner of the ARRL International Humanitarian Award, became a Silent Key in June. "Father Mike" was a professor and past chairman of the humanities department at St. John's University in New York. He was best known in amateur radio for his involvement with IMRA, the International Mission Radio Association. IMRA maintaines lines of communication using amateur radio for missionaries. It also inter-connects various humanitarian agencies over the air after disasters.

According to the New York Daily News, in addition to his ARRL International Humanitarian Award, Father Mike received the St. John's University Presidential Medal and was listed in the international edition of "Who's Who in Education." He was 87 at the time of his death. (CQ, NY Daily News)

NAMES IN THE NEWS: A NEW BOOK BY N6NHG

Former computer hacker Kevin Mitnick, N6NHG, has turned author. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, has the details:

Kevin Mitnick, N6NHG, Mitnick is the California ham whose license renewal application has been designated for hearing by the FCC. This, based on his conviction for hacking. And now according to news reports, he has written a soon to be released book on computer hacking and -- more important -- how to prevent being hacked.

According to the reports, Mitnick's book -- The Art of Deception -- is a novel that describes more than a dozen scenarios where hackers dupe computer network administrators into divulging passwords, encryption keys and other security details. Mitnick claims that its all fiction with any personal details having been kept out of the book which reportedly uses fictitious names of hackers, victims and companies.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

Earlier this year the FCC designated his application to renew his Amateur licenses for a public hearing. The FCC contends that Mitnick may no longer possess the requisite requirements to remain a Commission licensee. (Published reports)

CONVENTIONS: HUNTSVILLE HAMFEST

Two conventions on almost opposite sides of the country are taking place the weekend of the 17th and 18th of August. In Huntsville Alabama, the Huntsville Hamfest takes place at the Von Braun Center's South Hall right across the street from the Huntsville Hilton Hotel. Since the first Huntsville Hamfest in 1981, this event has grown to the point where the Amateur Radio manufacturers and dealers consider it to be one of the seven major hamfests in the country, pulling a gate of between 5000 to 6000 every year.

We at Amateur Radio Newsline have presented our own Young Ham of the Year Award at the Huntsville Hamfest since 1993. 2002 is no exception. So please join us at 2:00 P.M. Central time on Saturday August 17th as we, our corporate underwriters Vertex Standard and CQ Magazine along with the people of Huntsville honor 17 year of Josh Abramowicz, KB3GWY as the 2002 Amateur Radio Newsline Young Ham of the Year. More information about the Huntsville Hamfest is in cyberspace at www.hamfest.org. (Huntsville Hamfest)

CONVENTIONS: ARRL SW DIVISION IN SAN DIEGO

And August 16th to the 18th will se the ARRL Southwestern Division show at the California Center of the Arts in Escondido. The scheduled Banquet speaker will be Riley Hollingsworth K4ZDH. Also on hand will be ARRL President Jim Haynie W5JBP, Big Project Coordinator Jerry Hill, along with Division Director Art Goddard W6XD, and Vice Director Tuck Miller NZ6T. More information is on the convention web site at http://sd2002.hamcon.net. (HAM-CON)

CONVENTIONS: HUNTINGTON HAMFEST

And a week earlier on August 10th, the Tri State Amateur Radio Association will host the Huntington, West Virginia Hamfest. Its at the Veterans Memorial Field House, 2590 Fifth Avenue in Huntington from 8:30 AM to 2:30 P-M. Talk in on the 146.76 repeater and V-E administered ham radio exams will also be available. SCIENCE PAGE: THE MAGNETIC NORTH POLE IS ON THE MOVE

The Magnetic North Pole could soon abandon Canada, migrate north of Alaska and eventually wind up in Russia. So says one scientist. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, reports on the future of the pole.

The e-newsletter Science Today tells of Larry Newitt. Newitt is a researcher with the Geological Survey of Canada. And Newitt says that the magnetic pole is on the move.

The researcher says that the pole, which has steadily drifted for decades, has picked up speed in recent years. He says that at its current speed, it could exit Canadian territory as soon as 2004. And, says Newitt, if the pole follows its present course, it will pass north of Alaska and arrive in Siberia in a half century.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, Los Angeles.

If you are worried that you may soon have to trade in your old compass for a G-P-S to know where you are, don't. Researcher Newitt cautions that such predictions could be wrong. (Science Today)

INTERNATIONAL - BRAZIL: A NEW LF BAND ON ITS WAY

According to Brazilian amateur PY3CRX the Brazilian licensing authority, ANATEL, has agreed that the 135.7 to 137.8kHz band can be allocated to radio amateurs in that nation on a secondary basis. No date was mentioned for the new band's introduction but PY3CRX adds that the band is, or will be, also available in Paraguay and Uruguay as well. (GB2RS)

INTERNATIONAL- CANADA: VY2BP NEW RAC AD

Radio Amateurs of Canada reports that Bill Perry, VY2BP, has been appointed as an Assistant Director for the R-A-C Atlantic Region. Perry will complete the unexpired term of Fred Burke, VY2FB, who recently resigned the position because of family commitments. (RAC)

INTERNATIONAL EAST TIMOR: NEW CALL SIGN BLOCK ANNOUNCED

The International Telecommunications Union says that the 4WA to 4WZ prefix block will go to the United Nations Territory Administration of East Timor for as long as it exists. United Nations stations within East Timor will be assigned 4U prefixes. The official U N Club station will get 4U1ET. All other amateurs will use the 4W6 prefix. Those residing in East Timor less than one year will sign 4W6 followed by their home call. People staying beyond one year will be assigned a permanent 4W6 call. And yes, CEPT licenses are accepted. (GB2RS, Q-News)

DX

In D-X, the UK-lead youngsters' DXpedition to the Maldives should be on the air as 8Q7ZZ until the 11th of August. The expedition is being lead by 18-year old Mark Haynes, M0DXR. Other operators include 15-year old Robert Morgan, M0TTT, as well as young amateurs from Germany and Spain. 8Q7ZZ will be running up to three stations simultaneously, all with beam antennas and up to 400 watts power out. (RSGB)

Meantime, four French operators are in Benin and active as TY7Z, TY9F, TY4DX and TY6FB until the 14th of August. If you make contact with either operation Q-S-L as directed on the air. (QRZ DX)

THAT FINAL ITEM: A SPECIAL HAM RADIO PRESENTATION

And finally this week:
--
“Good afternoon to everybody here. We have a lot of Amateur Radio operators and we have a lot of guests aboard the Queen Mary. And we are here for a very short ceremony to commemorate the 23rd anniversary of W6RO.”

--

That was Bob Heil, K9EID, on Saturday, July 27th, talking to a crowd assembled in the Wireless Museum next door to the Queen Mary's radio room. A radio room that for the past 23 years has been the home of Amateur Radio Station W6RO. And to commemorate this milestone, Bob's company, Heil Sound, donated a half dozen custom made Classic series microphones adorned with the W6RO call sign to the station. These retro look microphones are very similar to the RCA studio mic's of the 1930's. Famed rock musician Joe Walsh, WB6ACU, had the honor of making the actual presentation:

--

Joe Walsh: "These Classic microphones are presented to the Queen Mary amateur Radio Station, W6RO, celebrating the 23rd year of continuous operation provided by the Associated Radio Amateurs of Long Beach California, present by Bob Heil, K9EID, and Joe Walsh, WB6ACU, on July 27, 2002. And we wish you continued success with the station and here you go."

Nate Brigtman: "Thank you very much."

--

Accepting the mics was Nate Brightman, K6OSC, who was the man who conceived the idea of a ham station on the Queen Mary. He was accompanied b the current president of the club, Ray Rittenhouse, KF6WZN. Rittenhouse has a surprise for K9EID:

--
Ray Rittenhouse: "We appreciate this very much Bob, and from our club to you is a certificate of our appreciation thanking you for those microphones we are now putting in W6RO"
--

Then it was Nate Brightman's turn. He told the crowd a bit about the operation of W-6-R-O, and what those who sit at the transmitters get as a token of appreciation for taking the time to operate:

--
Brightman here: ""Those amateurs who come by to visit W6RO aboard the Queen Mary, should they operate the station, we will mail to them a special certificate designating that they had the honor of operating W6RO aboard the Queen Mary."
--

And when it was all over Bob Heil ended the presentation with a bit of a poem:

--
Heil: Nate. Thanks for having us today. And Ray, we appreciate all of your efforts for the club. And we will be seeing you a little high, a little low. But we'll find you somewhere from W6RO. (Applause)
--

Attending the ceremony, were numerous local ham radio operators from the Los Angeles area. This included Vertex-Standard's Chip Margelli, K7JA and film maker Dave Bell W6AQ. The ARRL was represented by Los Angeles Section Manager Phineas Icenbice, W6BF. You can hear the complete presentation as this weeks Newsline Extra. You will find it as an MP3 file on our F-T-P page only a click away at www.arnewsline.org. (ARNewsline™)

Hi,
I'm a physics major whoï¿½s really gotten into hobby electronics this summer:
I've just built my own electromagnetic probe, test pattern generator for TV troubleshooting and almost managed to program a PIC microcontroller to make a digital thermometer but ... I progress so slowly. Does anyone know someone I could work/study under about this fun and interesting side of electronics (ie in a repair shop, hobby electronics web company) ? Typing in 'electronics apprenticeships' in search engines only gives me names of 4-yr long programs aimed at making one an industrial technician. I'm not interested in making money right now but rather learning and discovering the incredible consistencies of our reality.
Thanks for any advice,
Gabriel

Bottom line here is that Roger never tried running ladder line from his mommy's house. First, his little house and yard offers little room for such an antenna and secondly, he never had the gumption to try such an antenna. He covers his failure to try this type of antenna by blowing a smoke screen of the allegedly "technical" reasons why such an antenna is not feasible. Jules and the other poster were quite correct in that such an antenna can and does work quite well. Roger, of course, will treat this thread as he does each and every other thread he ruins. He will attempt to show his "expertise", and when that fails he will next malign each and every poster that may have a comment to the contrary. After that fails Roger will then do what he does best, and that is to resort to profanity and name-calling so as to change the entire topic of the thread.
In short? Roger has no working knowledge of open feed wire antennas from his mommy's abode. He has never built one, therefore his alleged expertise is non-existent.
OK, everybody. Watch Roger rebut me. He will do so because he just HAS to have the last word no matter what. He will probably claim that he indeed tried such an antenna and had problems due to technical difficulties of one sort or another...like trying to figure out how to attach open feed to the SO-239 in the back of his radio!! Blame it on the aluminum siding, putz!
Roger lies and lies and lies...

Eduardo would be well advised to ignore Roger and all of Roger's posts.
Roger will never be, nor can he be the type of person that Eduardo could placate. Why? Eduardo is clearly Roger's intellectual superior and for Eduardo to try to placate Roger is foolhardy.
Eduardo...I thought you would have better sense than this. You are obviously an educated person, so why would you even for a minute consider taking so much as a single minute to appeal to Roger? He has no common sense, no reason for his meager existence..he is a virtual nonentity.
Roger is pond scum. Sorry...but that about sums up Wiseman.
Eduardo..I hate to say it, but you are sorely misguided on this one. To associate yourself with the likes of Wiseman is foolhardy. You will do incalculable damage to your reputation. Mark my words...any attempt to befriend Curtain Boy will only come back to haunt you.
He is NOT the kind of friend you want.

Portable digital storage oscilloscope, in EXCELLENT condition. Operated by "AA" batteries or AC adaptor included. Can also be hooked up to your PC with included computer interface. Comes with manual, 2 probes, batteries, zippered carrying case. Probes and scope are as new, unit was very seldom used.

Brand new price was $1200, but will sacrifice for $350, plus actual shipping charges from 94612. Pictures upon request.

The specifications for this scope is very similar to the current model P-3850, at Protek's website below. Its also identical in appearance to the P-3850 which sells for $1350.

Spaeking of dumbasses, is this why they call you the Tampa Turd?

From the Tampa Tribune:
Gay ban upheld
Published on November 10, 1995.
TRENTON, N.J. -- A state judge, citing the biblical story of Sodom and Gomorrah as evidence that homosexuality is immoral, upheld the Boy Scouts' ban on gays.
Superior Court Judge Patrick J. McGann found that the Monmouth Council of the Boy Scouts did not violate state discrimination laws when it expelled James Dale as an assistant scoutmaster in 1990 after learning he is gay.

Poor Tampa Turd.

GLENDALE, WV: The FCC wrote General licensee Roger L. Wiseman, AB8MQ on March 29, 2000, advising that it had been made aware of "an ongoing personal dispute" that included interference or jamming on 20 meters. FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth cautioned Wiseman to review ?97.1 of the Amateur Radio rules and "to make certain that whatever disputes that may exist are not carried over to Amateur Radio frequencies." Hollingsworth invited AB8MQ to contact him to discuss the matter. Last November 9, the FCC sent Wiseman a Warning Notice in response to allegations of deliberate and malicious interference on 20 meters.

GLENDALE, WV: The FCC requested that Roger L. Wiseman, AB8MQ, retake the General examination elements under the supervision of an ARRL-VEC volunteer examiner team. Wiseman must appear for retesting by September 11, 2002, or his license will be canceled. Applicants appearing for re-examination
are granted an Amateur Radio license consistent with the elements passed.
The FCC had written Wiseman on March 29, 2002, advising that it had been made aware of "an ongoing personal dispute" between Wiseman and another licensee that included allegations of interference or jamming on 20 meters. FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth invited the two licensees to contact him to discuss the matter. Additionally, the FCC had sent Wiseman a Warning Notice last November in response to allegations of deliberate
and malicious interference on 20 meters.

Well, after Roger wrote to the Computer Science Dept.
in Mexico City, a colleague of mine in the psychology Dept. suggested Roger seeks attention, like an errant child. It was suggested I hold my hand out in peace to Roger, and he might respond. Regretfully, I see this weekend that Roger is once again a very angry man, lashing out at everyone and everything for no reason. I think perhaps others are right on this one, meaning Roger is beyond any help. Essentially, Roger rejects the world. He is a very angry man and will not seek help. I pity Roger. I tried.

2395. Locating repeaters in south Jersey

I am trying to locate GMRS repeaters in the Moorestown, Mount Laurel, Cherry Hill, Voorhees, Berlin areas in southern NJ.

Do you know of any GMRS repeaters in this area?

Can you suggest resources for locating such repeaters? -- other newsgroups? URLs of clubs? etc.

I thought their responses appropriate to your attitude; you obviously still don't understand how it all works technically.

To AC6V,

Thanks for the quick response to my question about locating GMRS repeaters. I was aware of that particular site. Unfortunately, it comes up dry for my area.

I was wondering how to find out about unpublished repeaters that may be available for public use.

Hi All:

I want to set up my moble rig for cross band repeat, using a 440 simplex freq on my HT and have the moble (set up as a base with a good base antenna up 30-40 ft high) cross band repeat to a 2m repeater 30 miles away.

Can someone tell me some recongized simlex frequencies. My "book" shows frequencies for simplex and link/control in the same block, and lists 446.00 as a "National Call Frequency", but no other simplex frequencies. I would hate to try to do this on a freq that people use as a link frequency.

Thanks
Bob-KD8WU

anything that is NOT a repeater pair or weak signal can be used as a simplex frequency. Try listening to the frequency for a few days and find out if anyone is using it..

No, it is NOT a RF nightmare! and no you don't need to run coax into the house. I have done many installations where I ran balanced transmission line right into the structure. No RF, when done properly. The key to the whole thing is excellent grounding for everything inside the radio room. I wish people who are not experienced or qualified would not run their mouths just for the sake of running their mouths. This guy telling you to run coax into the shack, later comments that he lives in a tin building. Duuuuuhhhhhhhhhh! Now that IS a RF nightmare!

This is hilarious! Does that mean Jimbo is a member of the Mile High Club, or did Jimbo blow the guy while the plane was parked? Like father, like son, they say. Roger likes to grab hold of an occasional Joy Stick, too.

Uh...isn't there something wrong here? You know...like Roger's call sign in 2000? It wasn't AB8MQ at that time.
He didn't become a Welfare Extra until 2002.

You may understand how it works, but the contrary is evidenced by your e-mail exchange.

It is also apparent you started the name calling with your "control freak" comment.

Pot - kettle - black.

No sympathy here.

We are asking you to show some compassion for one of the posters on Usenet. The poster, Roger Wiseman, is suffering from an incurable disease and needs immediate help.
No, Roger is not suffering from AIDS, at least not yet. Roger's malady is more deep-rooted than that.
Roger, you see, has certain mental defects and is most often unable to grasp the realities of day in, day out life cycles. Roger is a distrubed individual at best, and a mental misfit at worst.
Wander, if you will, into Roger's daily life cycle.
1. Roger awakens somewhere around six a.m. most days and immediately looks at the Usenet posts.
2. Roger posts his filthy messages, most being only two or three minutes apart.
3. Roger claims that he goes to work. We know better.
4. Roger posts more messages/filth a couple hours later...around nine or ten a.m.
5. Rogie again posts his filthy diatribes...sometimes around two, three in the afternoon.

The ludicrous part of all this is that Roger claims that Usenet is for entertainment purposes only. Roger lies. And lies. And lies.
The reality of this is that Usenet is Roger's life...his only life and outlet. He is addicted to Usenet...his first chore upon awakening is to run to his computer to see what has been posted about him.
Rog...you are pretty much a loser, eh? Rotund old man, no social life, no nothing going for you...pretty much a loner with no friends, eh?
Take a break, Roger. Retreat into that dark little corner you have and read those dirty paperback sex books that you so often quote from. We understand your sickness. We laugh at you, but we understand.
You are such a pity...

Zitchey seems to have foirgotten:

February 7, 2001

CERTIFIED MAIL RETURN RECEIPT REQUESTED

Mr. George A. Ashley
1138 Collierville Arlington Road
Collierville, TN 38017

Subject: Warning Notice: Amateur Radio Station W4FQF

Dear Mr. Ashley:

Information before the Commission indicates that you have engaged in deliberate interference on the 75 Meter Amateur Band (3.901 MHz) at various times since October 2000. Some of the interference included tape recordings. We note that on January 7, 1999 you were warned about such activities on the 20- Meter Amateur Band.

This constitutes a second warning that any further incidents of such operation will result in enforcement action being taken against you, including license revocation, monetary forfeiture, or both.

Section 308(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 18 U.S.C. Section 308(b), gives the Commission the authority to obtain information from licensees about the operation of their station. Pursuant to Section 308(b), you are requested to respond to this letter within 20 days of the above date. You are also requested to furnish the following information.

1. Describe the radio transmitting equipment, including antennas, you have at the 1138 Collierville Arlington Road Address. State the manufacturer, model and serial number of each item. If any items were constructed or modified by you, describe the item in detail.

2. Describe any radio transmitting equipment, including antennas, you have at any other address in Tennessee. State the manufacturer, model and serial number of each item. If any items were constructed or modified by you, describe the item in detail.

Please be advised that Congress has made punishable a willfully false response to a letter of this type. See 18 U.S.C. Section 1001.

Sincerely,

W. Riley Hollingsworth

Special Counsel
Enforcement Bureau

Zitchey W4Fucking Queer Faggot had to inventory ALL his ham radio equipment or be NALed.
Zitchey then lied to his representative in Congress and weaseled his way outr of any subsequent action, but he must've had to get off the air, since he's never heard on the air anymore. Hopefully his diabetes will cause his death real soon and we can go piss on his grave.

CERTIFIED MAIL--RETURN RECEIPT REQUESTED

Mr. Roger L. Wiseman

610 Glen Haven Avenue

Glendale, WV 26038-1302

SUBJECT: Amateur Radio license KC8JBO

Dear Mr. Wiseman:

Pursuant to Section 97.519(d)(2) of the Commission's Rules, 47 C.F.R.
Section 97.519(d)(2), the Commission has the authority to re-administer any examination element previously administered by Volunteer Examiners (VE's).
The Commission may either administer the examination itself, or under the supervision of a Volunteer Examiner Coordinator (VEC) or VE designated by the Commission.

Accordingly, we are requiring you to re-take the General Class Amateur Examination, (Elements 2, 3(A) and 3(B)) under the supervision of an American Radio Relay League Volunteer Examiner Coordinator. This examination
must be completed on or before September 11, 2000. The required code speed that you must demonstrate is 5 words per minute.

Please be prepared to verify your current address and to present a photo identification. Pursuant to Commission rules, your license will be cancelled
if you do not appear for re-examination. You will be granted an Amateur Radio license consistent with the elements you pass upon re-examination.

Licensee of KC8JBO

Dear Messrs. Tunder and Wiseman:

The Commission has been made aware of an ongoing personal dispute between you, and there have been allegations of interference or jamming on the Twenty-Meter Band.

The purpose of this letter is to caution you both to review Section 97.1 of the Amateur Radio Service rules, and to make certain that whatever disputes that may exist are not carried over to Amateur Radio frequencies.

Please call me at 717-338-2502 if you have any questions about this matter.

Why is it that the FCC only has one warning letter, a cautionary letter to Gopher-face Turdeater and myself and one retest letter only on the Rain Report, fuckhead? Looks like you fucked up again.

>and even then you barely passed a lower classs
^^^

"What's "classs," dumbfucking Drew? Oh, that's something you don't have. And you can't even pass the General exam.

IRLP is the Internet Radio Linking Project -- a means of connecting amateur stations over the Internet. See http://www.irlp.net.

Because IRLP runs only under Linux, people using Windows often look for alternative solutions. Sometimes the ensuing debate leads to acrimony.

I was tooning across 75 meters last night and I could not find the Great Liberty NitwitNet anywhere! They seem to have been booted off their original frequency of 3.950 by a fine group of sourmash swillin good-ole-boys from 4-land.

What gives??

Either I was or wasn't jamming, make up your mind, Contradiction fatboy. The way you typed your sentence says " jamming sigs was coming from your qth darection (Ed

The next line says "it was you."

I already said I wasn't even home, dumbass, and I don't have a mobile setup yet, so how could I jam, dumbass? Must be like how you said I jammed with a Kenwood

Some of us may be liberal twits Dan, but we do know how to enjoy life, eat right, hold an open mind, accept alternate lifestyle individuals as equals, and reduce our risk of a stroke or heart disease worrying and/or being led about the nose by right-wing yahoos on

HA HA HA but Riley knows YOUR call sign CURTAINS BOY! and Riley is not too afraid to send you this:
```

GLENDALE, WV: The FCC wrote General licensee Roger L. Wiseman, AB8MQ on March 29, 2000, advising that it had been made aware of "an ongoing personal dispute" that included interference or jamming on 20 meters. FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth cautioned Wiseman to review ¬97.1 of the Amateur Radio rules and "to make certain that whatever disputes that may exist are not carried over to Amateur Radio frequencies." Hollingsworth invited AB8MQ to contact him to discuss the matter. Last November 9, the FCC sent Wiseman a Warning Notice in response to allegations of deliberate and malicious interference on 20 meters.

GLENDALE, WV: The FCC requested that Roger L. Wiseman, AB8MQ, retake the General examination elements under the supervision of an ARRL-VEC volunteer examiner team. Wiseman must appear for retesting by September 11, 2002, or his license will be canceled. Applicants appearing for re-examination
are granted an Amateur Radio license consistent with the elements passed.
The
FCC had written Wiseman on March 29, 2002, advising that it had been made aware of "an ongoing personal dispute" between Wiseman and another licensee that included allegations of interference or jamming on 20 meters. FCC Special Counsel for Amateur Radio Enforcement Riley Hollingsworth invited the two licensees to contact him to discuss the matter. Additionally, the FCC had sent Wiseman a Warning Notice last November in response to allegations of deliberate
and malicious interference on 20 meters.
